Political and Judicial Rights through the Prism of Religious Belief Carl Sterkens, Hans-Georg Ziebertz, 2018-10-24 This innovative volume is focused on the relationship between religion on the one hand and political and judicial rights on the other At a time when the so called checks and balances that guarantee the vulnerable equilibrium between legislative executive and judicial branches of governance are increasingly under pressure this book offers valuable insights It presents empirical work that has measured young people s attitudes and explains the variety found across their views Readers will find answers to the question To what extent do youths in different countries support political and judicial human rights and what influences their attitudes towards these rights The political rights in this question include among others active and passive voting right the right to protest and the rights of refugees Judicial rights refer in general to the right of a fair trial and include principles like equality before the law the right to independent and impartial judgement the presumption of innocence the right to legal counsel and the privilege against self incrimination Expert contributing authors look at aspects such as religious beliefs and practices personal evaluation of state authorities and personality characteristics The authors discuss contextual determinants for attitudes towards political and judicial rights in both theory and empirical indicators Numerous helpful tables and figures support the written word This book makes an original contribution to research through the empirical clarification of factors that induce or reduce people s support of political and judicial rights It will appeal to graduates and researchers in religious studies philosophy or sociology of religion among other disciplines but it will also interest the general reader who is concerned with matters of human rights and social justice

The Prism of the Self S.G. Crowell, 2013-03-09 This volume contains sOOeen essays written by his students and colleagues in honor of Maurice Natanson The essays explore some of the diverse themes Professor Natanson has pursued through forty years of teaching and philosophizing in the tradition of existential phenomenology Because it also includes a lengthy biographical and philosophical interview where one can find an absorbing account of Natanson's Lebens au in his own words there is no need to detail that polypragmatic career here Suffice to say that even passing acquaintance with the man and the work will reveal that Edmund Husserl's self description holds equally of his distinguished interpreter I seek not to instruct but only to lead to point out and describe what I see I claim no other right than that of speaking according to my best lights principally before myself but in the same manner also before others as one who has lived in all its seriousness the fate of a philosophical existence I For Natanson as the diversity of the contributions to this volume attest such seriousness involves something other than that narrow technical vision for which a topic is the more philosophical the less it has to do with anything else In Natanson's pages to say nothing of his teaching and conversation there are no men of straw but living breathing human beings with hirn philosophy's tentacles are ubiquitous

Design and Mounting of Prisms and Small Mirrors in Optical Instruments Paul R. Yoder, 1998 This text examines the various ways in which prisms and small mirrors typically are designed and mounted in optical instruments It provides analytical tools for evaluating different designs and discusses the advantages and disadvantages of various techniques The book in part is an outgrowth of SPIE short courses taught by the author and is a companion to his 1995 volume Mounting Lenses in Optical Instruments The work should be useful for engineers and other practitioners in the fields of optical engineering and optomechanical design

Prism, Seeing the World Through the Hearts of People with Special Needs Kerry Boudreaux, 2014-03-13 Prism Seeing the World Through the Hearts of People with Special Needs is a unique perspective into what is possible when you share in the life of someone with special needs Kerry Boudreaux was living a typical American life until the unexpected happened He and his wife received the diagnosis that Kate their third daughter had Down syndrome Kerry shares Life Glimpses from his experiences of rearing a daughter with special needs What he thought and anticipated was going to unfold versus what has actually happened are two totally different tales Whether you're searching for some perspective as a new or expectant parent or you're a family member of a child with special needs or perhaps you just want an enjoyable read Prism Seeing the World Through the Hearts of People with Special Needs will be informative entertaining and inspirational

Gazing Through a Prism Darkly B. Keith Putt, 2009-08-25 Merold Westphal has been in the foremost ranks of philosophers who proclaim a new postsecular philosophy By articulating an epistemology sensitive to the realities of cognitive finitude and moral weakness he defends a wisdom that begins in both humility and commitment one that always confesses that human beings can encounter meaning and truth only as human beings never as gods The present volume focuses on this wisdom of humility that characterizes Westphal's thought and explores how that wisdom expressed through the redemptive dynamic of doubt can contribute to developing a postsecular apologetic for faith This book can function both as an accessible introduction to Westphal for those who have not read him extensively and also as an informed critical appreciation and extension of his work for those who are more experienced readers
