SEVEN ICELANDIC SHORT STORIES

Authors Various, 2010-04 Of the seven Icelandic short stories which appear here the first was probably written early in the thirteenth century while the rest all date from the early twentieth century Since the 12th C the Icelandic people have continued to tell stories and to compose poems with the greyness of commonplace existence made more bearable when listening to tales of the heroic deeds and sagas of the past In those past evenings the living room baostofa built of turf and stone became a little more cheerful and hunger was forgotten while a member of the household read or sang about far away knights and heroes and the banquets they gave in splendid halls In their imagination people thus tended to make their environment seem larger and better than life as did Hrolfur with his fishing boat in the story When I was on the Frigate So take some time out and travel back to a period before television and radio a time when tales were passed on orally when families would gather around a crackling and spitting hearth and a family member would delight and captivate the gathering with stories passed on to them from their parents and grandparents and from time immemorial The Norsemen who colonized Iceland in the last quarter of the ninth century brought with them the language then spoken throughout all of Scandinavia This ancestor of the modern Scandinavian tongues has been preserved in Iceland with the oldest preserved Icelandic prose written almost 1000 years ago Limited communications between Iceland and other countries frequent migrations inside the island and not least important a long and uninterrupted literary tradition has meant the Icelandic language has not developed any dialects in the ordinary sense 33% of the net profit from the sale of this book will be donated to charities schools and special causes *Catalog of Copyright Entries. Contemporary Chinese Fiction Writers Laifong Leung, 2016-07-28 In the years since the death of Mao Zedong interest in Chinese writers and Chinese literature has risen significantly in the West In 2000 Gao Xingjian became the first Chinese writer to receive the Nobel Prize for Literature followed by Mo Yan in 2012 and writers such as Ha Jin and Da Sijie have also become well known in the West Despite this progress the vast majority of Chinese writers remain largely unknown outside of China This book introduces the lives and works of eighty contemporary Chinese writers and focuses on writers from the Rightist generation Bai Hua Gao Xiaosheng Liu Shaotang writers of the Red Guard generation Li Rui Wang Anyi Post Cultural Revolution Writers as well as others Unlike earlier works it provides detailed often first hand biographical information on this wide range of writers including their career trajectories major themes and artistic characteristics In addition to this each entry includes a critical presentation and evaluation of the writer's major works a selected bibliography of publications that includes works in Chinese works translated into English and critical articles and books available in English Offering a valuable contribution to the field of contemporary Chinese literature by making detailed information about Chinese writers more accessible this book will be of interest to students and scholars Chinese Literature Contemporary Literature and Chinese Studies Modern

Korean Fiction Bruce Fulton, 2005 Home to the New York Yankees the Bronx Zoo and the Grand Concourse the Bronx was at one time a haven for upwardly mobile second generation immigrants eager to leave the crowded tenements of Manhattan in pursuit of the American dream Once hailed as a wonder borough of beautiful homes parks and universities the Bronx became during the 1960s and 1970s a national symbol of urban deterioration Thriving neighborhoods that had long been home to generations of families dissolved under waves of arson crime and housing abandonment turning blocks of apartment buildings into gutted graffiti covered shells and empty trash filled lots In this revealing history of the Bronx Evelyn Gonzalez describes how the once infamous New York City borough underwent one of the most successful and inspiring community revivals in American history From its earliest beginnings as a loose cluster of commuter villages to its current status as a densely populated home for New York's growing and increasingly more diverse African American and Hispanic populations this book shows how the Bronx interacted with and was affected by the rest of New York City as it grew from a small colony on the tip of Manhattan into a sprawling metropolis This is the story of the clattering of elevated subways and the cacophony of crowded neighborhoods the heady optimism of industrial progress and the despair of economic recession and the vibrancy of ethnic cultures and the resilience of local grassroots coalitions crucial to the borough's rejuvenation In recounting the varied and extreme transformations this remarkable community has undergone Evelyn Gonzalez argues that it was not racial discrimination rampant crime postwar liberalism or big government that was to blame for the urban crisis that assailed the Bronx during the late 1960s Rather the decline was inextricably connected to the same kinds of social initiatives economic transactions political decisions and simple human choices that had once been central to the development and vitality of the borough Although the history of the Bronx is unquestionably a success story crime poverty and substandard housing still afflict the community today Yet the process of building and rebuilding carries on and the revitalization of neighborhoods and a resurgence of economic growth continue to offer hope for the future

Popular Chinese Literature and Performing Arts in the People's Republic of China, 1949-1979 Bonnie S. McDougall, 2024-06-21 The essays in this volume constitute an exceptionally broad and inclusive account of Chinese literature and performing arts since 1949 Extending beyond fiction to poetry and drama and covering song opera and film as well these essays reveal a more lively and varied cultural life than that disclosed by studies confined to fiction and literary politics Rather than stopping at the assumption that art reflects Party or government policy the essays uncover the traditional roots of popular literature and performing art by employing literary and artistic methods of analysis While often lacking in appeal to Western audiences these popular arts nonetheless have their own artistic validity and convey complex meanings to broadly based Chinese audiences The materials and analyses presented here have social as well as cultural relevance Variety and change rather than monolithic uniformity have characterized post 1949 cultural bureaucracies writers performers and audiences This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1984 Modern Chinese Women Writers Michael S. Duke,1989-11-22 The essays in this volume consider the state of current writing of the world s best Chinese women writers All the contributors relate their authors to the life and work of other contemporary Chinese women writers and compare work coming from PRC Taiwan and overseas Chinese The essays make a contribution to the fields of Modern Chinese literature and women s studies and although they are primarily intended to bear witness to the quality of women s writing they also attempt to elucidate the complex issues of Chinese women s lives in the contemporary world The Medusa Gaze in Contemporary Women's Fiction Gillian M. E. Alban,2017-08-21 The Medusa Gaze offers striking insights into the desires and frustrations of women through the narratives of the impressive contemporary novelists Angela Carter Toni Morrison Sylvia Plath Margaret Atwood A S Byatt Iris Murdoch Jeanette Winterson Jean Rhys and Mich le Roberts It illuminates women s power and vulnerability as they construct their own egos in opposition to their hostile alter egos or others facing them in their mirrors and fixes a panoptic gaze on the women stalking its pages as they learn how to deflect the menacing gaze of others by returning their look defiantly back at them Some stare back and win assurance others are stared down reduced to psychic trauma madness and even suicide The book shows how Freud s Sartre s and Lacan s androcentric views define the Medusa m other as monstrous and how the efforts of mothers to nurture may be slighted as inadequate or devouring It presents Medusa and other goddess figures as inspirational repelling harm through the evil eye of their powerful gaze Conversely it also shows women who are condemned as monstrous Gorgons trapped in enmity rivalry and rage Representing English American and African American Canadian and Caribbean writing the works explored here include realistic social narrative and magical realist writings in addition to tales of the past and dystopian narratives The Oxford Guide to Literature in English Translation Peter France,2000 This guide highlights the place of translation in our culture encouraging awareness of the process of translating and the choices involved making the translator more visible Concentrating on major writers and works it covers translations out of many languages from Greek to Hungarian Korean to Turkish For some works e g Virgil s Aeneid which have been much translated the discussion is historical and critical showing how translation has evolved over the centuries and bringing out the differences between versions Elsewhere with less familiar literatures the Guide examines the extent to which translation has done justice to the range of work available

Nativism Overseas Hsin-sheng C. Kao,1993-01-01 This book examines five of the most influential Chinese born women writers of the post war era Nie Hualing Yu Lihua Chen Ruoxi Li Li and Zhong Xiaoyang They have become a dominating force in Chinese literature today although they presently reside outside their homeland This book raises a clear and consistent voice in line with the literature of exile and self discovery As these writers talk of the root the self and their social cultural and historical identities their varied voices share the unique characteristics of the literature of exile These women who continue to write in their native language envision themselves as the literary mediators between their lost past and their newly adopted homeland They compare each of these worlds in terms of the demons with which they have wrestled for identity recognition and freedom The book is of interest not only to those with a particular interest in the phenomenon of these Chinese exiled intellectual migr s and their role in the influence on the development of Chinese literature but to those who seek to understand the development of women s studies and world literature as a whole and the influence of East West literary relations in particular

Morning Sun Laifong Leung,Jan Walls,2016-09-16 This is a collection of interviews with 26 writers of China s zhiqing generation relatively young artists who participated in the Cultural Revolution as teen age Red Guards suffered through the subsequent rustication of intellectual youth and eventually returned to relatively normal lives but always with a tragic hiatus haunting their formative years While one goal of Professor Leung is to introduce to the West an important group of writers little known outside China she also aims to succeed through the interviews in providing a special perspective on the devastating political history of China since the 1970s years through the eyes of its keenest observers and in offering a perspective on the social political and cultural milieu of the period

By the River Charles A. Laughlin,Liu Hongtao,Jonathan Stalling,2016-11-10 The novella as the editors of this volume explain is in many ways the native habitat of modern Chinese literary production the ideal fictional form for revealing the various facets of contemporary Chinese culture The seven novellas collected here resoundingly support their claim Featuring works by award winners and rising stars women and men By the River presents a confluence of some of the most compelling voices in China today Together their narratives reflect the rich diversity of Chinese experience in the modern era These novellas are stories of coming of age in the countryside of romance in the shadow of an electrical power station or in the watery landscape of a lost love of a daughter s epic journey to find her estranged mother Whether telling of love or loss of work or play along the river of experience the narratives are replete with details that bring literary depth to the everyday the mark of the novella These details and the novellas into which they are woven defy simple answers to moral and political questions about modern life leaving readers with the feeling that their world has been made larger that they have seen through different eyes for a moment if not forever Reflecting modern Chinese life in the city and in the country and among diverse regional cultures By the River showcases the best of contemporary Chinese long form fiction
