A World Art History and Its Objects David Carrier,2008-11-28 Is writing a world art history possible Does the history of art as such even exist outside the Western tradition Is it possible to consider the history of art in a way that is not fundamentally Eurocentric In this highly readable and provocative book David Carrier a philosopher and art historian does not attempt to write a world art history himself Rather he asks the question of how an art history of all cultures could be written or whether it is even possible to do so He also engages the political and moral issues raised by the idea of a multicultural art history Focusing on a consideration of intersecting artistic traditions Carrier negotiates the way meaning and understanding shift or are altered when a visual object from one culture for example is inserted into the visual tradition of another culture A World Art History and Its Objects proposes the use of temporal narrative as a way to begin to understand a multicultural art history

Encounters: Medieval Islamic History in 50 Objects Marcus Milwright,2025-10-27 This book consists of fifty case studies and offers an innovative approach to the study of Medieval Islamic history concentrating on the analysis of physical objects from the seventh to the eighteenth centuries and across most of the regions that make up the pre Modern Islamic world These include a wide range of objects from portable items like coins vessels and books to major constructions including mosques tombs castles dams and canal systems The central argument is that the interdisciplinary study of physical objects provides invaluable perspectives that can deepen or challenge the evidence in the written record Object based study can also shed light on the lives of social groups who are seldom discussed in Islamic texts written before the modern period To demonstrate these points each case study focusses on a single object or small group of related objects The case studies combine close analysis of the material and visual characteristics with a discussion of the wider context in which such objects were commissioned made used adapted and exchanged The book is intended as an introduction to the historical study of Islamic objects employing perspectives from the fields of art history archaeology numismatics ethnography and epigraphy Written with a minimum of technical language and supported by a critical introduction an extensive glossary a timeline and guide for further reading the book is aimed at students and general readers who are interested in the political economic social cultural religious and intellectual histories of the Islamic world

The Shock of Recognition Lewis Pyenson, 2020-10-12 In The Shock of Recognition Lewis Pyenson uses a method called Historical Complementarity to identify the motif of non figurative abstraction in modern art and science He identifies the motif in

Picasso's and Einstein's educational environments He shows how this motif in domestic furnishing and in urban lighting set the stage for Picasso's and Einstein's professional success before 1914 He applies his method to intellectual life in Argentina using it to address that nation's focus on an inventory of the natural world until the 1940s its adoption of non figurative art and nuclear physics in the middle of the twentieth century and attention to landscape painting and the wonder of nature at the end of the century

Studies in the Islamic Decorative Arts Robert Hillenbrand, 2019-12-31 Islamic artists channelled their energies not into easel painting and large scale sculpture but rather into what Western scholars obeying a very different hierarchy of art forms rather disparagingly term the decorative arts or even the minor arts In point of fact some of the greatest masterpieces of Islamic art are in the media of ceramics metalwork textiles ivory and glass Often the images they bear express a complex set of meanings for Islam inherited much material from the iconographic systems of earlier civilizations notably those of the ancient Near East and of the classical world Islam also developed its own distinctive vocabulary of signs and symbols Accordingly questions of iconography and meaning bulk large among the studies gathered together in the present volume These studies written over a period of almost thirty years and taken from a wide variety of published sources deal with aspects of the decorative arts from Spain to India and from the 7th to the 17th century They focus in turn upon ceramics and metalwork on coins carpets and calligraphy and on carving in wood and ivory They are arranged under three headings The first comprises general surveys of the field covering the content of these arts and confronting the challenges they present such as the Islamic approach to three dimensional sculpture The second deals with questions of iconography and meaning while the third comprises a series of studies devoted to specific media such as ivory woodwork and numismatics This volume therefore offers not only a general introduction to some of the problems posed by Islamic art but also readings of key objects in an attempt to explore their meaning and finally an in depth focus on individual objects representing specific genres and media
