

The background of the image is a photograph of a massive, dark rock face, likely El Capitan in Yosemite National Park. The rock face is partially covered in green moss or lichen. In the distance, a valley with a river and other mountains is visible under a hazy, orange-tinted sky, suggesting a sunrise or sunset. A large, semi-transparent text box is overlaid on the right side of the image, containing a paragraph of text.

When you are raised in a place like Cadiz, in a time like ours, you learned the signs. The absolute silence, followed by the soft, near imperceptible click of metal against stone. The soft whir of gears just loud enough to announce itself. The Vath rarely sent men to our homes. When they did – well. The cruelty of men knew few bounds. So there was some relief when the first body through the door was an Imperial droid, chrome and silver, its body etched in cruel, sharp designs.
