Perspectives On Flood 1998:

Perspectives on Flood 1998, 2000 Contributed articles presented at a seminar in 1998 Flood Problem and Management in South Asia M. Monirul Qader Mirza, Ajaya Dixit, Ainun Nishat, 2013-03-09 Flood Problem and Management in South Asia focuses on both the hazard and the vulnerability aspects of floods This book addresses floods in South Asia from a multidisciplinary approach The characteristics and nature of the flood problem and its management aspects are examined It is suggested that flood control and management focused on structural solutions using embankments and reservoirs are insufficient Effective solutions must go beyond structural measures and require major restructuring of both legal systems and institutions responsible for management For those people living in the vast flood plains of South Asia to be able to overcome social economic and environmental vulnerabilities an adaptive approach to management of flood risks that identifies specific strategies is needed Echinoderms: Munchen Thomas Heinzeller, James H. Nebelsick, 2005-12-08

Since 1972 scientists from all over the world working on fundamental questions of echinoderm biology and palaeontology have conferred every three years to exchange current views and results The 11th International Echinoderm Conference held at the University of Munich Germany from 6-10 October 2003 continued this tradition This volume comprises 95 submitted papers and 96 abstracts covering a wide spectrum from innovative student contributions to the lessons learnt from experienced specialists The content of the contributions ranges from original research results to the latest synopses concerning a variety of topics including visual sensing larval cloning mutable collagenous tissues sea urchin aquaculture deuterostome phylogeny palaeobiology and taphonomy Global Environmental Changes in South Asia A.P. Mitra, C. Sharma, 2012-03-05

The Fourth Assessment Report of IPCC having clinched in 2007 the evidence of global warming on account of anthropogenic activities backed with scientific data gathered and analyzed globally has made it mandatory world over to focus efforts on delineation of the anticipated adverse impacts of global warming on regional temperature and moisture regimes and the linked hydrologic climatic and biospheric processes First and foremost is the requirement to understand vulnerability to food and livelihood security in various ecosystems on mainland mid range and high mountains as well as coastal areas including CEZs The projected global temperature rise of the order of about two degrees or more and further rise at a decadal rate of around 0.2°C is sufficient to make grievous changes in sea surface level and submerge many low lying coastal areas around the world thereby possibly causing unprecedented losses to human habitat and livelihood in the coming years A rise in climate variability is also becoming increasingly evident with potential direct impact on agricultural performance on water accessibility and on weather extremes Developing countries due to their poor infrastructure limited resources and large impoverished population are likely to face more intense and widespread adverse impact of climate change than the developed world and also have limited adaptation capacity Climate Change in the Indo-Pacific Faisal Ahmed, Mohammed Faheem, 2025-05-30 This book explores multifarious policy dimensions relevant to climate change and its associated vulnerabilities in the Indo Pacific region The essays in the volume focus on Climate resilience in terms of policy implementation at the local national and regional levels in Asia Pacific Understanding climate change through the lens of non traditional security Assesses geo economic and geopolitical impacts and adaptation strategies Examines issues of climate refugees and migration The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of politics public policy environment and sustainability studies climate action and Indo Pacific studies

Flood Planning Jeroen Warner, 2011-02-28 Floods are amongst the most common and devastating natural disasters In the wake of such an event the pressure to initiate flood protection schemes that will provide security is enormous and politicians promise quick solutions in the national interest Jeroen Warner examines a number of such projects from around the world the Middle East South Asia and Western Europe aimed at the prevention of serious flooding Each provoked a level of controversy unforeseen by its initiators with the result that schemes were shelved were not completed or simply failed The author shows how such projects inevitably become politicized as different stakeholders seek to promote their interests
