Challenge and Conformity Lindsey Taylor-Guthartz,2021-03-01 Orthodox Jewish women are increasingly seeking new ways to express themselves religiously and important changes have occurred in consequence in their self definition and the part they play in the religious life of their communities Drawing on surveys and interviews across different Orthodox groups in London as well as on the author s own experience of active participation over many years this is a thoroughly researched study that analyses its findings in the context of related developments in Israel and the USA Sympathetic attention is given to women s creativity and sophistication as they struggle to develop new modes of expression that will let their voices be heard at the same time the inevitable points of conflict with the male dominated religious establishment are examined and explained There is a focus too on the impact of innovations in ritual these include not only the creation of women only spaces and women s participation in public practices traditionally reserved for men but also new personal practices often acquired on study visits to Israel which are replacing traditions learned from family members This is a much needed study of how new norms of lived religion have emerged in London influenced by both the rise of feminism and the backlash against it and also by women s new understanding of their religious roles

Northern based gender information service and its beneficiaries in India the book queries the utility of the knowledge paradigm itself and the underlying assumption that a knowledge deficit exists in the Global South It questions the value of practices designed to address this presumed deficit that seek to increase information without addressing the specific problems of the knowledge systems being targeted for support After reviewing the evidence the book recommends that international organisations governments and practitioners move away from the belief that information intermediaries can employ progressive correctives to tinker at the edges and thus resolve the shortcomings of on going attempts to use knowledge alone as a driver of development Gender Power and Knowledge for Development will be of great interest to researchers students in development studies gender studies and communication studies as well as INGOs donor agencies and groups engaged in information for development i4D ICT for development ICT4D Tech4Dev knowledge mobilization and knowledge for development K4D
