Religious Education in a Post-Secular Age Olof Franck, Peder Thalén, 2020-09-27 This book analyzes the changes and shifts in religious education in Europe over the past 50 years In a post secular age it has become increasingly difficult to make sharp distinctions between what is religious and non religious confessional and non confessional Reforms in religious education in Sweden in the 1960s appeared as part of a process of wider secular liberalization giving more credence to the idea of absolute neutrality in religious education However drastic shifts in society culture and the European religious landscape raise the need for a reevaluation of the foundations of religious education Drawing on a range of case studies from across Europe this book will appeal to students and scholars of religious education as well as post secular education more generally Unearthing Policies of Instrumentalization in English Religious Education Using Statement Archaeology Jonathan Doney, 2021-01-01 This book presents the theoretical basis and practical steps involved in using Statement Archaeology an innovative method that enhances understandings of policy development exemplifying its use in relation to one curriculum subject Religious Education The book is the first of its kind to fully describe the theoretical foundations of Statement Archaeology and the practical steps in its deployment acting as a methodological handbook that will enable readers to use the method subsequently in their own research Further the book offers an unparalleled contribution to the historical account of the development and maintenance of compulsory RE in English state maintained schools and uses this to engage with key current debates in Religious Education policy It unearths important insights into how the present is built informs future policy direction and potential implementation strategies and helps prevent the repetition of unsuccessful past endeavours This book will be of great interest for academics researchers and post graduate students in the fields of religious education educational policy and politics and research methods in education

Commission funded REDCo project which addressed the question of how religions might contribute to dialogue or conflict in Europe Researchers in education from eight countries the UK Estonia France Germany the Netherlands the Russian Federation Norway and Spain studied how young Europeans of different religious cultural and political backgrounds could engage in dialogue in the context of the school Empirical studies conducted with 14 16 year old students included them offering their own perspectives and analyses of teaching and learning in both dialogue and conflict situations Although there were some different national patterns and trends most students wished for peaceful coexistence across differences and believed this to be possible The majority agreed that peaceful coexistence depended on knowledge about each other s religions and worldviews sharing common interests and doing things together The project found that students who learn about religious diversity in school are more willing to discuss religions and beliefs with students of other backgrounds than those who do not The international range of expert contributors to this book evaluate the results of the REDCo project providing examples of its qualitative and quantitative studies and reflecting on the methods and theory used in the project as a whole This book was originally published as a special issue of the British Journal of Religious Education Routledge Library Editions: Education Mini-Set N Teachers & Teacher Education Research 13 vols Various, 2021-06-23 Dealing with all aspects of teacher education in the past 50 years the 13 books in this set originally published between 1969 and 1996 discuss how the education system in the UK has changed the impact of restructuring on teachers teacher expectations around the world and other important topics in the sociology of education and teacher research Studies in Religion and Education John M. Hull, 2018-12-07 First published in 1984 John M Hull was a leading figure in the controversies which had surrounded religious education since the late 1960s This book brings together in one volume 21 of his published papers and articles which had previously appeared in journals conferences reports and books in Belgium Australia Canada the United States as well as the United Kingdom This book is essential reading for all teachers clergy parents and students seriously concerned with the issues confronting religious education and Christian upbringing in our secular and pluralist world Catholic Schools in a Plural Society Andrew B. Morris, 2024-01-05 This book comprises a selection of articles published mainly in peer reviewed academic journals together with a small number of documents prepared for policy makers within the Catholic education sector in England and Wales The texts have been reprinted almost entirely as originally published but with some minor editing to avoid unnecessary duplication The papers are grouped into four sections The first is concerned with the context of state maintained Catholic schools The second explores research into the academic performance of Catholic schools prior to 1995 The third provides data on pupils academic and social outcomes together with comparative studies of teachers and leadership of Catholic schools The fourth section contains briefing papers about various aspects of state maintained Catholic education Discourses of Religion and Secularism in Religious Education Classrooms Karin Kittelmann Flensner, 2017-07-07 This book answers the question on how students and teachers talk about religion when the mandatory and nonconfessional school subject of Religious Education is on the schedule in the world's most secular country. To do this it analyses discourses of religion as they occur in the classroom practice. It is based on findings from participant observation of Religious Education lessons in several upper secondary schools in Sweden. The book discusses different aspects of the role and function of nonconfessional integrative Religious Education in an increasingly pluralistic multireligious yet also secularized society at a general level. It looks at the religious landscape, different perspectives on school subjects, various models and the development of Religious Education and discourses of religion of a secularist, spiritual and nationalistic nature. Religious Education is a school subject that manoeuvres in the midst of a field that on the one hand concerns crucial knowledge in a pluralistic society and on the other hand deals with highly contested questions in a society characterized by diversity and secularity. In the mandatory integrative and non-confessional school subject of Religious Education in Sweden, all students are taught together regardless of religious or secular affiliation. The subject deals with major world religions, important non-religious worldviews and ethics from a non-confessional perspective. Thus, in the classroom, individuals who identify with diverse religious and non-religious worldviews with a different understanding of what religion could be and what it might mean to be religious are brought together. The book examines questions raised in this pluralistic context: What discourses of religion become hegemonic in the classroom? How do these discourses affect the possibility of reaching the aim of Religious Education, which concerns understanding and respect for different ways of thinking and living in a society characterized by diversity?

Turning Points in Religious Studies Ursula King, 2016-10-06 Religious Studies was first introduced as a new discipline in universities and colleges around the world in the 1960s. This discipline brought about a reorientation of the study of religion, created new perspectives and influenced all sectors of education. The essays presented in this volume provide a clear and comprehensive overview of the history of Religious Studies as an academic discipline, the turning points it faces and the directions it might take in the future. The work is organised in three sections. The first presents a succinct case study of the historical development of Religious Studies in Britain. The second considers the development of Religious Studies throughout the world in its major constituents, including Hinduism, Buddhism, Sikhism, traditional African religions, Christianity, Islam and new religious movements in Africa, the study of truth and dialogue in religion science and the rediscovery of religious experience, mysticism. The third section looks to developments in Religious Studies in particular at religion in relation to the arts, gender, information technology and to Religious Studies in a global perspective.

Rethinking the School Curriculum John White, 2004 In 2000 the school curriculum in England was equipped for the first time in the country's history with an extensive set of aims and purposes. In this book leading experts in the teaching of school subjects examine the significance of the new aims for the reform of the curriculum. In two general introductory chapters John White discusses the validity of the aims and how they might be realized in schools. The remainder of the book focuses on subject-specific areas and how these need to be brought into line with the new aims so as to produce a more relevant and enjoyable curriculum experience for pupils including more opportunities for choice of activities The book concludes with suggestions about how government policy on the curriculum should now succeed This portrayal of the school curriculum today and how it could be developed in line with the new aims will be of interest to those studying education with a particular focus on the areas of curriculum assessment school management philosophy of education and the history of education Education, Religion and Diversity L. Philip Barnes, 2014-02-05 In this thoughtful and provocative book Philip Barnes challenges religious educators to re think their field and proposes a new post liberal model of religious education to help them do so His model both confronts prejudice and intolerance and also allows the voices of different religions to be heard and critically explored While Education Religion and Diversity is directed to a British audience the issues it raises and the alternative it proposes are important for those educators in the United States who believe that the public schools have an important role in teaching students about religion Walter Feinberg Professor Emeritus of Education Policy Organization and Leadership at the University of Illinois Urbana Champaign Philip Barnes offers a penetrating and lucid analysis of the strengths and weaknesses of modern religious education in Britain He considers a range of epistemological and methodological issues and identifies two contrasting models of religious education that have been influential what he calls a liberal and a postmodern model After a detailed review and criticism of both he outlines his own new post liberal model of religious education one that is compatible with both confessional and non confessional forms of religious education yet takes religious diversity and religious truth claims seriously Essential reading for all religious educators and those concerned with the role of religion in schools Bernd Schröder Professor of Practical Theology and Religious Education University of Göttingen What place if any does religious education have in the schools of an increasingly diverse society This lucid and authoritative book makes an incisive contribution to this crucial debate Roger Trigg is Emeritus Professor of Philosophy University of Warwick and Senior Research Fellow Ian Ramsey Centre Oxford The challenge of diversity is central to education in modern liberal democratic states and religious education is often the point where these differences become both most acute and where it is believed of all curriculum subjects resolutions are most likely to be found Education Religion and Diversity identifies and explores the commitments and convictions that have guided post confessional religious education and concludes controversially that the subject as currently theorised and practised is incapable of challenging religious intolerance and of developing respectful relationships between people from different communities and groups within society It is argued that despite the rhetoric of success which religious education is obliged to rehearse in order to perpetuate its status in the curriculum and to ensure political support a fundamentally new model of religious education is required to meet the challenge of diversity to education and to society A new framework for religious education is developed which offers the potential for the subject to make a genuine contribution to the creation of a responsible respectful society Education Religion and Diversity is a wide ranging provocative exploration of religious education in modern liberal democracies It is essential reading for those concerned with the role of religion in education and for religious and theological educators who want to think critically about the aims and character of religious education
