Sandra At Your Service:

The Work of the Service Complaints Commissioner for the Armed Forces Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee, 2013-02-26 It is accepted that the steady increase in the level of Service complaints made directly to the chain of command or referred by the Commissioner may indicate an increasing level of confidence in the system However there is concern noting the Commissioner's comments regarding a much lower rate of annual increase in contacts about matters that could become Service complaints compared to the first three years that her post had existed This concern is heightened by other organisations such as the Service Families Federations reporting lower levels of contact from Service personnel solicitors reporting an increase in the number of individuals approaching them as they felt the Commissioner had no powers and the increase in the number of people not pursuing matters with the Commissioner after initial contact for the same reason There is also concern that the Commissioner and others are reporting that fears of redundancy among Service personnel appear to be deterring them from making Service complaints It is unacceptable that Service personnel who believe they have a genuine grievance in relation to redundancy or any other matter are reluctant to seek redress and resolution of the matter through the appropriate channels because they fear the consequences of making a complaint As a matter of urgency the MoD and the Commissioner should investigate this matter The Service Complaints Commissioner role is an integral part of honouring the Armed Forces Covenant and whilst there has been progress made in delivering a fair just and efficient Service complaints system there is still a long way to go

Crafting Service Processes Jean Harvey, 2019-03-28 As the title makes clear this book is about the design and delivery of service experiences This includes the design of installations facilities technologies and scripts used in the staging of such experiences It introduces the reader to many fundamental notions in service operations from positioning to execution with much attention paid to human experiences such as those of customers and service workers be they performing simple repetitive tasks or complex mental tasks The subject is treated in an user friendly manner with a storytelling context focusing initially on every day services coffee shops fast food supermarkets and then moving on to complex services lawyers physicians engineers accountants Contrary to popular hype not all service experiences are meant to be memorable If all you need is a cup of coffee and this is done quickly effortlessly and painlessly that's good If there's a little plus along the way that's better you'll make a mental note that this is a good place to stop next time you are in the area In an age of exponential
