The third edition, carefully corrected Ovid,1767      The Woman and the Lyre Jane M Snyder,2017-03-09 Faint though the voices of the women of Greek and Roman antiquity may be in some cases their sound if we listen carefully enough can fill many of the gaps and silences of women s past From the beginning with Sappho in the seventh century B C and ending with Hypatia and Egeria in the fifth century A D Jane McIntosh Snyder listens carefully to the major women writers of classical Greece and Rome piecing together the surviving fragments of their works into a coherent analysis that places them in their literary historical and intellectual contexts While relying heavily on modern classical scholarship Snyder refutes some of the arguments that implicitly deny the power of women s written words the idea that women s experience is narrow or trivial and therefore automatically inferior as subject matter for literature the notion that intensity in a woman is a sign of neurotic imbalance and the assumption that women s work should be judged according to some externally imposed standard The author studies the available fragments of Sappho ranging from poems on mythological themes to traditional wedding songs and love poems and demonstrates her considerable influence on Western thought and literature An overview of all of the authors Snyder discusses shows that ancient women writers focused on such things as emotions lovers friendship folk motifs various aspects of daily living children and pets in distinct contrast to their male contemporaries concern with wars and politics Straightforwardness and simplicity are common characteristics of the writers Snyder examines These women did not display allusion indirection punning and elaborate rhetorical figures to the extent that many male writers of the ancient world did Working with the sparse records available Snyder strives to place these female writers in their proper place in our heritage      Translation as Creative-Critical Practice Delphine

Grass,2023-12-21 In Translation as Creative Critical Practice Delphine Grass questions the separation between practice and theory in translation studies through her analysis of creative critical translation experiments Focusing on contemporary literary and artistic engagements with translation such as the autotheoretical translation memoir performative translations and transtopian literary and visual art works this Element argues for a renewed engagement with translation theory from the point of view of translation as artistic and practice based research capable of reframing translation theory Exploring examples of translation as both a norm breaking and world making activity in the works of Kate Briggs Ayesha Manazir Siddiqi No mie Grunenwald Anne Carson Charles Bernstein Chantal Wright or Slavs and Tatars to name a few this Element prompts us to reconsider the current place of translation practice in translation studies      If Not, Winter

Sappho,2009-03-12 By combining the ancient mysteries of Sappho with the contemporary wizardry of one of our most fearless and original poets If Not Winter provides a tantalizing window onto the genius of a woman whose lyric power spans millennia Of the nine books of lyrics the ancient Greek poet Sappho is said to have composed only one poem has survived
