Recent History:

Doing Recent History Claire Bond Potter, Renee C. Romano, 2012-04-25 Recent history the very phrase seems like an oxymoron Yet historians have been writing accounts of the recent past since printed history acquired a modern audience and in the last several years interest in recent topics has grown exponentially With subjects as diverse as Walmart and disco and personalities as disparate as Chavez and Schlafly books about the history of our own time have become arguably the most exciting and talked about part of the discipline Despite this rich tradition and growing popularity historians have engaged in little discussion about the specific methodological political and ethical issues related to writing about the recent past The twelve essays in this collection explore the challenges of writing histories of recent events where visibility is inherently imperfect hindsight and perspective are lacking and historiography is underdeveloped Those who write about events that have taken place since 1970 encounter exciting challenges that are both familiar and foreign to scholars of a more distant past including suspicions that their research is not historical enough negotiation with living witnesses who have a very strong stake in their own representation and the task of working with new electronic sources Contributors to this collection consider a wide range of these challenges They question how sources like television and video games can be better utilized in historical research explore the role and regulation of doing oral histories consider the ethics of writing about living subjects discuss how historians can best navigate questions of privacy and copyright law and imagine the possibilities that new technologies offer for creating transnational and translingual research opportunities Doing Recent History offers guidance and insight to any researcher considering tackling the not so distant past

Discursive Processes of Intergenerational Transmission of Recent History M. Achugar, 2016-04-12 Debates about how to remember politically contested or painful pasts exist throughout the world As with the case of the Holocaust in Europe and Apartheid in South Africa South American countries are struggling with the legacy of state terrorism left by the 1970s dictatorships Coming to terms with the past entails understanding the role different social actors played in those events as well as what those event mean for us today Young people in these situations have to learn about painful historical events over which there is no national consensus This book explores discursive processes of intergenerational transmission of recent history through the case of the Uruguayan dictatorship The main themes of the book are the discursive construction of social memory and intergenerational transmission of contested pasts through recontextualization resemiotization and intertextuality

Struggling for Leadership: Antwerp-Rotterdam Port Competition between 1870-2000 Reginald Loyen,Erik Buyst,Greta Devos,2002-10-07 The present volume contains the proceedings of an international conference on the economic history of the seaports of Antwerp and Rotterdam 1870 2000 This venue was held at Antwerp on 10 11 May 2001 and was hosted by the Antwerp Port Authority This international conference aimed at confronting the development of both ports In the course of the last century and a half economic growth in the ports of Antwerp and Rotterdam has been staggering Maritime economic historians economists and geographers alike have investigated the development of both ports extensively but separately So far only a limited number of attempts have been made to analyse Rotterdam Antwerp port history from a comparative perspective The papers presented at the conference provide a challenging starting point to certain how and why both ports reacted differently to virtually the same economic and political stimuli By bringing together both historians economists and lawyers with different fields of interest we have attempted to put the history of the ports of Antwerp and Rotterdam in a broader international and comparative perspective

The Contemporary History Play Benjamin Poore,2024-05-30 Something exciting is happening with the contemporary history play New writing by playwrights such as Jackie Sibblies Drury Samuel Adamson Hannah Khalil Cordelia Lynn and Lucy Kirkwood makes powerful theatrical use of the past but does not fit into critics familiar categories of historical drama In this book Benjamin Poore provides readers with tools to name and critically analyse these changes The Contemporary History Play contends that many history plays are becoming more complex and layered in their aesthetic approaches as playwrights work through the experience of being surrounded by numerous and varied forms of historical representation in the twenty first century For theatre scholars this book offers a means of interpreting how new writing relies on the past and notions of historicity to generate meaning and resonance in the present For playwrights and students of playwriting the book is a guide to the history play s recent past and to the state of the art what techniques and formulas have been popular the tropes that are widely used and how artists have found ways of renewing or overturning established conventions

Memory and Representation in Contemporary Europe Dr Siobhan Kattago,2013-01-28 Why do certain places and not others symbolically capture the past and freeze time Likewise why does the process of memory as a fluid and changing activity seem to prevent its own solidification Memory and Representation in Contemporary Europe reflects not only on the persistence of the past as a theme linked to modernity media and time but also discusses the politics of memory within a changing Europe

Drawing on the theoretical work of Hannah Arendt Isaiah Berlin and Zygmunt Bauman Siobhan Kattago uses examples from both Germany and Estonia in order to address the multiple layers of Europe's totalitarian past Through reflecting on the legacy of totalitarianism and the revolutions of 1989 it becomes clear that the issue is less of whether one should remember but rather how to internalize the various lessons of the past for the future of Europe Memory and Representation in Contemporary Europe thus offers the reader occasions upon which to take stock of different but overlapping contours of past and present in contemporary Europe The Orators and Their Treatment of the Recent Past Aggelos Kapellos,2022-12-05 This volume focuses on the representation of the recent past in classical Athenian oratory and investigates the ability of the orators to interpret it according to their interests the inability of the Athenians to make an objective assessment of it and the unwillingness of the citizens to hear the truth make self criticism and take responsibility for bad results Twenty eight scholars have written chapters to this end dealing with a wide range of themes in terms both of contents and of chronology from the fifth to the fourth century B C Each contributor has written a chapter that analyzes one or more historical events mentioned or alluded in the corpus of the Attic orators and covers the three species of Attic oratory Chapters that treat other issues collectively are also included The common feature of each contribution is an outline of the recent events that took place and influenced the citizens and or the city of Athens and its juxtaposition with their rhetorical treatment by the orators either by comparing the rhetorical texts with the historical sources and or by examining the rhetorical means through which the speakers model the recent past This book aims at advanced students and professional scholars This volume focuses on the representation of the recent past in classical Athenian oratory and investigates the ability of the orators to interpret it according to their interests the inability of the Athenians to make an objective assessment of persons and events of the recent past and their unwillingness to hear the truth make self criticism and take responsibility for bad results Performing History Nancy November,2020-08-25 The fifteen essays of Performing History glimpse the diverse ways music historians do history and the diverse ways in which music histories matter This book's chapters are structured into six key areas historically informed performance ethnomusicological perspectives particular musical works that tell enact or perform war histories operatic works that work that tell enact or perform power or enlightenment musical works that deploy the body and a broad range of senses to convey histories and histories involving popular music and performance Diverse lines of evidence and manifold methodologies are represented here ranging from traditional historical archival research to interviewing performing and composing The modes of analyzing music and its associated texts represented here are as various as the kinds of evidence explored including for example reading historical accounts against other contextual backdrops and reading between the lines to access other voices than those provided by mainstream interpretation or traditional musicology Contemporary history on trial Harriet Jones,Kjell Ostberg,Nico Randeraad,2024-07-30 Is it right for historians to serve as expert witnesses to past events Since the end of the Cold War a series of heated and politicised debates across Europe have questioned the truth about painful episodes in the twentieth century. From the Holocaust to Srebrenica, inquiries and fact-finding commissions have become a common device employed by governments to deal with the pressure of public opinion. State-sponsored programmes of education and research attempt to encourage a common moral understanding of the lessons we learn from these painful memories. Contemporary historians have increasingly been drawn into these efforts since 1989: in the courtroom, in the media, on commissions as advisers. In a series of thoughtful essays written by leading historians from across Europe, this volume considers the ethics and responsibilities that this new role entails. For anyone concerned with the role of the historian in contemporary society and how we arrive at a public understanding of history, this book is essential reading.
