Reese, 2012-06-01 This is the first edition of the correspondence of Philip Quaque a prolific writer of African descent whose letters provide a unique perspective on the effects of the slave trade and its abolition in Africa Born around 1740 at Cape Coast in what is now Ghana Quaque was brought to England by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel In 1765 he became the first African ordained as an Anglican priest He returned to Africa and served for fifty years as the society s missionary and also as chaplain to the Company of Merchants Trading to Africa CMTA at Cape Coast Castle the principal slave trading site of the CMTA Quaque sent more than fifty letters to London and North America reporting on his successes and failures his relationships with European and African authorities and his observations on the effects of the American and French revolutions on Africa The regular references to his African mission in popular magazines made Quaque well known in the English speaking world Initially writing when the transatlantic slave trade went largely unquestioned Quaque in his later letters traces the period of abolitionist fervor leading up to the ban in 1808 Although his employers supported and facilitated slavery Quaque s letters reveal his evolving opposition to both slavery and the slave trade particularly in his correspondence with early abolitionists Quaque s life offers a fascinating perspective on transatlantic identity missionary activity precolonial European involvement in Africa the early abolition movement and Cape Coast society Amistad's Orphans Benjamin Nicholas Lawrance, 2015-01-28 The lives of six African children ages nine to sixteen were forever altered by the revolt aboard the Cuban schooner La Amistad in 1839 Like their adult companions all were captured in Africa and illegally sold as slaves In this fascinating revisionist history Benjamin N Lawrance reconstructs six entwined stories and brings them to the forefront of the Amistad conflict Through eyewitness testimonies court records and the children s own letters Lawrance recounts how their lives were inextricably interwoven by the historic drama and casts new light on illegal nineteenth century transatlantic slave smuggling In a Sea of Empires Jeppe Mulich, 2020-07-09 At the turn of the nineteenth century the Caribbean was rife with revolutionary fervor and political turmoil Yet with such upheaval came unparalleled opportunities In this innovative and richly detailed study Jeppe Mulich explores the interconnected nature of imperial politics and colonial law in the maritime borderlands of the Leeward Islands where British Danish Dutch French Spanish and Swedish colonies both competed and cooperated with one another By exploring the transnational networks involved in trade slavery smuggling privateering and marronage he offers a new account of the age of revolutions in the Caribbean emphasizing the border crossing nature of life in the region By approaching major shifts in politics economy and law from the bottom up a new story of early nineteenth century globalization emerges one that emphasizes regional integration and a multiplicity of intersecting networks The English in West Africa, 1681-1683 Robin Law, 1997-12-18 The letter books of the Royal African Company of England form the most substantial and important source of material on English trade in West Africa in the late seventeenth century The Royal African Company held a legal monopoly of English trade with West Africa principally in gold and slaves for the American colonies The correspondence among the Company s local agents is exceptionally detailed in its coverage of the day to day operation of their trade and their interactions with local African societies especially on the Gold Coast Ghana The letter books never previously printed cover the period 1681-1699. The original texts are being published in full with extensive explanatory commentary in three or four volumes. This book presents a collection of essays charting the developments in military practice and warfare across the world in the early modern period. It also considers the nature and role of technological change and the relationship between military developments and state building. Slave Law and the Politics of Resistance in the Early Atlantic World Edward B. Rugemer, 2018-11-12. Winner of the Jerry H. Bentley Book Prize, World History Association. The success of the English colony of Barbados in the seventeenth century with its lucrative sugar plantations and enslaved African labor spawned the slave societies of Jamaica in the western Caribbean and South Carolina on the American mainland. These became the most prosperous slave economies in the Anglo-American Atlantic despite the rise of enlightened ideas of liberty and human dignity. Slave Law and the Politics of Resistance in the Early Atlantic World reveals the political dynamic between slave resistance and slaveholders' power that marked the evolution of these societies. Edward Rugemer shows how this struggle led to the abolition of slavery through a law of the British Parliament in one case and through violent civil war in the other. In both Jamaica and South Carolina, a draconian system of laws and enforcement allowed slave masters to maintain control over the people they enslaved despite resistance and recurrent slave revolts. Brutal punishments, patrols, imprisonment, and state-sponsored slave catchers formed an almost impenetrable net of power. Yet slave resistance persisted, aided and abetted by rising abolitionist sentiment and activity in the Anglo-American world. In South Carolina, slaveholders exploited newly formed levers of federal power to deflect calls for abolition and to expand slavery in the young republic. In Jamaica, by contrast, whites fought a losing political battle against Caribbean rebels and British abolitionists who acted through Parliament. Rugemer's comparative history spanning two hundred years of slave law and political resistance illuminates the evolution and ultimate collapse of slave societies in the Atlantic World. African Ethnobotany in the Americas Robert Voeks, John Rashford, 2012-09-25. African Ethnobotany in the Americas provides the first comprehensive examination of ethnobotanical knowledge and skills among the African Diaspora in the Americas. Leading scholars on the subject explore the complex relationship between plant use and meaning among the descendants of Africans in the New World. With the aid of archival and field research carried out in North America, South America, and the Caribbean, contributors explore the historical, environmental, and political/ecological factors that facilitated/hindered transatlantic ethnobotanical diffusion; the role of Africans as active agents of plant and plant knowledge transfer during the period of plantation slavery in the Americas; the significance of cultural resistance in refining and redefining plant-based traditions; the principal categories of plant use that resulted in the exchange of knowledge among Amerindian, European, and other African peoples; and the changing significance of African American ethnobotanical traditions in the 21st century. Bolstered by abundant visual content and contributions from renowned experts in the field, African Ethnobotany in the Americas is an
