Settlement Archaeology:

Making Places In The Prehistoric World Joanna Bruck, Melissa Goodman, 2023-04-28 First published in 1999 This groundbreaking volume addresses issues central to the study of prehistoric settlement including group memory the transmission of ideology and the impact of mobility and seasonality on the construction of social identity Building on these themes the contributors point to new ways of understanding the relationship between settlement and landscape by replacing Capitalist models of spatial relations with more intimate histories of place

A Study of Prehistoric Settlement Patterns in China Anping Pei, 2020-04-07 This book is the first ever monograph on clustering patterns in prehistoric settlements It not only theoretically explains the difference between natural settlement communities and organizational forms for the first time but also demonstrates the importance of understanding this difference in practical research Based on extensive archaeological data from China and focusing on the evolution of prehistoric settlements and changing social relations the book completely breaks with the globally popular research mode which is based on the assumption that settlement archaeology has nothing to do with prehistoric social organization In terms of research methods the book also abandons the globally popular method of measuring the grade and importance of settlements according to their size and the value of the unearthed objects Instead it focuses on understanding settlements attributes from the combined perspective of the group and individuals On the one hand the book proves that the clustering patterns in prehistoric settlement sites reflect the organizational forms of the time on the other it demonstrates that historical research focusing on the organizational forms of prehistoric societies is closer to the historical reality and of more scientific value The intended readership includes graduates and researchers in the field of archaeology or those who are interested in cultural relics and prehistoric settlements

Making Places in the Prehistoric World ,1999 This volume draws together innovative research from around the world to challenge the categories and conventions embedded within contemporary settlement studies Despite the centrality of settlement in current archaeological research it has long been neglected as an issue for theoretical debate The papers in this book take up this challenge by exposing the imposition of modern western norms onto the past By focusing on settlement data they offer a view of social relations as contested and fluid and call into question the models of inflexible power relations that dominate current archaeological thought This enables the authors to develop a richly textured and theoretically informed understanding of daily life in the past This collection demonstrates the great potential to expand and revitalize settlement studies The case studies embrace a wide range of cultural and geographical contexts including Missouri and pueblo North America Neolithic and Bronze Age Britain contemporary groups in the Andes and in southern Africa and Chalcolithic Bulgaria and Sardinia The volume will be of interest to professional archaeologists and students of prehistoric settlement worldwide as well as to researchers in anthropology and human geography

The Oxford Companion to Archaeology Brian M. Fagan, 1996-12-05 When we think of archaeology most of us think first of its many spectacular finds the legendary city of Troy Tutankhamun's golden tomb the three million year old footprints at Laetoli the mile high city at Machu Picchu the cave paintings at Lascaux But as marvelous as these discoveries are the ultimate goal of archaeology and of archaeologists is something far more ambitious Indeed it is one of humanity's great quests to recapture and understand our human past across vast stretches of time as it was lived in every corner of the globe. Now in The Oxford Companion to Archaeology readers have a comprehensive and authoritative overview of this fascinating discipline in a book that is itself a rare find: a treasure of up-to-date information on virtually every aspect of the field. The range of subjects covered here is breathtaking: everything from the domestication of the camel to Egyptian hieroglyphics to luminescence dating to the Mayan calendar to Koobi Fora and Olduvai Gorge. Readers will find extensive essays that illuminate the full history of archaeology from the discovery of Herculaneum in 1783 to the recent finding of the Ice Man and the ancient city of Uruk and engaging biographies of the great figures in the field from Gertrude Bell, Paul Emile Botta and Louis and Mary Leakey to V Gordon Childe, Li Chi, Heinrich Schliemann and Max Uhle. The Companion offers extensive coverage of the methods used in archaeological research, revealing how archaeologists find sites, remote sensing, aerial photography, ground survey, how they map excavations and report findings and how they analyze artifacts, radiocarbon dating, dendrochronology, stratigraphy, mortuary analysis. Of course, archaeology's great subject is humanity and human culture, and there are broad essays that examine human evolution ranging from our early primate ancestors to Australopithecus and Cro-Magnon to Homo Erectus and Neanderthals and explore the many general facets of culture from art and architecture to arms and armor to beer and brewing to astronomy and religion. And perhaps most important, the contributors provide insightful coverage of human culture as it has been expressed in every region of the world. Here entries range from broad overviews to treatments of particular themes to discussions of peoples, societies and particular sites. Thus anyone interested in North America would find articles that cover the continent from the Arctic to the Eastern woodlands to the Northwest Coast that discuss the Iroquois and Algonquian cultures, the hunters of the North American plains and the Norse in North America and that describe sites such as Mesa Verde, Meadowcroft, Rockshelter, Serpent Mound and Poverty Point. Likewise, the coverage of Europe runs from the Paleolithic period to the Bronze and Iron Age to the Post-Roman era, looking at peoples such as the Celts, the Germans, the Vikings and the Slavs and describes sites at Altamira, Pompeii, Stonehenge, Terra Amata and dozens of other locales. The Companion offers equally thorough coverage of Africa, Europe, North America, Mesoamerica, South America, Asia, the Mediterranean, the Near East, Australia and the Pacific. And finally, the editors have included extensive cross-referencing and thorough indexing, enabling the reader to pursue topics of interest with ease, charts and maps providing additional information and bibliographies after most entries directing readers to the best sources for further study. Every Oxford Companion aspires to be the definitive overview of a field of study at a particular moment of time. This superb volume is no exception. Featuring 700 articles written by hundreds of respected scholars from all over the world, The Oxford Companion to Archaeology provides authoritative, stimulating entries on everything from bog bodies to underwater archaeology to the Pyramids of Giza and the Valley of the Kings.

Archaeological Landscapes Jaqueline Rossignol, LuAnn Wandsnider, 2013-11-11 The last 20 years have witnessed a proliferation of new approaches in archaeological data recovery analysis and theory building that incorporate both new forms of information and new methods for investigating them The growing importance of survey has meant an expansion of the spatial realm of traditional archaeological data recovery and analysis from its traditional focus on specific locations on the landscape archaeological sites to the incorporation of data both on site and off site from across extensive regions Evolving survey methods have led to experiments with nonsite and distributional data recovery as well as the critical evaluation of the definition and role of archaeological sites in data recovery and analysis In both survey and excavation the geomorphological analysis of landscapes has become increasingly important in the analysis of archaeological materials Ethnoarchaeology the use of ethnography to sharpen archaeological understanding of cultural and natural formation processes has concentrated study on the formation processes underlying the content and structure of archaeological deposits These actualistic studies consider patterns of deposition at the site level and the material results of human organization at the regional scale Ethnoarchaeological approaches have also affected research in theoretical ways by expanding investigation into the nature and organization of systems of land use per se thus providing direction for further study of the material results of those systems Settlement in the Irish Neolithic Jessica Smyth, 2014-05-29 The Irish Neolithic has been dominated by the study of megalithic tombs but the defining element of Irish settlement evidence is the rectangular timber Early Neolithic house the numbers of which have more than quadrupled in the last ten years The substantial Early Neolithic timber house was a short lived architectural phenomenon of as little as 90 years perhaps like short lived Early Neolithic long barrows and causewayed enclosures This book explores the wealth of evidence for settlement and houses throughout the Irish Neolithic in relation to Britain and continental Europe More importantly it incorporates the wealth of new and often unpublished evidence from developer led archaeological excavations and large grey literature resources The settlement evidence scattered across the landscape and found as a result of developer funded work provides the social context for the more famous stone monuments that have traditionally shaped our views of the Neolithic in Ireland It provides the first comprehensive review of the Neolithic settlement of Ireland which enables a more holistic and meaningful understanding of the Irish Neolithic Mediterranean Archaeological Landscapes Effie F.

Athanassopoulos, LuAnn Wandsnider, 2010-11-24 The Mediterranean landscape record is recognized for its length and richness and the opportunity it offers to study the interaction between humans and their landscape This volume explores a variety of current archaeological issues in the context of specific landscapes from southern Spain through Greece and Cyprus to Jordan and from antiquity to recent times Over the last 25 years researchers have initiated a dramatic expansion in theoretical approaches both anthropological and classical Over the same time span a huge volume of field survey projects has been carried out in the Mediterranean arena The contributors to Mediterranean Archaeological Landscapes take stock of what has been learned identify lacunae and consider new approaches to our understanding of the rich surface landscape record of the Mediterranean Their goal is to explore theoretically diverse interpretative themes and the methods that make those approachable
