Paintings and Sculptures: Where Do We Look First? Magali Seille, Zoi Kapoula, 2023-05-16 The book presents three studies in which eye tracking data were collected at the Musée des Beaux Arts in Rouen in June and July 2013 Overall the results of those three studies highlight the knowledge gained from the analysis of the very first saccade in a museum context when people look at paintings and statues The first study analyzes how viewers orient their first saccade on paintings This study shows that in a museum the first saccade is attracted toward the center of paintings This attraction toward the paintings center is found in all the subjects groups that we have studied Noteworthy

this effect is significantly less pronounced in individuals who never visit museums It is among amateurs who often visit museums that the center attracts the most the first saccade Among experts painters or art history teachers and to a lesser extent among amateurs the pictorial composition largely determines the orientation of the first saccade We indeed found that as soon as the first saccade experts orient their gaze toward the main subject This phenomenon seems to be explained by the fact that experts immediately orient their gaze here measured as the first saccade toward the paintings location conveying the most meaning It can either be the center or a peripheral area depending on whether the paintings most meaningful subject is located centrally or peripherally The second study shows that the center does not attract the first saccade in 5 year old children This behavior appears later in 8 to 10 year old children However noticeably the 8 10 year old children orient significantly less frequently their first saccade toward the paintings center as adults do and this is also true when one considers non expert adult viewers The results of the third study focus on statues and reveal a very different oculomotor behavior Indeed rather than looking at the center statues viewers exhibit a clear tendency to saccade first at the statues contours This stands in contrast with the behavior that we observe with paintings Our study concludes that statues trigger a specific oculomotor behavior The latter appears to be mostly driven by the physical presence that stone bodies incarnate The movement and the climax of this movement that sculptors manage to convey thus turn out to attract the gaze in a unique fashion The book concludes that the first saccade is a powerful indicator of the oculomotor behavior that greatly improves our comprehension of the unique relationship between a viewer and artworks independence from literature as it liberated itself from narrative obligations whilst interrogating the concept of subject matter itself. Simultaneously the influence of art on the writing styles of authors increased and the character of the artist established itself as a recurring motif in French literature. This book offers a panoramic review of the relationship between art and literature in nineteenth century France. By means of a series of case studies chosen from key moments throughout the nineteenth century the aim of this study is to provide a focused analysis of specific examples of this relationship revealing both its multifaceted nature as well as offering a panorama of the development of this on going and increasingly complex cultural relationship. From Jacques Louis David's irreverence for classical texts to Victor Hugo's graphic works from Edouard Manet's illustrations to Vincent Van Gogh's paintings of books from Honoré de Balzac's Unknown Masterpiece to Joris Karl Huysmans's A Rebours this interdisciplinary investigation of the links between literature and art in France throws new light on both fields of creative endeavour during a critical phase of France's cultural history.

Activity-Based Teaching in the Art Museum Elliot Kai-Kee, Lissa Latina, Lilit Sadoyan, 2020-01-21 This groundbreaking book explores why and how to encourage physical and sensory engagement with works of art. An essential resource for museum professionals, teachers and students, the award-winning Teaching in the Art Museum (Getty Publications, 2011) set a new standard in the field of gallery education. This follow up book blends theory and practice to help educators from teachers and docents to curators and parents create meaningful interpretive activities for children and adults. Written by a team of veteran museum educators, Activity Based Teaching in the Art Museum offers diverse perspectives on embodiment, emotions, empathy and mindfulness to inspire imaginative, spontaneous interactions that are firmly grounded in history and theory. The authors begin by surveying the emergence of activity based teaching in the 1960s and 1970s and move on to articulate a theory of play as the cornerstone of their innovative methodology. The volume is replete with sidebars describing activities facilitated with museum visitors of all ages.
