Priest Director, Illinois Alvaro L. Nieves Professor of Sociology Wheaton College, 2006-11-10 In recent years Christian scholars have become increasingly aware of their responsibility to recognize and respond to the challenges posed by ethnic and racial diversity Similarly historically white Christian colleges universities seminaries and congregations are struggling to transform themselves into communities that are welcoming to minorities and sensitive to their needs This collection of all new essays is meant to enable those who are engaged in these initiatives to understand the historical linkage of race ethnicity and Christianity and to explore the ways in which constructive change can be achieved The volume is the product of a long term study funded by the Wabash Center for Teaching and Learning in Theology In the course of this study it emerged that many Christian institutions now offer courses on race and ethnicity but that there is very little relevant literature written from the standpoint of rigorous Christian scholarship This book is intended to fill that gap The authors address such questions as What has been the history of Christian churches and leaders in relation to slavery segregation and apartheid Which biblical texts and doctrines have historically been employed on behalf of racial projects and which are relevant to the racial and ethnic crises of our day How have religious leaders constructively engaged such crises How do congregations shape the values civic commitments understandings and sensitivities of their membership How can local congregations be sites for racial reconciliation and justice initiatives Are there positive models for how churches and other religious institutions have helped to bring healing to racial and ethnic tensions and divides How might Christians in the professions work to bring justice to business education government and other areas of society When good intentions fail to accomplish desired ends how do we analyze what went wrong Written by an interracial and interethnic team of scholars representing diverse disciplines this book will meet a pressing need and set a new standard for the discussion of race and ethnicity in the Christian context Ethnicity and Religion

Attridge, Dale B. Martin, 2007 What is a Galilean What were the criteria of defining a person as a Galilean archaeologically or with respect to literary sources such as Josephus or the rabbis What role did religion play in the process of identity formation

Twenty two articles based on papers read at conferences at Cambridge Wuppertal and Yale by experts from 7 countries shed light on a complex region the pivotal geographic and cultural context of both earliest Christianity and rabbinic Judaism In these papers ancient Galilee emerges as a dynamic region of continuous change in which religion ethnicity and identity were not static monoliths but had to be negotiated in the context of a multiform environment subject to different influences
