San Francisco's Potrero Hill Peter Linenthal, Abigail Johnston, Potrero Hill Archives Project, 2005-07-27 In the early 1800s it was called the Potrero Nuevo or new pasture Gold rush squatters soon put the squeeze on Mission Dolores grazing cattle and when the fog lifted Potrero Hill became the first industrial zone in San Francisco with iron smelting plants butcheries and shipbuilding dominating the waterfront during the late 19th century The Hill has been home to immigrants from Scotland Ireland China Russia Mexico and from everywhere in between These days many of the factories and warehouses have been converted into housing and offices for techies And for the record the crookedest street in San Francisco is not Lombard its Vermont between 20th and 22nd Potrero Hill Peter Linenthal, Abigail Johnston, 2009-04-01 A neighborhood in the southeast corner of San Francisco Potrero Hill enjoys some of the city's finest weather and most spectacular views Once pastureland and home to immigrants working in the shipbuilding industries Potrero Hill was long ignored by guidebooks Now The Hill is regenerating and these pages highlight what is gone and what remains on these sunny slopes Potrero Hill: Tales of San Francisco's Industrial Heart Pasquale De Marco, 2025-08-11 Journey to the heart of San Francisco's Potrero Hill a neighborhood pulsating with history culture and transformation This captivating book takes you on an immersive exploration of its industrial roots vibrant community and ever changing identity From its humble beginnings as grazing pastures to its rise as an industrial powerhouse Potrero Hill has witnessed the ebb and flow of time leaving behind a rich tapestry of stories and experiences Discover the tales of immigrants who came from distant shores bringing their dreams and traditions to this welcoming community Uncover the hidden gems and local lore that make Potrero Hill a beloved destination Admire the murals that adorn its walls stroll along the crookedest street in San Francisco and delve into the diverse culinary scene that tantalizes taste buds with flavors from around the world Potrero Hill's transformation from an industrial hub to a thriving tech center has brought new energy and opportunities while also posing challenges to its traditional character This book delves into the delicate balance between preserving the neighborhood's rich history and embracing the possibilities of the future Meet the people who have shaped Potrero Hill's identity from early settlers to present day residents Hear their stories of resilience perseverance and the pursuit of a better life Explore the forces that are shaping the neighborhood's destiny from gentrification and displacement to community activism and advocacy With vivid storytelling and stunning imagery this book captures the essence of Potrero Hill a neighborhood where the past present and future converge It is a celebration of its unique character a tribute to its people and an exploration of the forces that are shaping its ever evolving identity If you like this book write a review Building Community in San Francisco's Potrero Hill Neighborhood Kassie Lyn Dumlao Bertumen, 2015 Trauma Informed Community Building TICB is a new approach to community development that utilizes a trauma lens when engaging with communities that have been negatively impacted by concentrations of poverty and crime social isolation and economic disinvestment TICB first acknowledges the adverse effects persistent trauma has on individuals and communities and how these effects challenge traditional community building strategies The practice involves a set of intentional strategies at every level of the social ecological model individual interpersonal community and system to reduce the amount of chaos and stressors in individuals lives to build social cohesion among neighbors and institutions and to foster community resiliency over time By implementing these strategies the authors hypothesize individuals will increase their readiness for change which in turn lays the foundation and support for effective program and service delivery and sustainable individual and community change They argue these two outcomes are critical when working with trauma impacted communities that are undergoing any kind of major transition and disruptions i e housing redevelopment and or relocation TICB was created by BRIDGE Housing Corporation BRIDGE a nonprofit affordable housing developer in the U S Pacific Northwest based off of its six years of community building experience in San Francisco s Potrero Hill neighborhood as part of the master redevelopment of Potrero Terrace Annex public housing under San Francisco s HOPE SF initiative In this thesis I utilize the case study methodology and mixed method techniques to explore what it means to approach community building with a trauma lens I explore the evolution implementation and early impacts of TICB at Potrero Terrace Annex and I assess the value of TICB s framework as a whole and key lessons learned and challenges Specifically I examine the extent to which BRIDGE s community building activities have positively impacted the social dynamics of the economically and socially diverse North and South side Potrero Hill communities increased public housing residents civic participation and capacity and helped transform systems namely democratic processes and public education I conclude with recommendations to inform policy practice and future research
