Sample Book Insights

1 I was about to meet one of the few survivors from the first transport of women to Auschwitz a woman who had kept her story to herself for nearly 50 years I was nervous about the task at hand

2 I met with Rena and within thirty minutes I knew I would do whatever I could to help her She had accepted me into her heart for the rest of her life

3 I had planned to transcribe the interview tapes and write the story But I soon realized that Rena's story did not fit into a linear format It was richly and profusely associative

4 I wanted to understand how Rena was able to survive the Holocaust and I wanted to place her memories into a historical context I found that the Nazi records supported her account with uncanny accuracy but that they did not include the remarkable acts of humanity that she experienced

Stealth Altruism Arthur B. Shostak, 2017-07-12 Though it has been nearly seventy years since the Holocaust the human capacity for evil displayed by its perpetrators is still shocking and haunting But the story of the Nazi attempt to annihilate European Jewry is not all we should remember Stealth Altruism tells of secret non militant high risk efforts by Carers those victims who tried to reduce suffering and improve everyone's chances of survival Their empowering acts of altruism remind us of our inherent longing to do good even in situations of extraordinary brutality Arthur B Shostak explores forbidden acts of kindness such as sharing scarce clothing and food rations holding up weakened fellow prisoners during roll call secretly replacing an ailing friend in an exhausting work detail and much more He explores the motivation behind this dangerous behavior how it differed when in or out of sight who provided or undermined forbidden care the differing experiences of men and women how and why gentiles provided aid and most importantly how might the costly obscurity of stealth altruism soon be corrected To date memorialization has emphasized what was done to victims and sidelined what victims tried to do for one another Carers provide an inspiring model and their perilous efforts should be recognized and taught alongside the horrors of the Holocaust Humanity needs such inspiration

Women and the Divine G. Howie, 2016-04-30 This collection explores the question of whether it is possible to reconceive the category of transcendence from a feminist perspective The contributors use the concept of transcendence to approach questions relating to the body desire and subjectivity while offering a response to secular relativism

Gender, Religion and Diversity Ursula King, Tina Beattie, 2005-12-01 Gender Religion and Diversity provides an introduction to some of the most challenging perspectives in the contemporary study of gender and religion In recent years women's and gender studies have transformed the international study of religion through the use of interdisciplinary and cross cultural methodologies which have opened up new and highly controversial issues challenging previous paradigms and creating fresh fields of study As this book shows gender studies in religion raises new and difficult questions about the gendered nature of religious phenomena the relationship between power and knowledge the authority of religious texts and institutions and the involvement and responsibility of the researcher undertaking such studies as a gendered subject This book is the outcome of an international collaboration between a wide range of researchers from different countries and fields of religious studies The range and diversity of their contributions is the very strength of this book for it shows how gendering works in studying different religious materials whether foundational texts from the Bible or Koran philosophical ideas about truth essentialism history or symbolism the impact of French feminist thinkers such as Irigaray or Kristeva or again critical perspectives dealing with the impact of race gender and class on religion or by deconstructing religious data from a postcolonial critical standpoint or examining the impact of imperialism and orientalism on religion and gender

Writing the Holocaust Zoë Vania Waxman, 2008-06-26 Arguing against the prevailing view that Holocaust survivors encouraged by a new and flourishing culture of witnessing have come forward only recently to tell their stories Writing the Holocaust examines the full history of Holocaust testimony from the first chroniclers confined to Nazi enforced ghettos to today's survivors writing as part of collective memory Zoë Waxman shows how the conditions and motivations for bearing witness changed immeasurably She reveals the multiplicity of Holocaust experiences the historically contingent nature of victims' responses and the extent to which their identities secular or religious male or female East or West European affected not only what they observed but also how they have written about their experiences In particular she demonstrates that what survivors remember is substantially determined by the context in which they are remembering

The Jewish Women of Ravensbrück Concentration Camp Rochelle G. Saidel, 2006-03-09 Ravensbrück was the only major Nazi concentration camp for women. Located about fifty miles north of Berlin, the camp was the site of murder, slave labor, torture, starvation, shooting, lethal injection, medical experimentation, and gassing. While this camp was designed to hold 5,000 women, the actual figure was six times this number. Between 1939 and 1945, 132,000 women from twenty-three countries were imprisoned in Ravensbrück, including political prisoners, Jehovah's Witnesses, socialists, including Gypsies, prostitutes, and lesbians, criminals, and Jewish women who made up about 20 percent of the population. Only 15,000 survived. Drawing upon more than sixty narratives and interviews of survivors in the United States, Israel, and Europe, as well as unpublished testimonies, documents, and photographs from private archives, Rochelle Saidel provides a vivid collective and individual portrait of Ravensbrück's Jewish women prisoners. She worked for over twenty years to track down these women whose poignant testimonies deserve to be shared with a wider audience and future generations. Their memoirs provide new perspectives and information about satellite camps; there were about 70 slave labor sub-camps. Here is the story of real daily camp life with the women's thoughts about food, friendships, fear of rape and sexual abuse, hygiene issues, punishment, work, and resistance. Saidel includes accounts of the women's treatment, their daily struggles to survive, their hopes and fears, their friendships, their survival strategies, and the aftermath. On April 30, 1945, the Soviet Army liberated Ravensbrück. They found only 3,000 extremely ill women in the camp because the Nazis had sent other remaining women on a death march. The Jewish Women of Ravensbrück Concentration Camp reclaims the lost voices of the victims and restores the personal accounts of the survivors.

The Female Face of God in Auschwitz Melissa Raphael, 2003 The first full-length feminist dialogue with Holocaust theory, theology, and social history. Considers women's reactions to the holy in the camps at Auschwitz.

The Numbers on My Parents' Arms Jerry Bagel, 2019-09-19 In June 1991, sitting in his hospital room, contemplating cardiac bypass surgery, my father said: Vus ich hot adorch geleibt. What I have lived through, I wasn't sure at the time if he meant his recent heart attack, but over time, especially after researching his journey, it became clear to me I thought I knew my dad's plight, only to realize some of his most horrible experiences were never brought to my attention. The adage of the first casualty of war is the truth: hung in the balance with loss and trauma deserves its own sanctity. Helen Friedman and Sam Bagel walked through the shadows of death, lost their entire nuclear families, and like the Phoenix bird, re-emerges from its own ashes; they too resurrected themselves to start a family, be happy, and thankful people.

My Mother's Voice Adrienne Kertzer, 2001-12-11 Named Honor Book of the Year by the Children's Literature Association, Winner 2003 Canadian Jewish Book Award for scholarship on a Jewish subject, Finalist 2003 Alberta Book Awards Scholarly Book of the Year. How do children's books represent the Holocaust? How do such books negotiate the tension between the desire to protect children and the commitment to tell children the truth about the world? If Holocaust representations in children's books respect the narrative conventions of hope and happy endings, how do they differ, if at all, from popular representations intended for adult audiences And where does innocence lie if the children's fable of Roberto Benigni's Life is Beautiful is marketed for adults and far more troubling survivor memoirs such as Anita Lobel's No Pretty Pictures: A Child of War are marketed for children How should Holocaust Studies integrate discourse about children's literature into its discussions In approaching these and other questions Kertzer uses the lens of children's literature to problematize the ways in which various adult discourses represent the Holocaust and continually challenges the conventional belief that children's literature is the place for easy answers and optimistic lessons
