Remembrance Of Crimes Past:

Remembrance of Crimes Past Dannie ABSE, 1990 The Crime of Destruction and the Law of Genocide Caroline Fournet, 2016-03-16 This highly original work provides a thought provoking and valuable resource for researchers and academics with an interest in genocide criminology international organizations and law and society In her book Caroline Fournet examines the law relating to genocide and explores the apparent failure of society to provide an adequate response to incidences of mass atrocity The work casts a legal perspective on this social phenomenon to show that genocide fails to be appropriately remembered due to inherent defects in the law of genocide itself The book thus connects the social response to the legal theory and practice and trials in particular Fournet s study illustrates the shortcomings of the Genocide Convention as a means of preventing and punishing genocide as well as its consequent failure to ensure the memory of this heinous crime Law and Memory Uladzislau Belavusau, Aleksandra Gliszczynska-Grabias, 2017-10-19 Legal governance of memory has played a central role in establishing hegemony of monumental history and has forged national identities and integration processes in Europe and beyond In this book a range of contributors explore both the nature and role of legal engagement into historical memory in selected national law European and international law They also reflect on potential conflicts between legal governance political pluralism and fundamental rights such as freedom of expression In recent years there have been numerous monumental commemoration practices and judicial trials about correlated events all over the world and this is a prime opportunity to undertake an important global comparative scrutiny of memory laws Against the background of mass re writing of history in different parts of the world this book revisits a fascinating subject of memory laws from the standpoint of comparative law and transitional justice The Memory of Power and Abuse of Power Franziska Metzger, Paul Oberholzer, Hans Zollner, 2025-09-08 This volume approaches the memory of abuses of power in past and present societies from a transdisciplinary perspective On the one hand methodological approaches and schemes of analysis are developed from the point of view of philosophy and theory of history history didactics literary studies anthropology Church and religious history On the other hand the contributions deal with case studies that pay special attention to the Holocaust to mass violence and war the history of slavery missionary history and sexual abuse The focus is on narratives of memory politics of history the relation between historiography public memory restitution and reparation but also on empowerment and participation in civil society and by victims of violence in the creation of public memory spaces of commemoration and memorials regarding instances of abuse of power Politics, Violence, Memory Jeffrey S. Kopstein, Jelena Subotić, Susan Welch, 2023-01-15 Politics Violence Memory highlights important new social scientific research on the Holocaust and initiates the integration of the Holocaust into mainstream social scientific research in a way that will be useful both for social scientists and historians Until recently social scientists largely ignored the Holocaust despite the centrality of these tragic events to many of their own concepts and theories In Politics Violence Memory the editors bring together contributions to understanding the Holocaust from a variety of disciplines including political science sociology demography and public health The chapters examine the sources and measurement of antisemitism explanations for collaboration rescue and survival competing accounts of neighbor on neighbor violence and the legacies of the Holocaust in contemporary Europe Politics Violence Memory brings new data to bear on these important concerns and shows how older data can be deployed in new ways to understand the index case of violence in the modern world

Political Crime and the Memory of Loss John Borneman, 2011-10-04 Loss is a fundamental human condition that often leads both individuals and groups to seek redress in the form of violence But are there possible modes of redress to reckon with loss that might lead to a departure from the violence of collective and individual revenge This book focuses on the redress of political crime in Germany and Lebanon extending its analysis to questions of accountability and democratization in the United States and elsewhere To understand the proposed modes of redress John Borneman links the way the actors define their injuries to the cultural forms of redress these injuries assume and to the social contexts in which they are open to refiguring Borneman theorizes modes of accountability the meaning of regime change and the American occupation of Iraq and the mechanisms of democratic authority in Europe and North America

Tracing and Documenting Nazi Victims Past and Present Henning Borggräfe, Christian Höschler, Isabel Panek, 2020-06-08 After World War II tracing and documenting Nazi victims emerged against the background of millions of missing persons and early compensation proceedings This was a process in which the Allies international aid organizations and survivors themselves took part New archives documentation centers and tracing bureaus were founded amid the increasing Cold War divide They gathered documents on Nazi persecution and structured them in specialized collections to provide information on individual fates and their grave repercussions the loss of relatives the search for a new home physical or mental injuries existential problems social support and recognition but also continued exclusion or discrimination By doing so institutions involved in this work were inevitably confronted with contentious issues such as varying political mandates neutrality vs solidarity with those formerly persecuted data protection vs public interest and many more Over time tracing bureaus and archives changed methods and policies and even expanded their activities using historical documents for both research and public remembrance This is the first publication to explore this multifaceted history of tracing and documenting past and present

Bodies of Memory Yoshikuni Igarashi, 2012-01-09 Japan and the United States became close political allies so quickly after the end of World War II that it seemed as though the two countries had easily forgotten the war they had fought Here Yoshikuni Igarashi offers a provocative look at how Japanese postwar society struggled to understand its war loss and the resulting national trauma even as forces within the society sought to suppress these memories Igarashi argues that Japan's nationhood survived the war's destruction in part through a popular culture that expressed memories of loss and devastation more readily than political discourse ever could He shows how the desire to represent the past motivated Japan's cultural productions in the first twenty five years of the postwar period Japanese war experiences were often described through narrative devices that downplayed the war's disruptive effects on Japan's history Rather than treat these narratives as obstacles to historical inquiry Igarashi reads them along with counter narratives that attempted to register the original impact of the war He traces the tensions between remembering and forgetting by focusing on the body as the central site for Japan's production of the past This approach leads to fascinating discussions of such diverse topics as the use of the atomic bomb hygiene policies under the U S occupation the monstrous body of Godzilla the first Western professional wrestling matches in Japan the transformation of Tokyo and the athletic body for the 1964 Tokyo Olympics and the writer Yukio Mishima's dramatic suicide while providing a fresh critical perspective on the war legacy of Japan

Injustice, Memory and Faith in Human Rights Kalliopi Chainoglou, Barry Collins, Michael Phillips, John Strawson, 2017-07-20 This multi disciplinary collection interrogates the role of human rights in addressing past injustices The volume draws on legal scholars political scientists anthropologists and political philosophers grappling with the weight of the memory of historical injustices arising from conflicts in Europe the Middle East and Australasia It examines the role of human rights as legal doctrine rhetoric and policy as developed by states international organizations regional groups and non governmental bodies The authors question whether faith in human rights is justified as balm to heal past injustice or whether such faith nourishes both victimhood and self justification These issues are explored through three discrete sections moments of memory and injustice addressing injustice and questions of faith In each of these sections authors address the manner in which memory of past conflicts and injustice haunt our contemporary understanding of human rights The volume questions whether the expectation that human rights law can deal with past injustice has undermined the development of an emancipatory politics of human rights for our current world

Memory Laws, Memory Wars Nikolay Koposov, 2018 A major contribution to our understanding of present day historical consciousness through a study of memory laws across Europe

Prosecuting War Crimes James Gow, Rachel Kerr, Zoran Pajic, 2013-09-23 This volume examines the legacy of the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia ICTY which was created under Chapter VII of the UN Charter as a mechanism explicitly aimed at the restoration and maintenance of international peace and security As the ICTY has now entered its twentieth year this volume reflects on the record and practices of the Tribunal Since it was established it has had enormous impact on the procedural jurisprudential and institutional development of international criminal law as well as the international criminal justice project This will be its international legacy but its legacy in the region where the crimes under its jurisdiction took place is less clear research has shown that reactions to the ICTY have been mixed among the communities most affected by its work Bringing together a range of key thinkers in the field Prosecuting War Crimes explores these findings and discusses why many feel that the ICTY has failed to fully engage with people s experiences and meet their expectations This book will be of much interest to students of war crimes international criminal law Central and East European politics human rights and peace and conflict studies

Justice and Memory after Dictatorship Raluca Grosescu, 2023-12-19 After the fall of military and communist dictatorships at the end of the 1980s Latin American and Eastern European countries had to reckon with atrocities perpetrated by these Cold War regimes Judges prosecutors and human rights campaigners across the two regions constructed novel readings of international criminal law to fight impunity and realize justice for gross human rights violations Justice and Memory after Dictatorship Latin America Central Eastern Europe and the Fragmentation of International Criminal Law provides a groundbreaking socio historical account of the global transformation of international criminal law from these two semi peripheries of the world system Based on ethnographic observation and analyses of jurisprudence Raluca Grosescu dissects

the narratives that were fundamentally shaped by the relationship of law and politics Using paradigmatic cases and personal interviews with lawyers and judicial officials from Latin America and Eastern Europe Grosescu uncovers how legal actors and organizations were instrumental in questioning an international order that marginalized the political violence that had unfolded in the two regions during the Cold War Justice and Memory after Dictatorship is a significant volume in modern international criminal and human rights law and an important read for scholars students and legal practitioners alike The Prisons Memory Archive: A Case Study in Filmed Memory of Conflict Jolene Mairs Dyer, Conor McCafferty, Cahal McLaughlin, 2022-09-06 The Prisons Memory Archive PMA explores ways that narratives of a conflicted past are filmed at the site of the experiences and later negotiated in a contested present in the North of Ireland Given the state's failed attempts at establishing an official process for addressing the legacy of the conflict that lasted between 1968 and 1998 there are a number of community and academic initiatives that have taken up this task The Prisons Memory Archive is one such project whose aim is to research the possibilities of engaging with the story of the other in a society that is emerging from decades of political violence The PMA filmed back inside the prisons with those who passed through Armagh Gaol 2006 and the Maze and Long Kesh Prison 2007 which were both touchstone and tinderbox during the 30 years of violent conflict We applied protocols of co ownership where participants become co authors of their own story with the right to withdraw up to the point of exhibition inclusivity to ensure a multi narrative archive with prison staff prisoners visitors teachers chaplains etc and life story telling where leading questions are eschewed in order to return more agency to the participants Currently the full archive made up of 160 walk and talk recordings totaling 300 hours of filmed material is available at the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland where it is preserved and made accessible to the public and a website has been designed for educational use of the archive This collection offers critical reflections on the processes of recording archiving and utilising the archive in its several manifestations e g feature films website and full archive at the Public Records Office The perspectives offer a range of reflections including filming editing archiving web design education and museum practice Transitional Justice and Memory in Cambodia Peter Manning, 2017-06-26 Memories of violence suffering and atrocities in Cambodia are today being pulled in different directions A range of transitional justice practices have been put to work in the name of redressing restoring and renewing memory At the centre of this stage is the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia ECCC a hybrid tribunal established to prosecute the leaders of the Khmer Rouge regime under which 1.6 million Cambodians died of hunger or disease or were executed This book unpicks the way memory is reconstructed through appeals to a national memory the legal reframing and coding of memories as crimes and bids to locate personal memories within collective biographies Analysing the techniques and interventions of the ECCC as well as exploring the role of non governmental organisations NGOs the book explores the relationships in which Cambodian communities navigate memories of political violence This book is essential for understanding transitional justice in Cambodia in and beyond the courtroom Transitional

Justice and Memory in Cambodia shows that the governing logic of transitional justice interventions that societies are unable to deal with memories of atrocity and violence without some form of transitional justice mechanism neglects the complexity of memory and remembering in post atrocity contexts and the agency of the subjects to which such mechanisms are addressed Drawing on documentary sources legal transcripts interviews and participant observation data the book situates transitional justice processes in Cambodia within a wider context of social and cultural memory politics examining old and new conflicts of memory that have emerged between the varied accounts and uses of the past that exist in Cambodia now As such it will appeal to students and scholars in sociology human rights law and criminology

Memory Activism and Digital Practices after Conflict Orli Fridman, 2025-10-01 This book investigates the study of memory activism and memory of activism emerging after conflict as a political civic action It examines the appearance and growth of memory activism in Serbia amid the legacies of unwanted memories of the wars of the 1990s approaching the post Yugoslav region as a region of memory and tracing the alternative calendars and alternative commemorative practices of memory activists as they have evolved over a period of more than two decades By presenting in depth accounts of memory activism practices on site and online Memory Activism and Digital Practices after Conflict Unwanted Memories analyses this evolution in the context of generational belonging and introduces frameworks for the study of hashtag memory activism alternative commemorations and commemorative solidarity
