Walker-Smith, A. S. McNeish, 2013-10-22 Diarrhoea and Malnutrition in Childhood is derived from a conference of pediatric gastroenterologists from around the world held in London at the Royal Commonwealth Society and St Bartholomew's Hospital on November 5-7 1984. They collaborate to create a source that would educate people from developed and developing communities regarding the topic. The book first tackles the connections between diarrhea and malnutrition and then provides a model that further explains the relationship. The authors suggest that poverty is the main cause of the two abnormal conditions and they refer to books and studies of the topic by respected figures in the industry. Bacteria that cause the two diseases and the diseases' variations are also covered. Other topics discussed in the book are parasites in the intestine, schemes on how to improve nutrition, importance of breast feeding and role that the parts of the human body play during illness. This book will serve as a valuable reference for doctors, researchers and even casual readers.

Journal of the Royal College of Physicians of London Royal College of Physicians of London, 1991 Molecular and Clinical Aspects of Bacterial Vaccine Development Dlawer A. A. Ala'Aldeen, Carlos E. Hormaeche, 1995-08-08. Preventable bacterial infections continue to be a major hazard to human health in an age which has experienced a proliferation in readily available vaccines for such diseases. Molecular and Clinical Aspects of Bacterial Vaccine Development examines the latest developments in bacterial vaccinology and the impact they have had on the control of bacterial infections by comprehensively reviewing old, current and future vaccines. Ten of the most globally prevalent bacterial pathogens are covered, providing an in-depth analysis of novel strategies for vaccine design and of the state-of-the-art technology available in this field. This timely and authoritative review of vaccine development will be an essential source of information for scientists, clinicians and public health specialists as well as postgraduate students in relevant fields.
