Service with the Sixth Wisconsin Volunteers Rufus R. Dawes, 1890 The Iron Brigade Rufus R. Dawes, Rufus R. Dawes 1838 1899 was a Union officer during the American Civil War famed for his service in the Iron Brigade particularly during the Battle of Gettysburg Service with the Sixth Wisconsin Volunteers ,1890 Service with the Sixth Wisconsin Volunteers Rufus R. Dawes, 2019-01-29 Maj Gen McClellan What troops are those fighting in the Pike Maj Gen Hooker General Gibbon's brigade of Western men Maj Gen McClellan They must be made of iron And so during the Battle of South Mountain a prelude to the Battle of Antietam this brigade earned its famous title as the Iron Brigade Once McClellan had heard of their actions during the Second Battle of Bull Run where they were facing off against a superior force under Stonewall Jackson he is said to have stated that they were the best troops in the world Rufus R Dawes was a captain with the 6th Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry that along with 2nd and 7th Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry Regiments the 19th Indiana Battery B of the 4th U S Light Artillery and later in the war the 24th Michigan formed the Iron Brigade Although only in his early twenties at the beginning of the war he rapidly became an important leader in the famous brigade and by the end of the war was brevetted as a brigadier general for meritorious service One of his most famous actions was on the first day of the Battle of Gettysburg when he led a counterattack on the confederate forces under Brigadier General Joseph R Davis and forced the surrender of more than two hundred enemy soldiers Service With the Sixth Wisconsin Volunteers records in brilliant detail all of the actions that he and his regiment were involved in including Second Bull Run Antietam Chancellorsville Gettysburg Wilderness Spotsylvania Court House Cold Harbor and Petersburg Yet this book is not simply an account of the military activities that took place as he also recorded his feelings and moods and included details about daily camp life and individual soldiers Rufus Dawes derived all of the book's material from his diaries and letters He realized the value of a statement made at the moment as to his experiences and he appreciated fully the treacherous nature of memory He believed contemporaneous expression in letters and diaries provided material of historical value He had the material and the ability to write a superb history of the grueling service of this famous regiment but he felt that the story of his personal experiences and impressions written at the time would be of greater value and so this book is not only account of the regiment it is also a very personal account of one man's view of the Civil War This book deserves to be read and enjoyed by all who wish to hear more about this brutal but fascinating conflict and to get to the heart of what the soldiers saw and thought Rufus R Dawes was a military officer in the Union Army during the American Civil War After the war he became a businessman Congressman and author His book Service With the Sixth Wisconsin Volunteers was first published in 1890 He passed away in 1899 Service With the Sixth Wisconsin Volunteers Dawes Rufus R., 1901 Service with the Sixth Wisconsin Volunteers Rufus R. Sigel Regiment James S. Pula, 2014-03-26 The 26th Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry was quietly mustered into service in Milwaukee on September 17 1862 the bloodiest day in American history Composed primarily of German immigrants and Americans of German descent the 26th fought and bled its way into the record books as one of Fox's Fighting 300 regiments James S. Pula's The Sigel Regiment A History of the 26th Wisconsin Volunteers 1862-1865 is the first book to examine this regiment's storied yet overlooked history The 26th's service spanned three years and three theaters of war The Sigel Regiment named after German General Franz Sigel was initially absorbed into the Army of the Potomac and attached to the 2nd Brigade 3rd Division Howard's 11th Army Corps Its bloody battlefield debut took place at Chancellorsville on May 2 1863 where the Wisconsin soldiers found themselves on the receiving end of one of the most successful surprise attacks in military history Outnumbered outflanked and caught in a crossfire the battling regiment and its Colonel William Jacobs refused to fall back before the onslaught until twice ordered to do so Similar ill luck two months later ensconced the regiment north of Gettysburg where the Badger State troops this time under Lt Col Hans Boebel left another 250 men on the field By the time the 26th Wisconsin shipped out that fall for service in the Western Theater hardened combat veterans who had seen the worst war has to offer populated its ranks Service in Tennessee with the Army of the Cumberland lessened the regiment's exposure to hard combat only temporarily Burdened with political strife and facing a cold winter the Wisconsin men marched and skirmished their way through the fall and early winter campaigns of Chattanooga and Knoxville The spring of 1864 brought with it another season of bloodshed when General William T. Sherman determined to drive deep into Georgia and capture Atlanta Fighting now as part of the 20th Corps the 26th Wisconsin distinguished itself on a number of fields including Resaca New Hope Church Kennesaw Mountain and Peach Tree Creek The thinning German regiment achieved a special distinction at Peach Tree Creek by capturing the flag of the 33rd Mississippi Infantry After the fall of Atlanta the men of the 26th tramped to Savannah on the March to the Sea and north into the Carolinas where more hard fighting at Averasboro and Bentonville awaited them By the end of the war 1 089 men had served in the 26th's ranks more than 17% were killed or mortally wounded Pula's gracefully written and superbly researched The Sigel Regiment A History of the 26th Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry 1862-1865 is a distinguished study of a fighting ethnic regiment

In the Bloody Railroad Cut at Gettysburg Lance J. Herdegen, William J. K. Beaudot, 2015-07-19 The storied Iron Brigade carved out a unique reputation during the Civil War Its men fought on many hard fields but they performed their most legendary exploits just outside a small Pennsylvania town called Gettysburg on the first day of July in 1863 There were many heroic actions that morning and afternoon but the fight along an unfinished deep scar in the ground north of the Chambersburg Pike was one never forgotten and is the subject of Lance J. Herdegen's and William J. K. Beaudot's award winning and long out of print In the Bloody Railroad Cut at Gettysburg The 6th Wisconsin of the Iron Brigade and its Famous Charge The railroad cut fighting was led mainly by the Calico Boys of the 6th Wisconsin Volunteers Detached from the balance of the Iron Brigade the Badgers of the 6th charged nearly 200 yards to meet a Confederate brigade that had swung into what looked like an ideal defensive position along an unfinished railroad cut northwest of town. The fighting was close, brutal, personal, and bloody, and it played a key role in the final Union victory. The Wisconsin men always remembered that moment when they stood under a galling fire in an open field just north of the pike. Using hundreds of firsthand accounts, many previously unpublished, Herdegen and Beaudot carry their readers into the very thick of the fighting. The air seemed full of bullets; one private recalled the men around him dropping at a fearful rate. Pvt Amos Lefler was on his hands and knees, spitting blood and teeth, with Capt Johnny Ticknor of Company K down and dying just a handful of yards away. Pvt James P. Sullivan felt defenseless, unable as he was to get his rifle musket to fire because of bad percussion caps. Rebel buckshot meanwhile smashed the canteen and slashed the hip of Sgt George Fairfield. Behind the Wisconsin men, Lt Col Rufus Dawes watched a fearful and destructive Confederate fire crashing with an unbroken roar before us. Men were being shot by twenties and thirties. While frantically loading and shooting, the Badgers leaned into the storm of bullets coming from the cut 175 yards away. The Westerners pushed slowly into the field, and at that very instant when victory or defeat teetered undecided, the Jayhawkers in the Prairie du Chien Company began shouting "Charge! Charge! Charge!" And so they did. Young Dawes lifted his sword and shouted "Forward! Forward! Charge! Align on the Colors!" It was at that moment remembered Cpl Frank Wallar, a farmer turned soldier who would soon make his name known to history by capturing the flag of the 2nd Mississippi, there was a general rush and yells enough to almost awaken the dead. Out of print for nearly two decades, this facsimile reprint and its new Introduction share with yet another generation of readers the story of the 6th Wisconsin's magnificent charge. Indeed, it is their story and how they remembered it. And it is one you will never forget.

The Sixth Wisconsin and the Long Civil War James Marten, 2025-04-08

Reimagining one of the oldest genres of Civil War history, this book engagingly presents the story of the war and its aftermath through the lens of a single regiment, the Sixth Wisconsin. One of the core units of the famed Iron Brigade, the Sixth was organized in July 1861 and mustered out in the summer of 1865, playing major roles at Second Manassas, Antietam, and Gettysburg, and in the Overland campaign of 1864. But the regiment's full history is found in the stories of its men learning to fight and endure far from home amid violence, illness, and death, and in the lives of families that hung on every word in letters and news from the front lines. Those stories also unfolded long after the war's end as veterans sought to make sense of their experiences and home communities struggled to care for those who returned with unhealed wounds. Marshaling a vast archive, James Marten has crafted a compelling and highly original biography of the Sixth Wisconsin in war and peace. In seeing the fight through the eyes of the regiment's roughly 2,000 men and those connected to them, readers will understand the long history of the Civil War as never before.
