Preventing Violence Against Women and Children Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, Forum on Global Violence Prevention, 2011-09-12 Violence against women and children is a serious public health concern with costs at multiple levels of society Although violence is a threat to everyone women and children are particularly susceptible to victimization because they often have fewer rights or lack appropriate means of protection In some societies certain types of violence are deemed socially or legally acceptable thereby contributing further to the risk to women and children In the past decade research has documented the growing magnitude of such violence but gaps in the data still remain Victims of violence of any type fear stigmatization or societal condemnation and thus often hesitate to report crimes The issue is compounded by the fact that for women and children the perpetrators are often people they know and because some countries lack laws or regulations protecting victims Some of the data that have been collected suggest that rates of violence against women range from 15 to 71 percent in some countries and that rates of violence against children top 80 percent These data demonstrate that violence poses a high burden on global health and that violence against women and children is common and universal Preventing Violence Against Women and Children focuses on these elements of the cycle as they relate to interrupting this transmission of violence Intervention strategies include preventing violence before it starts as well as preventing recurrence preventing adverse effects such as trauma or the consequences of trauma and preventing the spread of violence to the next generation or social level Successful strategies consider the context of the violence such as family school community national or regional settings in order to determine the best programs

Counselling in Transcultural Settings Patricia d'Ardenne, 2012-11-19 Drawing on over 40 years experience Patricia d'Ardenne provides the reader with a unique and practical introduction to counselling and psychotherapy in a world on the move where ethnic linguistic religious economic political and environmental differences collide and create a rich and complex setting for contemporary therapeutic practice Positioning counselling within the shifting contexts of the modern world this book Examines anti discriminatory practice its origins and development The complexities of working effectively with refugees asylum seekers vulnerable migrants and the victims of human trafficking Considers the needs of the cultural traveller Address the intricacies of faith and spirituality Provides a guide to assessing language and the role of interpreters Addresses ethics the law and transcultural issues in Healthcare Looks at the importance of supervision personal development and self care Counselling in Transcultural Settings is an essential companion for counsellors and psychotherapists at all stages of professional training looking to work beyond their own culture where the demands of therapy are as dynamic as the political and social contexts within which people seek help Patricia D Ardenne is a consultant clinical and counselling psychologist

Integrated Science and Technology: Exploring Health, 1999 Essentials of Global Mental Health Samuel O. Okpaku, 2014-02-27 Defines an approach to mental healthcare focused on achieving international equity in coverage options and outcomes HEALTH SERVICES IN AFRICA Chinua Akukwe, 2008-04-25 The challenges to better health services in Africa are well known Africa lags behind all regions of the world including other developing regions on all indicators of better health A recent report from the World Health Organisation for instance shows that while Africa has 20% of the world's sick people it has only 4% of its healthcare workers many of them vulnerable to the high mortality rate associated with malaria and notably the AIDS epidemic The state of investment in healthcare infrastructure is also grossly inadequate as is the efficiency of healthcare delivery But does this need to be so What factors are responsible for this unacceptable state of affairs Contributors to the volume examine the evolution of healthcare services in Africa the ongoing national regional and continental efforts to improve the delivery of healthcare in the continent and the direct and indirect obstacles militating against the maturation of the services and their efficient delivery The contributors all distinguished experts in the field who hold either challenging responsibilities in health in Africa or have worked in multiple components of the healthcare delivery system in the continent also provide powerful personal insights and lessons learned in their current or previous work in the health sector in Africa Some of the themes covered include clinical care and centers of excellence healthcare finance and resource mobilization primary health care systems and community health preventive care and risk reduction in health the role of reference laboratories clinical research and partnerships the role of epidemiology statistics monitoring and evaluation in health services the role of the African Diaspora and the role of politics in the organization of healthcare and the training of medical and other health professionals From their analyses and experience the authors articulate proven strategies and solutions based on consensus expert opinions on how to improve the quality of health services and health outcomes in the continent

Understanding Africa A. H. M. Zehadul Karim, 2017-05-26 This book Understanding Africa is a compilation of a number of articles explaining the analytical stories of culture change in the African continent A few articles of this book have been presented in draft form at an international conference held and organized by the Department of Sociology and Anthropology International Islamic University Malaysia in December 2015 After the conference the department has given us the responsibility of editing this book on Africa adding a few related articles from outside before this volume is published We gratefully acknowledge the assistance and cooperation of our colleagues in the department who have given us the responsibility to organize this work and at same time gain their confidence and expectation that the final making of this work will be completed at the earliest

When Healthcare Hurts Greg Seager, 2012 Empowerment or Disempowerment There are three paths to take when designing and implementing global health initiatives One leads to the community one leads to the health system and the last leads to the community through the local health system Working at the community level is more complex and it should be considered only by programs that are experienced in doing so or in partnership with programs that have that experience Unfortunately this is where most short term programs choose to partner and this leads to many challenges Working in and through local health systems is the best way to eliminate most of these challenges Working at the health system and hospital level eliminates most of the patient safety issues associated with short term health initiatives It also pairs programs that understand each other together Thinking about community level global health initiatives is often completely foreign to most western medical programs We term these community based programs horizontal because they arise from the community for the community Hospital systems are programs that are vertical in nature and western medical thinking is typically very vertical We will look at the idea of both vertical and horizontal models in this chapter so that you can clearly identify the best fit for your global health initiatives It is essential that we realize that using strictly vertical approaches to healthcare delivery in resource poor communities can be more harmful than helpful This is especially true if those projects are separated from local healthcare professionals and their services In many cultures everything western is better sought after and to be imitated while old ways of tradition and caring should be left behind and abandoned Alma Ata which we will discuss later in this chapter gave rise to the idea of horizontal community based programs That thinking has matured into sustainable models of healthcare and disease prevention If your program plans to function outside hospitals in the community then you need to invest time in learning how to design and implement horizontal community based programs If we do not learn respect and implement these methods we may be destined to leave a legacy of disempowerment and dependence on methods of healthcare that have proven ineffective in resource poor communities The opposite side to this is that if we do learn these methods there is no limit to the effect the enormous volume of short term volunteer teams could have on child mortality maternal mortality HIV AIDS malaria and other communicable diseases As healthcare providers trained in developed countries we need to let go of the idea that our methods of healthcare are the only methods There are methods short term teams can use to serve and support such projects we review some of these methods in this chapter

Caring for the World Paul Drain, Stephen A. Huffman, Sara Pirtle, Kevin Chan, 2008-12-13 As disparities in health care continue to widen between wealthy and impoverished nations an increasing number of medical professionals are committing themselves to the growing field of global health Caring for the World assembles the stories experience and advice of prominent global health practitioners in this inspired guidebook for health care workers who are interested in or already are improving the lives of people throughout the world Providing a wealth of valuable resources and information the authors detail how individuals can find and prepare for global health work as well as how to obtain education and funding from governmental and non governmental organizations Skillfully addressing important issues related to working within other countries and cultures they also provide practical advice on how to understand pandemics and the HIV AIDS crisis in order to effect change Accessible thorough and concise Caring for the World is essential reading for anyone interested in global health work non governmental organizations and the current state of global health care

Black Feminist Sociology Zakiya Luna, Whitney Pirtle, 2021-09-30 Black Feminist Sociology offers new writings by established and emerging scholars working in a Black feminist tradition The book centers Black feminist sociology BFS within the sociology canon and widens it to feature Black feminist sociologists both outside the US and the academy Inspired by a BFS lens the essays are critical personal political and oriented toward social justice Key themes include the origins of BFS expositions of BFS orientations to research that extend disciplinary norms and contradictions of the pleasures and costs of such an approach both academically and personally Authors explore their own sociological legacy of intellectual development to raise critical questions of intellectual thought and self reflexivity The book highlights the dynamism of BFS so future generations of scholars can expand upon and beyond the book's key themes      Community Health Chris Wood, 2008      Beyond the Fragments Tim O'Shaughnessy, 1994      Africa Health, 1992      UNICEF Youth and Women's Health Project, 1997      The African Book Publishing Record, 2002      Empowering Communities Through Participatory Methods G.
