Remaking The City Social Science Perspectives On Urban Design:

Remaking the City John S. Pipkin, 1984-06-30 This book pulls together a variety of perspectives on urban form and urban design. It contains invited contributions by well known architects, economists, geographers, sociologists, and planners fostering a much needed dialogue between practitioners and theorists of urban planning. The contributions provide inclusive reviews of the state of the art in various fields as well as develop original and sometimes controversial new ideas. As a whole they cut across some of the key conceptual lines of demarcation in urban research. The distinct concerns of architects, planners, social scientists, and practitioners are probed. Cognitive and semiotic perspectives on urban form are contrasted and the merits of individualistic versus structural explanation are discussed. Building Cities that Work Edmund P. Fowler, 1993 Since 1945 North Americans have spent hundreds of billions of dollars on urban development, literally transforming the landscape of the continent. This development has been disastrous, Edmund Fowler maintains, because it is inordinately expensive, destructive of the environment, and disruptive of healthy social life and authentic politics. Revealing the connections between our basic cultural beliefs and why we build the way we do, he stresses that to build cities that work we must become aware of how our personal choices contribute to the form of the built environment. The Public Realm Lyn H. Lofland, 2017-07-12 This book is about the public realm, defined as a particular kind of social territory that is found almost exclusively in large settlements. This particular form of social psychological space comes into being whenever a piece of actual physical space is dominated by relationships between and among persons who are strangers to one another, as often occurs in urban bars, buses, plazas, parks, coffee houses, streets, and so forth. More specifically, the book is about the social life that occurs in such social psychological spaces, the normative patterns and principles that shape it, the relationships that characterize it, the aesthetic and interactional pleasures that enliven it, and the forces anti-urbanism, privatism, post-war planning, and architecture that threaten it. The data upon which the book's analysis is based are diverse: direct observation, interviews, contemporary photographs, historic etchings, prints, and photographs, and historical maps, histories of specific urban public spaces or spatial types, and the relevant scholarly literature from sociology, environmental psychology, geography, history, anthropology, and architecture and urban planning and design. Its central argument is that while the existing body of accomplished work in the social sciences can be reinterpreted to make it relevant to an understanding of the public realm, this quintessential feature of city life deserves much more than it deserves to be the object of direct scholarly interest in its own right. Choice noted that the author's writing style is unusually accessible and the often fascinating narrative is generously supported by well chosen photos. Professionals and Urban Form Judith R. Blau, Mark E. La Gory, John S. Pipkin, 1984-06-30 Professionals and Urban Form departs from the usual way of studying the city to examine the chief professions responsible for designing urban places: planning and architecture. Not often treated together, they are here combined to highlight common problems and lines of convergence between the two. The architects, planners, and social scientists who contributed to this book concern themselves with the interconnection between knowledge and practice in planning and architecture paying particular attention to the issues of whether design knowledge and theory can or should be distinct from social science knowledge and the effects of professionalization and institutionalization on the structuring of inquiry and theory The main sections of the book deal with the history of the design professions epistemological foundations professions and practice and controversies in practice Many issues of contemporary interest to planners are dealt with including the debates over normative advocacy and communicative planning Marxist perspectives supply and demand in the job market for architects and the overarching epistemological question of the relationship between social science research and design practice Cities, Politics, and Policy John P. Pelissero, 2002-10-01 Just because Milwaukee isn't Manhattan doesn't mean that those urban centers face completely unique challenges Through effective comparative analysis of key issues in urban studies how city managers share power with mayors how spending policies affect economic development and how school politics impact education policy students can clearly see how scholars discern patterns and formulate conclusions to offer theoretical and practical insights from which all cities can benefit Pelissero brings together an impressive team of contributors to explore variation among cities through case studies and cross sectional analyses Each author synthesizes the field's seminal literature while explaining how urban leaders and their constituents grapple with everything from city council politics to conflict and cooperation among minority groups Authors identify both key trends and gaps in the scholarship and help set the research agenda for the years to come Lively case material will hook your students while the accessible presentation of empirical evidence make this reader the comprehensive and sophisticated text you demand Black Lives and Spatial Matters Jodi Rios, 2020-08-15 Black Lives and Spatial Matters is a call to reconsider the epistemic violence that is committed when scholars policymakers and the general public continue to frame Black precarity as just another racial cultural or ethnic conflict that can be solved solely through legal political or economic means Jodi Rios argues that the historical and material production of blackness as risk is foundational to the historical and material construction of our society and certainly foundational to the construction and experience of metropolitan space She also considers how an ethics of lived blackness living fully and visibly in the face of forces intended to dehumanize and erase can create a powerful counter point to blackness as risk Using a transdisciplinary methodology Black Lives and Spatial Matters studies cultural institutional and spatial politics of race in North St Louis County Missouri as a set of practices that are intimately connected to each other and to global histories of race and race making As such the book adds important insight into the racialization of metropolitan space and people in the United States The arguments presented in this book draw from fifteen years of engaged research in North St Louis County and rely on multiple disciplinary perspectives and local knowledge in order to study relationships between interconnected practices and phenomena Housing Needs and Policy Approaches Willem Van Vliet, Elizabeth D. Huttman, Sylvia Fleis Fava, 1985 Drawing upon research from six continents Housing Needs and Policy Approaches analyzes the social problems involved with providing housing in the industrialized nations and in the Third World The book focuses on four areas of concern current trends in housing in specific Western countries the role of Western governments in creating this housing housing provisions in less developed nations and the relationship of societal structure and housing particularly with respect to the decentralization of population occurring in many regions Architectural Tourism Jan Specht,2014-05-19 Since the early times of travelling architecture does constitute an important force of attraction and a vital element in marketing Until today destinations try to increase their market positions by means of the development and restoration of the built environment However architecture is characterised by an enduring presence with impacts on visitors and residents alike Hence on a sustainable basis it needs to chime with place and situation Where modesty might be suitable for one destination spectacular architecture could be a transformation catalyst or unique selling proposition for another Destination developers have to be aware of the local requirements as well as the reciprocal relationship between the modern practice of tourism and the built environment To address the complexity of architectural tourism throughout the book this topic is subject of a controversial discussion and approached with a contextual and interdisciplinary view Unhealthy Cities Kevin Fitzpatrick,Mark LaGory,2013-06-17 The purpose of this book is to show the important role that space and place plays in the health of urban residents particularly those living in high poverty ghettos The book brings together research and writing from a variety of disciplines to demonstrate the health costs of being poor in America s cities Both authors are committed to raising awareness of structural factors that promote poverty and injustice in a society that proclaims its commitment to equality of opportunity Our health is often dramatically affected by where we live some parts of the city seem to be designed to make people sick The book is intended for students and professionals in urban sociology medical sociology public health and community planning Unhealthy Places Kevin Fitzpatrick,Mark LaGory,2002-09-11 Unhealthy Places focuses on issues of health in today s cities By arguing that place matters in relation to the population s health Kevin Fitzpatrick and Mark LaGory make a convincing argument about the general unhealthiness of urban environments and thus of the urban dweller The authors offer a place oriented approach to health and cover such topics as the ecology of everyday urban life the sociology of health needs and risks of the socially disadvantaged needs and risks of children and the elderly in cities and strategies for better health services in urban environments Street Signs David P. Leong,2012-07-01 Street Signs is an engaging missiological inquiry into the cultural and theological meaning of the city Through the lens of Seattle s Rainier Valley one of the most ethnically and socioeconomically diverse communities in the US this work constructs an urban missional and contextual theology that is shaped by the local realities of urban neighborhoods but relevant to cities everywhere Focused on the themes of incarnation confrontation and imagination Street Signs explores the contours of missional theology in urban contexts marked by physical density social diversity and economic disparity In addition to examining contextualization and cultural theory Street Signs also utilizes creative research methods like urban exegesis cultural semiotics and theology of the built environment For the urban ministry practitioner or the theologian in the city this work aims to engage thoughtful Christians with missiological and theological reflections on place neighbor and community The Urban Design Process Hamid Shirvani,1985 Public Space in Informal Settlements Jaime Hernández-García,2013-12-05 Public Space in Informal Settlements The Barrios of Bogotá contributes to the debate on informal settlements by viewing them as an opportunity to understand different ways of seeing and thinking about the city Public spaces in informal settlements like the housing stock are to a large extent the product of local self help and self managed processes however the equivalent level of understanding has not been achieved partly because such settlements are often seen as spare spaces with little value Public spaces in informal settlements are public in terms of ownership and accessibility but are communal in terms of use and attachment They play an important role in the physical and social dynamics of the barrios and have done since their inception however the improvement and consolidation of such spaces may not be realised for many years The book will be of primary importance to architects urban planners and researchers who are interested in the city in general and in informal settlements in particular The book will also be of interest to those in the humanities and social sciences who are concerned with politics and postcolonial studies and to academics working in people environment studies and in the relationship between people and place in terms of place self building place attachment and place identity However the volume will be of most interest for Latin Americanists who do not read Spanish or Portuguese and would like to know more about the region the problems and the views from the perspective of an insider with extended knowledge of the field Design of Urban Space Ali Madanipour,1996-11-18 Madanipour draws together the major themes in urban design today uncertainty regarding nature and scope increased demand for courses in urban design and increased demand for research into the subject The Role of Public Sector in Local Economic and Territorial Development Maroš Finka,Matej Jaššo,Milan Husár,2018-08-31 The book covers the topic of the role of public sector in the economic and territorial development across several dimensions of spatial planning e g theoretical methodological planning cultures leadership executive regional policies services of general interest sectoral energy tourism air quality or social social innovation preservation of cultural heritage The book delivers up to date knowledge build on interactions between representatives of different stakeholders of economic and territorial development with the research represented by renowned experts and academicians This is mirrored in the content of the book delivering in a consistent form the conceptual explanations combined with the examples of the role of the public sector in fostering the local economies within the frame of spatial planning The book reflects and transfers the expert knowledge which has been generated during more than a decade of scientific and research activities of Space net Presents a comprehensive view on different aspects of the involvement of public sector in the local and regional spatial development Includes a combination of macro regionally specific perspectives with the generalized knowledge Provides knowledge from various researchers from prestigious European scientific and research teams The City after Chinese New Towns

Michele Bonino, Francesca Governa, Maria Paola Repellino, Angelo Sampieri, 2019-03-04 By 2020 some 400 Chinese New Towns will have been built representing an unprecedented urban growth While some of these massive developments are still empty today others have been rather successful The substantial effort on the part of the Chinese government is to absorb up to 250 million people chiefly migrants from the rural parts of the country Unlike in Europe and North America where new towns grew in accordance to the local industries these new Chinese cities are mostly built to the point of near completion before introducing people The interdisciplinary publication written by architects planners and geographers explores the new urbanistic phenomenon of the Chinese New Town Especially commissioned photographs and maps illustrate many examples of these new settlements The Blackwell Encyclopedia of Sociology: D-E George Ritzer, 2007 Smart City Citizenship

Igor Calzada, 2020-10-23 Smart City Citizenship provides rigorous analysis for academics and policymakers on the experimental data driven and participatory processes of smart cities to help integrate ICT related social innovation into urban life Unlike other smart city books that are often edited collections this book focuses on the business domain grassroots social innovation and AI driven algorithmic and techno political disruptions also examining the role of citizens and the democratic governance issues raised from an interdisciplinary perspective As smart city research is a fast growing topic of scientific inquiry and evolving rapidly this book is an ideal reference for a much needed discussion The book drives the reader to a better conceptual and applied comprehension of smart city citizenship for democratised hyper connected virialised post COVID 19 societies In addition it provides a whole practical roadmap to build smart city citizenship inclusive and multistakeholder interventions through intertwined chapters of the book Users will find a book that fills the knowledge gap between the purely critical studies on smart cities and those further constructive and highly promising socially innovative interventions using case study fieldwork action research empirical evidence drawn from several cities that are advancing and innovating smart city practices from the citizenship perspective Utilises ongoing action research fieldwork comparative case studies for examining current governance issues and the role of citizens in smart cities Provides definitions of new key citizenship concepts along with a techno political framework and toolkit drawn from a community oriented perspective Shows how to design smart city governance initiatives projects and policies based on applied research from the social innovation perspective Highlights citizen s perspective and social empowerment in the AI driven and algorithmic disruptive post COVID 19 context in both transitional and experimental frameworks Transforming Asian Cities Nihal Perera, Wing-shing Tang, 2013 While there is no lack of studies on Asian cities the majority focus on financial districts poverty the slum tradition tourism and pollution and use the modern affluent and transforming Western city as the reference point This vast Asian empirical presence is not complemented by a theoretical presence academic discourses overlook common and basic urban processes particularly the production of space place and identity by ordinary citizens Switching the vantage point to Asian cities and citizens Transforming Asian Cities draws attention to how Asians produce their contemporary urban practices identities and spaces as part of resisting responding to and avoiding larger global and national processes Instead of viewing Asian cities in opposition to the Western city and using it as the norm this book instead opts to provincialize mainstream and traditional knowledge It argues that the vast terrain of ordinary actors and spaces which are currently left out should be reflected in academic debates and policy decisions and the local thinking processes that constitute these spaces need to be acknowledged enabled and critiqued The individual chapters illustrate that global spaces are more trans local traditional environments are more modern and Asian spaces are better defined than acknowledged The aim is to develop room for understandings of Asian cities from Asian standpoints especially acknowledging how Asians observe interpret understand and create space in their cities Public Administration Series--Bibliography ,1978
