Montreal Au Xxe Siecle Regards De Photographes:

Photogenic Montreal Martha Langford, Johanne Sloan, 2021-12-15 The agency of photographs is a recurrent concern within the context of the city Whether found in architectural records social documentary photojournalism or artistic practice photographic objects are embedded in urban contestation aesthetically charged by artists reinserted into social histories and mobilized to imagine a future city Photogenic Montreal takes a question initially posed by heritage debates what does photography preserve and creates a rich conversation about the agency of the human actors before and behind the camera and of the medium itself The interplay of archives and activism structures the book Photographs that appear to be sealed off in newspapers storage rooms or archives accrue new meaning when they cross the threshold back into social spaces and circulate anew It is through the reactivation of archival photographs that submerged traces of urban experience are discovered and alternate histories of Montreal can be recounted Multiple forms of activism and artistic expression complement this archival work Beginning in the 1960s community minded and heritage groups responded to the tensions arising from urban reconstruction gentrification and the erasure of neighbourhoods this activism also left its photographic traces Attentive to the still changing face of the city s architecture neighbourhoods and street life Photogenic Montreal participates in debates about who the city belongs to who speaks on its behalf and how to picture its past and present

Picturing Toronto Sarah Bassnett, 2022-03-30 In 1911 when Arthur Goss was hired as Toronto s first official photographer the city was at a critical juncture Industry expansion and population growth produced pressing concerns about housing shortages sanitation and the health and welfare of citizens Dispelling popular misconceptions Picturing Toronto demonstrates that Goss and other photographers did not simply document the changing conditions of urban life their photography contributed to the development of modern Toronto and shaped its inhabitants Drawing on archival sources from the early twentieth century Sarah Bassnett investigates how a range of groups including the municipal government social reformers and the press used photography to reconfigure the urban environment and constitute liberal subjects Through a series of case studies including the construction of the Bloor Viaduct civic beautification plans urban reform in the Ward immigration and citizenship and Goss s portrait photography Bassnett exposes how photographs were at the heart of debates over what the city should look like how it should operate and under what conditions it was appropriate for people to live This lavishly illustrated book is the first study to treat images as vital elements that shaped Toronto s social and political history Interdisciplinary in its approach Picturing Toronto displays the complex entanglements between photography and urban modernity
