Recent Advances in Thrombosis and Fibrinolysis Kenzō Tanaka, 1991 Recent Advances in Thrombosis and Hemostasis K. Tanaka, E.W. Davie, 2009-01-15

Now more than ever thrombotic and thromboembolic disorders as well as related diseases such as malignancies arteriosclerosis diabetes mellitus hypertension and obesity are the leading causes of morbidity and mortality They have become urgent medical problems with serious economic consequences in industrialized and developing countries alike At the same time the impact of molecular biology and genetics on our understanding of thrombosis and hemostasis is rapidly growing stronger as well as our knowledge of regeneration and development of specific tissues organs and embryos Researchers are also constantly learning more about cardiovascular diseases as well as regulatory mechanisms for various intrinsic and extrinsic stimuli in viable tissues In this volume our intention has been to present the latest relevant information in molecular biology and genetics as well as the clinical implications of a better understanding of pathophysiology novel diagnostic methodologies and therapeutic applications for new methods of prevention in thrombosis hemostasis and related disorders including atherosclerosis The dramatic advances in knowledge of thrombosis hemostasis and vascular biology since the first publication of Recent Advances in Thrombosis and Fibrinolysis edited with Japanese colleagues in 1991 have required extensive revision in order to highlight and review recent progress in the field The editors also gratefully welcome the seven distinguished non Japanese authors who with their valuable contributions on subjects beyond the coverage by Japanese authors have made this new edition truly international

Fibrinolysis, 2025-06-18 Fibrinolysis the process of breaking down the fibrin network was reported in 1925 by Fischer who demonstrated that explants of virally induced chicken tumors rapidly caused lysis of plasma clots whereas explants of normal tissue did not This observation provided evidence for the importance of fibrinolysis in cancer Then in 1933 Tillett and Garner observed the liquefaction of a fibrin clot by the plasma of many patients who had recovered from acute hemolytic streptococcal infections These investigators showed that broth cultures of hemolytic streptococci derived from patients could rapidly liquefy normal human fibrin clots This suggested that fibrinolysis might play a key role in homeostasis although its regulation mechanism was unknown Fibrinolysis is now known to be regulated by four components namely the plasminogen activators that function to convert plasminogen into plasmin to initiate fibrin degradation such as tissue type and urokinase type plasminogen activators the plasminogen activator inhibitors that block the plasminogen activators the plasmin inhibitors such as alpha2 antiplasmin and finally the enzymes that block plasminogen binding sites on fibrin or the endothelial cell surface such as the thrombin activatable fibrinolysis inhibitor Originally fibrinolysis was thought to be only responsible for promoting vascular patency the failure of which resulted in myocardial infarction and stroke However recent studies from multiple laboratories have identified the key role of fibrinolysis in a host of physiological and pathophysiological processes Most recently fibrinolysis has been suggested to play a role in forming the premetastatic niche a hospitable site for future
