Multilingual Lexicon:

The Multilingual Lexicon Jasone Cenoz, Britta Hufeisen, U. Jessner, 2003-08-31 This volume is a response both to the increasing interest in multilingual phenomena and lexical issues in language learning. It is of interest to scholars and graduate students interested in bi and multilingualism, second and multiple language acquisition, language processing and language learning, mental lexicon, applied linguistics, psycho and neurolinguistics, and language teaching. Recent research on third language acquisition and trilingualism has made clear that most multilingual studies actually deal with vocabulary learning or the lexicon. So far, books on the mental lexicon have mainly been concerned with two languages in contact. This book is unique because it explores the multilingual lexicon by providing insights from research studies conducted in psycholinguistics, applied linguistics, and neurolinguistics. It goes beyond the use of two languages and thus concentrates on a new and developing area in linguistic research. The different perspectives included in this volume provide a link to the mainstream work on the lexicon and vocabulary acquisition and will stimulate further debate in these areas and in the study of multilingualism.

The multilingual lexicon. An overview of research, 2018-03-08 Seminar paper from the year 2017 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies / Linguistics, grade 1, University of Innsbruck, language English, abstract: This paper presents an overview of research on the multilingual lexicon as well as the highly complex storage of words in the multilingual mind. Furthermore, it deals with word recognition processes and discusses the issue of a language selective versus language nonselective access. The second part of this paper is concerned with the various ways in which different languages are interconnected and influence each other. Based on this, the phenomenon of codeswitching is illustrated as a widespread example of crosslinguistic interaction in the multilingual lexicon. This paper aims at presenting an overview of the complex characteristics of the multilingual lexicon. It should also give an idea of the immense amount of linguistic knowledge that is stored and processed within the multilingual mind and most importantly emphasize the significant linguistic awareness and cognitive skills that multilinguals display.

Multilingual Lexical Recognition in the Mental Lexicon of Third Language Users Weronika Szubko-Sitarek, 2014-10-07 The monograph constitutes an attempt to demonstrate that trilinguals should be considered as learners and speakers in their own right as opposed to L2 learners with a view to enumerating consequences this would bring to third or additional language teaching. Its theoretical part offers an insight into the structure of the multilingual mental lexicon, which is a product of the interplay of a whole array of cross-linguistic factors in the minds of multilingual speakers. The empirical part reports the findings of an empirical study which aimed to investigate connections which are formed between multiple languages in a multilingual mind. All the aspects analyzed in the experiments are part of a broader question of how multilinguals make their lexical decisions and more specifically how they recognize words from different languages. The book closes with the discussion of the role of the obtained results for multilingual didactics as well as some possible areas for future research.

Speech and Language Disorders in

Bilinguals

Alfredo Ardila, Eliane Ramos, 2007 During the last years a significant number of papers books and monographs devoted to speech and language impairments in bilingual children have been published Different aspects and questions have been approached and today we have a relatively good understanding of the specific characteristics of the speech and language difficulties potentially observed in bilingual and multilingual children This interest has been significantly resulted from the potential developmental and educational consequences of bilingualism Our understanding of the communication disorders in adult populations is notoriously more limited even though over 50% of the adult population can speak at least another language in addition to his her native language That simply means that over 50% of the communication disorders observed in adults are bilingual speech and language disorders bilingual aphasias bilingual dementias bilingual stuttering etc This book was written with the specific purpose of filling this gap The major purpose of this book has been to integrate the state of the art on the different aspects of the communication disorders observed in adult bilinguals The book is organised in such a way that an integrated perspective of bilingualism is presented from the normal conditions to the pathology from the clinical descriptions to the rehabilitation issues from the biological factors to the cultural variables

Multidisciplinary Perspectives on Multilingualism Simona Montanari, Suzanne Quay, 2019-10-08 Multilingualism is a typical aspect of everyday life for most of the world's population it has existed since the beginning of humanity and among individuals of all backgrounds Nonetheless it has often been treated as a variant of bilingualism or as a phenomenon unique to individual areas of study The purpose of this book is to review current knowledge about the acquisition use and loss of multiple languages using a multidisciplinary perspective highlighting the common themes and stimulating insights that can emerge when multilingualism is viewed from different but related areas of investigation. The chapters focus on research evidence showing that multilingualism is a complex phenomenon that involves a myriad of linguistic and extra linguistic forces and that should be studied in its own right as evidence of human potential and capacity for language. The book is primarily addressed to students and scholars interested in deepening their understanding of the different facets of multilingualism including the individual and societal circumstances that contribute to it, the cognitive and neural mechanisms that make it possible and the dynamics involved in the acquisition, use and loss of multiple languages. Linguistic Knowledge in Cross-language Information Retrieval Bärbel Ripplinger, 2002 Working with Text and Around Text in Foreign Language Environments Halina Chodkiewicz, Piotr Steinbrich, Małgorzata Krzemińska-Adamek, 2016-06-28 This book investigates the three pivotal points of text for foreign language acquisition: reception, construction and deconstruction. In Part One, the focus is on various aspects of text reception such as developing literacy, text interest and perceptions of the academic register or the assessment of spoken language in educational contexts. Part Two deals with various aspects of composing text such as author identity, lexical constructs or collaborative web-based writing. Lastly, Part Three presents the various segmental items that constitute text like lexical clustering, L1/L2 relationship, classroom talk as text etc. The division corresponds with what can be viewed as a logical sequence of text-related processes reflected in formal learning and teaching environments. On the Dynamics of Early Multilingualism Barbara Hofer, 2015-07-01 This book contributes to current issues in TLA and multilingualism research. It discusses multilingual learning and development from a Dynamic Systems Theory perspective. The author argues that trilingual education does not harm or confuse young learners but that the teaching of three languages from an early age carries positive implications for children's linguistic, metalinguistic and crosslinguistic awareness.

Cognitive Processing in Second Language Acquisition Martin Pütz, Laura Sicola, 2010 This edited volume represents state-of-the-field research linking cognition and second language acquisition, reflecting the experience of the learner when engaged in noticing, input/output processing, retrieval and even attrition of target forms. Contributions are both theoretical and practical, describing a variety of L1/L2 and L3 combinations from around the world as observed in spoken, written and computer-mediated contexts. The book relates conditions of language task, medium or environment to how learners make decisions about language, with discussions about the application or efficacy of these conditions on linguistic success and development and pedagogical implications.
