dense forest which came down to the water's edge concealed from view any village that might have been near us but the presence of smoke arising from various spots denoted that there were some natives living in the vicinity though we could not see any canoes We brought to about half a mile from the shore Two boats were at once lowered manned and armed and under the captain's guidance set out to search for water which we knew we should have but little difficulty in finding even on the south coast of New Britain which is not nearly so well watered as the northern shore of the island In the captain's boat were six men besides himself I was in charge of the covering boat manned by six native seamen and carrying three water casks all we could stow Pulling in together close to the shore the captain then went ahead my boat following at the regulation distance of fifty yards only four hands rowing in each leaving four men to keep a look out for natives

Reflective Practice in Psychotherapy and Counselling Jacqui Stedmon, Rudi Dallos, 2009-10-16 Reflective Practice has become established as an essential feature of practice in psychotherapy and counselling in the UK Europe USA and some other parts of the world However the writing on reflective practice is arguably fragmented and scattered and much of it is highly theoretical and abstract This book draws together conceptual and ethical issues regarding reflective practice including the meaning and development of the orientation More importantly it connects theory to day to day practice in psychotherapy and counselling addressing issues such as What does reflective practice look like in practice How do we develop the skills in carrying it out What ways does it assist practice The book offers an exploration of reflective practice within different models of psychotherapy and counselling CBT psycho dynamic and narrative systemic family therapy narrative and community approaches Throughout it employs a range of illustrations from a variety of clinical contexts to illustrate reflective practice in action These include work with children and families adult mental health trauma and abuse learning disability youth offending and bereavement and loss The mix of theoretical background along with practical examples and exercises will be key for students and practitioners in the fields of psychotherapy and counselling The book will be a spur to readers to challenge dominant assumptions and modes of clinical practice and help them fulfil the compulsory requirement for a reflective practice element in their training

Creative Construing Jörn W. Scheer, Kenneth W. Sewell, 2006 The Psychology of Personal Constructs as devised by the American psychologist George Kelly stresses the importance of the meanings that individuals attach to persons and events in the world surrounding them Originating in clinical psychology it has increasingly attracted the interest of scholars and practitioners working in education in organisations and in other disciplines working with people As there are hardly more personal processes than creative ones it seems appropriate to look at the arts from a personal construct psychology perspective This book presents for the first time analyses of creative processes but it features also personal accounts by creative people who write sing dance act and make music

Discourses of Psychological Trauma Nikki Kiyimba, Christina Buxton, Jo Shuttleworth, Emily Pathe, 2022-07-20 This book offers a critical perspective of the dominant discourses within the field of psychological trauma It provides a challenge to normative western constructs and unsettles assumptions about accepted notions of universality and the nature of trauma. Traditionally the concept of psychological trauma has been widely accepted within mental health professions. However in a post positivist era the language of mental health is shifting and making room for alternative discourses that include wider contextual influences such as the impact of sociological cultural and technological developments. These wider discourses are illuminated as the authors draw together some of these arguments into one accessible text. Rather than claim definitive answers to the issues raised readers are invited to engage with the discussions presented in order to position themselves in relation to the range of trauma discourses available. Pompili, 2022-12-19 This book explores suicide prevention perspectives from around the world considering both professionals points of view as well as first person accounts from suicidal individuals. Scholars around the globe have puzzled over what makes a person suicidal and what is in the minds of those individuals who die by suicide. Most often the focus is not on the motives for suicide nor on the phenomenology of this act but on what is found from small cohorts of suicidal individuals. This book offers a tentative synthesis of a complex phenomenon and sheds some light on models of suicide that are less frequently encountered in the literature. Written by international experts it makes a valuable contribution to the field of suicidology that appeals to a wide readership from mental health professionals to researchers in suicidology and students. King Zeno

Praise for King Zeno: King Zeno is a great detective novel a fitting tribute to the Crescent City. It's a rich gumbo of ingredients and Rich stirs them effectively combining a lyrical impressionistic style with a sure handed grasp of the historical moment. A heady mix of literary thriller and high end historical fiction. Booklist King Zeno excels at immersing the reader in the narrative. Publishers Weekly
