Canadian Plains Research Center,2005 Treaty Elders of Saskatchewan Harold Cardinal,Walter Hildebrand,2000 It is my hope and the hope of the Office of the Treaty Commissioner that this publication can help provide the historical context needed to intelligently and respectfully forge new relations between First Nations people and non Aboriginal people in the province of Saskatchewan It has already done so in part by facilitating the work of our office in bringing together the parties of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indian Nations and Canada to reach common understandings and to use the Treaties as a bridge from the past to the future so that we can learn from the past and work together towards a future built on co operation and mutual respect Judge David M Arnot Treaty Commissioner for Saskatchewan We were told that these treaties were to last forever The government and the government officials the Commissioner told us that as long as the grass grows and the sun rises from the east and sets in the west and the river flows these treaties will last Treaty 6 Elder Alma Kytwayhat We say it's our Father the White man says our Father in his language so from there we should understand that he becomes our brother and we have to live harmoniously with him There should not be any conflict we must uphold the word witaskewin which means to live in peace and harmony with one another Elder Jacob Bill Geological Survey of Canada, Open File 3888 , The Ecoregions of Saskatchewan G. Author and Title Index* ,1975 Geologic Names of North America Druid Wilson,1959 CCF Colonialism in Northern Saskatchewan David Quiring,2007-10-01 Often remembered for its humanitarian platform and its pioneering social programs Saskatchewan s Cooperative Commonwealth Federation CCF wrought a much less scrutinized legacy in the northern regions of the province during the twenty years it governed Until the 1940s churches fur traders and other wealthy outsiders held uncontested control over Saskatchewan s northern region Following its rise to power in 1944 the CCF undertook aggressive efforts to unseat these traditional powers and to install a new socialist economy and society in largely Aboriginal northern communities The next two decades brought major changes to the region as well meaning government planners grossly misjudged the challenges that confronted the north and failed to implement programs that would meet northern needs As the CCF s efforts to modernize and assimilate northern people met with frustration it was the northern people themselves that inevitably suffered from the fallout of this failure In an elegantly written history that documents the colonial relationship between the CCF and the Saskatchewan north David M Quiring draws on extensive archival research and oral history to offer a fresh look at the CCF era This examination will find a welcome audience among historians of the north Aboriginal scholars and general readers Saskatchewan Politics Howard A.
