Arts of Possession D. Vance Smith,2003-01-01 An innovative work of both economic anthropology and literary history Arts of Possession draws on philosophical theoretical literary historical and archival sources and insights to situate the household at the center of the social and cultural imagination of fourteenth century England D Vance Smith argues that in a period commonly represented as precapitalist there actually existed a sophisticated economic discourse and that discourse underlies common forms of representation and the writing of literary texts His work provides a new historiography of capital and of the development of the relation between economic sophistication and cultural practices Smith reads well known and less appreciated works such as Winner and Waster Sir Launfal The Canterbury Tales and Piers Plowman for what they can tell us about the surpluses and economies that drew the medieval imagination and about the complex ethics of possession at the heart of the fourteenth century household In bringing this to light Smith s book itself becomes an eloquent meditation on the poetics and ethics of possession A Manual of the Writings in Middle English, 1050-1500 Jonathan Burke Severs,Albert E. Machines of the Mind Katharine Breen, 2021-05-11 In Machines of the Mind Katharine Breen proposes that medieval personifications should be understood neither as failed novelistic characters nor as instruments of heavy handed didacticism She argues that personifications are instead powerful tools for thought that help us to remember and manipulate complex ideas testing them against existing moral and political paradigms Specifically different types of medieval personification should be seen as corresponding to positions in the rich and nuanced medieval debate over universals Breen identifies three different types of personification Platonic Aristotelian and Prudentian that gave medieval writers a surprisingly varied spectrum with which to paint their characters Through a series of new readings of major authors and works from Plato to Piers Plowman Breen illuminates how medieval personifications embody the full range of positions between philosophical realism and nominalism varying according to the convictions of individual authors and the purposes of individual works Recalling Gregory the Great's reference to machinae mentis machines of the mind Breen demonstrates that medieval writers applied personification with utility and subtlety employing methods of personification as tools that serve different functions Machines of the Mind offers insight for medievalists working at the crossroads of religion philosophy and literature as well as for scholars interested in literary character building and gendered relationships among characters readers and texts beyond the Middle Ages
