New Zealand Women In China:

A History of New Zealand Women Barbara Brookes, 2016-02-15 What would a history of New Zealand look like that rejected Thomas Carlyle's definition of history as the biography of great men and focused instead on the experiences of women One that shifted the angle of vision and examined the stages of this country's development from the points of view of wives daughters mothers grandmothers sisters and aunts That considered their lives as distinct from though often unwillingly influenced by those of history's great men In her ground breaking History of New Zealand Women Barbara Brookes provides just such a history This is more than an account of women in New Zealand from those who arrived on the first waka to the Grammy and Man Booker Prize winning young women of the current decade It is a comprehensive history of New Zealand seen through a female lens Brookes argues that while European men erected the political scaffolding to create a small nation women created the infrastructure necessary for colonial society to succeed Concepts of home marriage and family brought by settler women and integral to the developing state transformed the lives of M ori women The small scale of New Zealand society facilitated rapid change so that by the twenty first century women are no longer defined by family contexts In her long awaited book Barbara Brookes traces the factors that drove that change Her lively narrative draws on a wide variety of sources to map the importance in women's lives not just of legal and economic changes but of smaller joys such as the arrival of a piano from England or the freedom of riding a bicycle Home Away from Home Manying Ip, 1990 A study of the changing Chinese community in NZ through the autobiographical accounts of eight women Locating Chinese Women Kate Bagnall, Julia T. Martínez, 2021-03-23 This ground breaking edited collection draws together Australian historical scholarship on Chinese women their gendered migrations and their mobile lives between China and Australia It considers different aspects of women's lives both as individuals and as the wives and daughters of immigrant men While the number of Chinese women in Australia before 1950 was relatively small their presence was significant and often subject to public scrutiny Moving beyond traditional representations of women as hidden and silent this book demonstrates that Chinese Australian women in the twentieth century expressed themselves in the public eye whether through writings in photographs or in political and cultural life Their remarkable stories are often inspiring and sometimes tragic and serve to demonstrate the complexities of navigating female lives in the face of racial politics and imposed categories of gender culture and class Historians of transnational Chinese migration have come to recognize Australia as a crucial site within the Cantonese Pacific and this collection provides a new layer of gendered comparison connecting women's experiences in Australia with those in Canada the United States and New Zealand Locating Chinese Women is a path breaking book By exploring the experiences of Chinese Australian women during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries the authors have opened new and compelling avenues of inquiry about the history of Chinese Australian women In this landmark work they have brilliantly recast the history of Chinese Australia Joy Damousi Australian Catholic University Locating Chinese Women breaks new ground in Australian and transnational Chinese women's history by making the lives of remarkable Chinese Australian women visible. Photographs, testimonies, Chinese language newspapers and digitized archives help document the women's agency and activities as they navigate public lives between and within Australia and China during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Shirley Hune, University of California Los Angeles and University of Washington. The Chinese Diaspora in the Pacific Anthony Reid, 2017-05-15. The essays reprinted here trace the history of Chinese emigration into the Pacific region first as individuals, traders or exiles moving into the Nanyang, Southeast Asia, then as a mass migration across the ocean after the mid 19th century. The papers include discussions of what it meant to be Chinese, the position of the migrants vis-à-vis China itself and their relations with indigenous peoples as well as the European powers that came to dominate the region. Together with the introduction, they constitute an important aid to understanding one of the most widespread diasporas of the modern world. Archaeology and History of the Chinese in Southern New Zealand During the Nineteenth Century Neville A. Ritchie, 2023-11-01. This revised edition of Dr Neville A Ritchie's 1986 PhD dissertation explores the history and archaeology of the 19th century Chinese mining communities in the Clutha Valley, New Zealand. Lavishly illustrated with black and white line drawings of Chinese domestic and industrial sites and of the artefacts excavated from them, this study offers unprecedented insight into the life and material culture of these male-only sojourner communities. Widely considered the most comprehensive archaeological study of overseas Chinese miners' experience anywhere in the world, this volume contains the total summation and analysis of artefacts found in 23 Chinese sites excavated over nine years, which included two camps with 40 individual huts and other features, a Chinese store and 20 rural sites including miners' huts and rock shelters. Considered by the Australian Society for Historical Archaeology to be a seminal work in the field of historical archaeology, this 2023 edition introduces Dr Ritchie's groundbreaking work to the next generation of archaeologists. New Chinese Immigrants in New Zealand Liangni Sally Liu, Guanyu Jason Ran, 2021-11-28. This book focuses on new immigrant families from the People's Republic of China to New Zealand and investigates how these families have adapted to New Zealand immigration policy regime, which does not accommodate their cultural preference to live as multigenerational families easily. The book analyses a three-generation framework: First generation adult immigrants, their children and older parents. It examines how migratory mobility and intergenerational dynamics configure migratory trajectories of individual family members and shape their family lives and sense of identity. The book sheds light on how different family generations pursue their own interests and goals while maintaining family unity and cohesiveness in contexts of increasing transnational mobility opportunities and constraints. It also investigates how familial ties, transnational connections and a sense of identity and belonging are defined and redefined during the process of transnational migration. This book can serve as a heuristic reference to and meaningful comparative parameter for studying transnational family migration in other contexts. As a significant theoretical contribution to the theory of transnational family formation in contexts where restrictive immigration policies result in members of multigenerational families living across different countries this book will be of interest to academics in the fields of sociology anthropology race and ethnic studies as well as Asian and Chinese studies Migrant and Diasporic Film and Filmmaking in New Zealand Arezou

Zalipour, 2019-01-01 This book is the first ever collection on diasporic screen production in New Zealand Through contributions by a diverse range of local and international scholars it identifies the central characteristics histories practices and trajectories of screen media made by and or about migrant and diasporic peoples in New Zealand including Asians Pacific Islanders and other communities It addresses issues pertinent to representation of migrant and diasporic life and experience on screen and showcases critical dialogues with directors scriptwriters producers and other key figures whose work reflects experiences of migration diaspora and multiculturalism in contemporary New Zealand With a foreword by Hamid Naficy the key theorist of accented cinema this comprehensive collection addresses essential questions about migrant multicultural and diasporic screen media policies of representation and the new aesthetic styles and production regimes emerging from New Zealand film and TV Migrant and Diasporic Film and Filmmaking in New Zealand is a touchstone for emerging work concerned with migration diaspora and multiculturalism in New Zealand s screen production and practice

Chinese Populations in Contemporary Southeast Asian Societies M. Jocelyn Armstrong, R. Warwick Armstrong, Kent Mulliner, 2012-10-12 New perspectives on the past and present contributions of the 25 million strong Chinese diaspora in Southeast Asia to the development of contemporary society Case studies feature organisational community religious and other arenas of Chinese activity and identity definition and the book analyses the interplay of local regional global and transnational networks and identities Female Immigrant Entrepreneurs Daphne Halkias, Paul Thurman, Sylva

Caracatsanis, Nicholas Harkiolakis, 2016-04-15 A third of the world s entrepreneurial activity is driven by women With the mass movement of people now commonplace the role of female entrepreneurs in immigrant communities has become an increasingly important component of the world economy its productivity and the struggle against poverty Throwing light on the dynamics of entrepreneurship generally and on immigrant and female entrepreneurship in particular the global Female Immigrant Entrepreneurship FIE project is a huge and exciting research undertaking Written by the project s team of researchers based in prestigious business schools and universities on almost every continent this important book begins the process of discovering why and how female driven business start ups often seem to spontaneously emerge in adverse environments Is it randomness luck or chance that determine success or failure or vital critical forces and the inherent qualities of the women involved The research emerging from the FIE project points to answers to questions about the integration of immigrant communities their interaction with host economic and business environments and the role of women in that interaction With findings from more than fifteen countries from the USA with some of the world s oldest and largest immigrant communities to African countries that are the newest destination for Asian migrants this book will help inform social and economic policy in communities and countries searching for prosperity More than that the book offers policy makers business leaders and those concerned with business development the chance to uncover some of the mystery around the complex phenomenon of entrepreneurship itself Being Maori Chinese Manying Ip,2013-10-01 Presenting the stories behind several generations of seven Maori Chinese families whose voices have seldom been heard before this account casts a fascinating light on the historical and contemporary relations between Maori and Chinese in New Zealand The two groups first came into contact in the late 19th century and often lived and interacted closely leading to intermarriage and large families By the 1930s proximity and similarities had brought many Maori Chinese families together the majority of whom had to deal with cultural differences and discrimination The growing political confidence of Maori since the 1970s and the more recent tensions around Asian immigration have put pressure on the relationship and the families dual identities Today s Maori Chinese reaffirming their multiple roots and cultural advantages are playing increasingly important roles in New Zealand society This account is oral history at its most compelling an absorbing read for anyone interested in the complex yet rewarding topic of cultural interactions between indigenous and immigrant groups Hua Song Suchen Christine Lim,2005 Photographic album of the origins and development of Chinese communities around the world
