Seek Reports From The Edges Of America And Beyond:

Seek Denis Johnson, 2009-03-03 Johnson writes with a fervor that can only be described as religious. Seek is scary and beautiful and ecstatic and uncontrolled; he elevates the mundane to the sublime; he boils things down to their essence. He is simply one of the few writers around whose sentences make you shudder. Adrienne Miller Esquire Part political disquisition part travel journal part self exploration. Seek is a collection of essays and articles in which Denis Johnson essentially takes on the world. And not an obliging easygoing world either but rather one in which horror and beauty exist in such proximity that they might well be interchangeable. Where violence and poverty and moral transgression go unchecked even unnoticed. A world of such wild rocketing energy that grasping it anything at all is possible. Whether traveling through war-ravaged Liberia mingling with the crowds at a Christian Biker rally exploring his own authority issues through the lens of this nation's militia groups or attempting to unearth his inner resources while mining for gold in the wilds of Alaska. Johnson writes with a mixture of humility and humorous candor that is everywhere present. With the breathtaking and often haunting lyricism for which his work is renowned. Johnson considers in these pieces our need for transcendence. And as readers of his previous work know Johnson's path to consecration frequently requires a limning of the darkest abyss. If the path to knowledge lies in experience, Seek is a fascinating record of Johnson's profoundly moving pilgrimage.

Settling the Borderland Jan Whitt, 2008-09-05 Settling the Borderland deals with the intimate connection between journalism and literature, both fields in which work by women has been underrepresented. This book has a twin focus: the work of journalists who became some of the greatest novelists, poets, and short story writers of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries in America, several of whom are men and contemporary journalists who best exemplify the effective use of literary techniques in news coverage. Although five women are emphasized here—Katherine Anne Porter, Eudora Welty, Joan Didion, Sara Davidson, and Susan Orlean—three men whose work was profoundly influenced by journalism also are included: Edgar Allan Poe, Walt Whitman, and John Steinbeck. They are well known as writers of poetry, short stories, and novels, but they too are among the other voices rarely included in studies of literary journalism. In Settling the Borderland, Jan Whitt presents a thorough analysis of the increasingly indistinct lines between truth and fiction and between fact and creative narrative in contemporary media.

Nobody Move Denis Johnson, 2010-04-27 From the National Book Award-winning bestselling author of Tree of Smoke comes a provocative thriller set in the American West. Nobody Move, which first appeared in the pages of Playboy, is the story of an assortment of lowlifes in Bakersfield, California, and their cat-and-mouse game over 2.3 million. Touched by echoes of Raymond Chandler and Dashiell Hammett, Nobody Move is at once an homage to and a variation on literary form. It salutes one of our most enduring and popular genres, the American crime novel, but with a grisly humor and outrageousness that are Denis Johnson's own. Sexy, suspenseful, and above all entertaining, Nobody Move shows one of our greatest novelists at his versatile best.
