Chinese Landscape Painting as Western Art History James Elkins,2010-06-01 This is a provocative essay of reflections on traditional mainstream scholarship on Chinese art as done by towering figures in the field such as James Cahill and Wen Fong James Elkins offers an engaging and accessible survey of his personal journey encountering and interpreting Chinese art through Western scholars writings He argues that the search for optimal comparisons is itself a modern Western interest and that art history as a discipline is inherently Western in several identifiable senses Although he concentrates on art history in this book and on Chinese painting in particular these issues bear implications for Sinology in general and for wider questions about humanistic inquiry and historical writing Jennifer Purtle's Foreword provides a useful counterpoint from the perspective of a Chinese art specialist anticipating and responding to other specialists likely reactions to Elkins's hypotheses

Vision, Reflection, and Desire in Western Painting David Summers,2015-12-01 Spanning more than 2 500 years in the history of art Vision Reflection and Desire in Western Painting demonstrates how the rise and diffusion of the science of optics in ancient Greece and the Mediterranean world correlated to pictorial illusion in the development of Western painting from Hellenistic Greece to the present Using examples from the late Middle Ages and the Renaissance David Summers argues that scene painting architectural backdrops and shadow painting in which forms are modeled or shown as if in relation to a source of light not only evolved in close association with geometric optics toward the end of the fifth century B C E but also contributed substantially to the foundations of the new science The spread of understanding of how light is transmitted reflected and refracted is evident in the works of artists such as Brunelleschi van Eyck Alberti and Leonardo The interplay between optics and painting that influenced the course of Western art Summers says persisted as a framework for the realism of Caravaggio Rembrandt and Goya and continues today in modern photography and film
