Lippert, Sean Rehaag, 2013 Sanctuary Practices in International Perspectives examines the diverse complex and mutating practice of providing sanctuary to asylum seekers The ancient tradition of church sanctuary underwent a revival in the late 1970s Immigrants living without legal status and their supporters first in the United Kingdom and then in the US Canada and elsewhere in Europe have resorted to sanctuary practices to avoid and resist arrest and deportation by state authorities Sanctuary appeared amidst a dramatic rise in asylum seekers arriving in Western countries and a simultaneous escalation in national and international efforts to discourage and control their arrival and presence through myriad means including deportation This collection of papers by prominent US European Canadian and Japanese scholars is the first to place contemporary sanctuary practices in international theoretical and historical perspective Moving beyond isolated case studies of sanctuary activities and movements it reveals sanctuary as a far more complex varied theoretically rich and institutionally adaptable set of practices

Sanctuary in the Wilderness Alan Mintz, 2011-12-14 The effort to create a serious Hebrew literature in the United States in the years around World War I is one of the best kept secrets of American Jewish history Hebrew had been revived as a modern literary language in nineteenth century Russia and then taken to Palestine as part of the Zionist revolution But the overwhelming majority of Jewish emigrants from Eastern Europe settled in America and a passionate kernel among them believed that Hebrew provided the vehicle for modernizing the Jewish people while maintaining their connection to Zion These American Hebraists created schools journals newspapers and most of all a high literary culture focused on producing poetry Sanctuary in the Wilderness is a critical introduction to American Hebrew poetry focusing on a dozen key poets This secular poetry began with a preoccupation with the situation of the individual in a disenchanted world and then moved outward to engage American vistas and Jewish fate and hope in midcentury American Hebrew poets hoped to be read in both Palestine and America but were disappointed on both scores Several moved to Israel and connected with the vital literary

Catalog of Books, 1996 Political Literacy in Composition and Rhetoric Donald Lazere, 2015-07-20 In Political Literacy in Composition and Rhetoric Donald Lazere calls for revival of NCTE resolutions in the 1970s for teaching the critical reading listening viewing and thinking skills necessary to enable students to cope with the persuasive techniques in political statements advertising entertainment and news and explores the reasons these goals have been eclipsed in composition studies over recent decades Obstacles to those goals have included the emphasis in the profession on basic and first year writing at the expense of more advanced study in argumentative rhetoric and on the privileging of students' personal writing over critical study of both academic and political discourse Lazere further argues that theorists who legitimately champion students' pluralistic local communities sometimes fail to recognize that liberal education can enable students to grow beyond their home cultures to critical awareness of national and international politics Finally he argues that the fixation in recent composition studies on liberally inclined students and communities on the margins has eclipsed attention to the conservative conformity long prevalent in mainstream American society and education His proposals for curriculum and pedagogy seek to introduce students to a more highly informed cogent and open ended
