San Antonio Nexapa Helen Humphreys Seargeant,1952 Mexico and Guatemala ... Josiah Conder,1830 Los Empresarios alemanes, el Tercer Reich y la oposición de derecha a Cárdenas Brígida von Mentz,1988 From the Grounds Up Casey Marina Lurtz,2019-04-23 In the late nineteenth century Latin American exports boomed From Chihuahua to Patagonia producers sent industrial fibers tropical fruits and staple goods across oceans to satisfy the ever increasing demand from foreign markets In southern Mexico s Soconusco district the coffee trade would transform rural life A regional history of the Soconusco as well as a study in commodity capitalism From the Grounds Up places indigenous and mestizo villagers migrant workers and local politicians at the center of our understanding of the export boom An isolated impoverished backwater for most of the nineteenth century by 1920 the Soconusco had transformed into a small but vibrant node in the web of global commerce Alongside plantation owners and foreign investors a dense but little explored web of small time producers shopowners and laborers played key roles in the rapid expansion of export production Their deep engagement with rural development challenges the standard top down narrative of market integration led by economic elites allied with a strong state Here Casey Marina Lurtz argues that the export boom owed its success to a diverse body of players whose choices had profound impacts on Latin America s export driven economy during the first era of globalization The modern traveller [by J. Conder]. Josiah Conder,1825 Globalization and the Time-space Reorganization Alessandro Bonanno,Josefa Salete Barbosa Cavalcanti,2011-02-24 Explores capital mobility under globalization by studying some of its salient consequences in agriculture and food in North and South America This title probes the manner in which capital mobility alters the organization of the temporal and spatial dimensions that characterize the reproduction of capital The Modern Traveller: A popular description, geographical, historical and topographical, of Mexico and Guatemala [sic Josiah Conder,1830 Bulletin of the Chicago Academy of Sciences Chicago Academy of Sciences,1945

Constructing Citizenship Catherine A. Nolan-Ferrell,2012-05 During the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries people living in the coffee producing region of the Sierra Madre mountains along the Pacific Coast of Mexico and Guatemala paid little attention to national borders The Mexican Revolution particularly during the 1930s reconstruction phase ruptured economic and social continuity because access to revolutionary reforms depended on claiming Mexican national identity Impoverished often indigenous rural workers on both sides of the border used shifting ideas of citizenship and cultural belonging to gain power and protect their economic and social interests With this book Catherine Nolan Ferrell builds on recent theoretical approaches to state formation and transnationalism to explore the ways that governments elites and marginalized laborers claimed and contested national borders By investigating how various groups along the Mexico Guatemala border negotiated nationality Constructing Citizenship offers insights into the complex development of transnational communities the links between identity and citizenship and the challenges of integrating disparate groups into a cohesive nation Entwined with a labor history of rural workers Nolan Ferrell also shows how labor struggles were a way for poor Mexicans and migrant Guatemalans to assert claims to national political power and social inclusion Combining oral histories with documentary research from local regional and national archives to provide a complete picture of how rural laborers along Mexico s southern border experienced the years before during and after the Mexican Revolution this book will appeal not only to Mexicanists but also to scholars interested in transnational identity border studies social justice and labor history
