Saving Britains Art Treasures:

Saving Britain's Art Treasures N. J. McCamley, 2003-03-19 This book explains for the first time the full story of the wartime adventures of Britain's greatest art treasures. At first the pictures and other artifacts were distributed amongst a number of large country houses. Initially the owners of these houses almost fought one another for the right to house the Treasures. Later when further accommodation was needed for treasures from the provincial museums the tables turned and the Office of Works was reduced to bribing owners by promising that they would be spared billetees and that their houses would be immune from requisitioning. By mid 1940 however circumstances transpired that made the country houses untenable. German air bases in northern France made the whole of Britain vulnerable. Eventually two deep underground repositories were constructed, one in Wales and one in Wiltshire, and by the end of 1942 virtually all the cultural heritage of the nation was concentrated there. Building and operation of these underground treasure houses did not however go smoothly as described here.

Museums in the Second World War Catherine Pearson, 2017-06-26 Exploring the role of museums, galleries and curators during the upheaval of the Second World War, this book challenges the accepted view of a hiatus in museum services during the conflict and its immediate aftermath. Instead, it argues that new thinking in the 1930s was realised in a number of promising initiatives during the war, only to fail during the fragmented post-war recovery. Based on new research including interviews with retired museum staff, letters, diaries, museum archives and government records, this study reveals a complex picture of both innovation and inertia. At the outbreak of war, precious objects were stored away and staff numbers reduced, but although many museums were closed, others successfully campaigned to remain open. By providing innovative modern exhibitions and education initiatives, they became popular and valued venues for the public. After the war, however, museums returned to their more traditional collections-centred approach and failed to negotiate the public funding needed for reconstruction based on this narrower view of their role. Hence, in the longer term, the destruction and economic and social consequences of the conflict served to delay aspirations for reconstruction until the 1960s. Through this lens, the history of the museum in the mid-twentieth century appears as one shaped by the effects of war but equally determined by the input of curators, audiences and the state. The museum thus emerges not as an isolated institution concerned only with presenting the past but as a product of the changing conflicts and cultures within society.

Safeguarding Cultural Property and the 1954 Hague Convention Emma Cunliffe, Paul Fox, 2022 Significant attention today focusses on heritage destruction, but the key international laws prohibiting it, the 1954 Hague Convention for the Protection of Cultural Property in the Event of Armed Conflict and its First and Second Protocols, 1954/1999, lay out two core strands to limit the damage: the measures of respect for armed forces and the safeguarding measures states parties should put in place in peacetime. This volume incorporates wide-ranging international perspectives from those in the academy together with practitioner insights from the armed forces and heritage professionals to explore the safeguarding regime. Its contributors consider such questions as whether state parties have truly taken all possible steps as the Convention tasks them what we can learn from past practice and how the Convention is implemented today the implications of new trends in heritage law and management such as the rise of the World Heritage Convention and in the increasing focus on safe havens rather than refuges whether new methods of heritage management such as Risk Assessment theory can be applied and in a Convention specifically focussed on state parties what of their opponents armed non state actors Using a mix of case studies and theoretical explorations of new and existing methodologies the contributions cover a broad timespan from World War II to today with examples from Europe the Middle East and Africa Overall the volume s purpose is to promote wider understanding of the practical effectiveness of the Convention in the contemporary world by investigating the perceived opportunities and constraints the Convention offers today to protect cultural property in armed conflict and firmly establishing that such protection must begin in peace

Curating the Great War Paul Cornish,Nicholas J. Saunders,2022-08-31 Curating the Great War explores the inception and subsequent development of museums of the Great War and the animating spirit which lay behind them The book approaches museums of the Great War as political entities some more overtly than others but all unable to escape from the politics of the war its profound legacies and its enduring memory Their changing configurations and content are explored as reflections of the social and political context in which they exist Curating of the Great War has expanded beyond the walls of museum buildings seeking public engagement both direct and digital and taking in whole landscapes Recognizing this fact the book examines these museums as standing at the nexus of historiography museology anthropology archaeology sociology and politics as well as being a lieux de m moire Their multi vocal nature makes them a compelling subject for research and above all the book highlights that it is in these museums that we see the most complete fusion of the material culture of conflict with its historical political and experiential context This book is an essential read for researchers of the reception of the Great War through material culture and museums shifting sands Central to the Silk Road's rediscovery was a man named Aurel Stein a Hungarian born scholar and archaeologist employed by the British service Undaunted by the vast Gobi Desert Stein crossed thousands of desolate miles with his fox terrier Dash Stein met the Chinese monk and secured the Diamond Sutra and much more The scroll's journey by camel through arid desert by boat to London's curious scholars by train to evade the bombs of World War II merges an explorer's adventures political intrigue and continued controversy The Diamond Sutra has inspired Jack Kerouac and the Dalai Lama Its journey has coincided with the growing appeal of Buddhism in the West As the Gutenberg Age cedes to the Google Age the survival of the Silk Road's greatest treasure is testament to the endurance of the written word Winston Churchill in British Art, 1900 to the Present Day Jonathan Black, 2017-03-23 Churchill is today remembered as a great leader a war hero a literary heavyweight and a renowned wit This incarnation of Churchill is the latest in a long evolving identity which at various times has sustained his power enhanced his popularity and enabled him to personify aspects of British national identity Indeed Churchill was more aware than most of the performative power of his public life He lived in an age of the illustrated mass produced newspaper with its cartoons and Kodak snappers He was well known for his readiness to appear in uniform for photo opportunities during the Second World War and he not only wrote about the art of political caricature but collected cartoons of himself his allies and opponents In this heavily illustrated book Jonathan Black considers the changing image of Churchill in visual art from cartoons and paintings to photographs and sculptures He asks how and why his image developed right up to the present day and examines the extent to which Churchill was complicit in its production Henry James' Travel Mirosława Buchholtz, 2018-12-17 Henry James Travel Fiction and Non Fiction offers a multifaceted approach to Henry James idea and practice of travel from the perspective of the globalized world today Each chapter addresses a different selection of James fiction and non fiction and offers a different approach towards the ideas that are still with us today history reflected in art and architecture the tourist gaze museum culture transnationalism and the return home As a whole the book encompasses both early and late fiction and non fiction by Henry James giving the reader a sense of how his idea of travel evolved over several decades of his creative activity and shows how thin the line between fiction and non fiction travel writing really is Parliamentary Debates New Zealand. Parliament, 1909 The Spectator, 1858 Jefferson's Treasure Gregory May, 2018-08-07 George Washington had Alexander Hamilton Thomas Jefferson had Albert Gallatin From internationally known tax expert and former Supreme Court law clerk Gregory May comes this long overdue biography of the remarkable immigrant who launched the fiscal policies that shaped the early Republic and the future of American politics Not Alexander Hamilton Albert Gallatin To this day the fight over fiscal policy lies at the center of American politics Jefferson's champion in that fight was Albert Gallatin a Swiss immigrant who served as Treasury Secretary for twelve years because he was the only man in Jefferson's party who understood finance well enough to reform Alexander Hamilton's system A look at Gallatin's work repealing internal taxes restraining government spending and repaying public debt puts our current federal fiscal problems in perspective The Jefferson Administration s enduring achievement was to contain the federal government by restraining its fiscal power This was Gallatin s work It set the pattern for federal finance until the Civil War and it created a culture of fiscal responsibility that survived well into the twentieth century Great and Greater Britain J.
