United States of America. Bureau of Research and Survey,1924 Blacks and the Military Martin Binkin,Mark J. Eitelberg,2011-02-01 For much of the nation s history the participation of blacks in the armed forces was approximately in line with their proportion in the total population This changed during the 1970s by 1980 one of every three Army GIs and one of every five marines were black The reaction has been mixed Many Americans look with approval on the growth of black participation in military service since it often affords young blacks educational social and financial opportunities that constitute a bridge to a better life not otherwise available to them But for other Americans the opportunities are outweighed by the disproportionate imposition of the burden of defense on a segment of the population that has not enjoyed a fair share of the benefits that society confers From this perspective the likelihood that blacks would suffer at least a third and perhaps a half of the combat fatalities in the initial stages of conflict is considered immoral unethical or otherwise contrary to the precepts of democratic institutions Some also worry that military forces with such a high fraction of blacks entail risks to U S national security A socially unrepresentative force it is argued may lack the cohesion considered vital to combat effectiveness Others fear that such a force would be unreliable if it were deployed in situations that would test the allegiance of its minority members And some have even expressed concern that a large proportion of blacks may raise questions about the status of U S fighting forces as judged by the American public the nation s allies and its adversaries The authors of this book examine evidence on both sides of the issue in an effort to bring objective scrutiny to bear on questions that for many years have been loaded with emotion and subjective reaction They also discuss the implications for the military s racial composition of demographic economic and technological trends and the possible effects of returning to some form of conscription The Southern Reporter ,1913 Includes the decisions of the Supreme Courts of Alabama Florida Louisiana and Mississippi the Appellate Courts of Alabama and Sept 1928 Jan 1929 Jan Mar 1941 the Courts of Appeal of Louisiana Southern Women and Racial Adjustment Lily Hardy Hammond,1917 Statistics of Navy Medicine ,1946 Vital and Health Statistics ,1967 Report of the Zahid Mubarek Inquiry (Vols. 1 and 2) Zahid Mubarek Inquiry,2006-06-29 This report sets out the findings of the public inquiry into the murder in March 2000 at Feltham Young Offender Institution of Zahid Mubarek an Asian teenager Mubarek died after being attacked by another young prisoner his cellmate Robert Stewart who had a history of violence and racist behaviour The report identifies the systemic shortcomings which the attack exposed and makes 88 recommendations to reduce the risk of such an attack in the future Issues discussed include the events leading up to the public inquiry including previous investigations by the Prison Service and the Commission for Racial Equality the mental health background and custodial history of Stewart the events on the night of the attack and the wider ongoing problems at Feltham of staff shortages and low staff morale lack of resources and overcrowding poor working practices and evidence of racism by staff and prisoners Recommendations made include the elimination of enforced cell sharing should be a high priority for the Prison Service and it should publish guidelines to assist officers in the allocation of prisoners who have to share a cell taking into account issues of ethnic and religious background there should be a general rule that an unconvicted prisoner should not share a cell with a convicted prisoner full cell searches should be carried out at least once every three months prisoner councils should be set up as part of violence reduction strategies in prisons improved diversity training for prison staff and the need for a national database for security information on prisoners to improve the flow of information between and within establishments to help prisoner risk assessment procedures Integration of the Armed Forces, 1940-1965 Morris J. MacGregor, 2020-06-18 In the quarter century that followed American entry into World War II the nation's armed forces moved from the reluctant inclusion of a few segregated Negroes to their routine acceptance in a racially integrated military establishment Nor was this change confined to military installations By the time it was over the armed forces had redefined their traditional obligation for the welfare of their members to include a promise of equal treatment for black servicemen wherever they might be In the name of equality of treatment and opportunity the Department of Defense began to challenge racial injustices deeply rooted in American society For all its sweeping implications equality in the armed forces obviously had its pragmatic aspects In one sense it was a practical answer to pressing political problems that had plagued several national administrations In another it was the services expression of those liberalizing tendencies that were permeating American society during the era of civil rights activism But to a considerable extent the policy of racial equality that evolved in this quarter century was also a response to the need for military efficiency So easy did it become to demonstrate the connection between inefficiency and discrimination that even when other reasons existed military efficiency was the one most often evoked by defense officials to justify a change in racial policy _x000D_ Morris J MacGregor Jr received the A B and M A degrees in history from the Catholic University of America He continued his graduate studies at the Johns Hopkins University and the University of Paris on a Fulbright grant Before joining the staff of the U S Army Center of Military History in 1968 he served for ten years in the Historical Division of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Journal of Rehabilitation Research & Development ,2009 Supplemental Digest of Decisions Under the Interstate Commerce Act Herbert Confield Lust, 1927
