Colour Films in Britain Sarah Street, Keith M. Johnston, Paul Frith, Carolyn Rickards, 2021-11-18 The story of Eastmancolor's arrival on the British filmmaking scene is one of intermittent trial and error intense debate and speculation before gradual acceptance This book traces the journey of its adoption in British Film and considers its lasting significance as one of the most important technical innovations in film history Through original archival research and interviews with key figures within the industry the authors examine the role of Eastmancolor in relation to key areas of British cinema since the 1950s including its economic and structural histories different studio and industrial strategies and the wider aesthetic changes that took place with the mass adoption of colour Their analysis of British cinema through the lens of colour produces new interpretations of key British film genres including social realism historical and costume drama science fiction horror crime documentary and even sex films They explore how colour communicated meaning in films ranging from the Carry On series to Monty Python's Life of Brian 1979 from Lawrence of Arabia 1962 to A Passage to India 1984 and from Goldfinger 1964 to 1984 1984 and in the work of key directors and cinematographers of both popular and art cinema including Nicolas Roeg Ken Russell Ridley Scott Peter Greenaway and Chris Menges

Social Realism David Forrest, 2013-09-27 This book presents a radical reappraisal of one of the most persistent and misunderstood aspects of British cinema social realism Through means of close textual analysis David Forrest advances the case that social realism has provided British national culture with a consistent and distinctive art cinema arguing that a theoretical reassessment of the mode can enable it to be located within the context of broader traditions of global cinema The book begins with the documentary movement and British wartime cinema before moving to the British new wave and social problem cycle the films of Ken Loach the films of Mike Leigh realism in the 1980s specifically the work of Stephen Frears and Alan Clarke before concluding with a discussion of contemporary realist cinema specifically the work of Shane Meadows Andrea Arnold and other recent exponents of the mode These case studies give a thorough platform to explore the most prominent and diverse examples of realist practice in Britain over the last 80 years The construction and critical analysis of this social realist canon creates the conditions to reassess and look anew at this most British of cinematic traditions

European Film Music Miguel Mera, David Burnand, 2006 Miguel Mera and David Burnand present a volume that explores specific European filmic texts composers and approaches to film scoring that have hitherto been neglected Films involving British French German Greek Irish Italian Polish and Spanish composers are considered in detail Important issues that permeate all the essays involve the working relationship of composer and director the dialectic between the diegetic and non diegetic uses of music in films the music image synergism and the levels of realism that are created by the audio visual mix

British Social Realism Samantha Lay, 2002 British Social Realism From Documentary to Brit Grit details and explores the rich tradition of social realism in British cinema from its beginnings in the documentary movement of the 1930s to its more stylistically eclectic and generically hybrid contemporary forms Samantha Lay examines the movements moments and cycles of British social realist texts through a detailed consideration of practice politics form style and content using case studies of key texts including Listen to Britain Saturday Night and Sunday Morning Letter to Brezhnev and Nil By Mouth The book considers the challenges for social realist film practice and production in Britain now and in the future

The Romanian Cinema of Nationalism Onoriu Colăcel, 2018-10-25 Prior to the collapse of communism Romanian historical movies were political encouraging nationalistic feelings and devotion to the state Vlad the Impaler and other such iconic figures emerged as heroes rather than loathsome bloodsuckers celebrating a shared sense of belonging The past decade has however presented

Romanian films in which ordinary people are the stars heroes go getters swindlers and sore losers The author explores a wide selection old and new of films set in the Romanian past Popular Cinema of the Third Reich Sabine Hake, 2010-01-01

Too often dismissed as escapist entertainment or vilified as mass manipulation popular cinema in the Third Reich was in fact sustained by well established generic conventions cultural traditions aesthetic sensibilities social practices and a highly developed star system not unlike its Hollywood counterpart in the 1930s This pathfinding study contributes to the ongoing reassessment of Third Reich cinema by examining it as a social cultural economic and political practice that often conflicted with contradicted and compromised the intentions of the Propaganda Ministry Nevertheless by providing the illusion of a public sphere presumably free of politics popular cinema helped to sustain the Nazi regime especially during the war years Rather than examining Third Reich cinema through overdetermined categories such as propaganda ideology or fascist aesthetics Sabine Hake concentrates on the constituent elements shared by most popular cinemas famous stars directors and studios movie audiences and exhibition practices popular genres and new trends in set design the reception of foreign films the role of film criticism and the representation of women She pays special attention to the forced coordination of the industry in 1933 the changing demands on cinema during the war years and the various ways of coming to terms with these filmic legacies after the war Throughout Hake's findings underscore the continuities among Weimar Third Reich and post 1945 West German cinema They also emphasize the codevelopment of German and other national cinemas especially the dominant Hollywood model
