Sue Lawley that Adolf Hitler was extraordinarily fascinating and had mesmerizing blue eyes And Johnny Vegas tugs Kirsty Young's heart strings with his account of a childhood so impoverished that family pets were fair game My dad had always claimed that rabbits were livestock but we'd never eaten one before Desert Island Discs is much more than a radio programme It is a unique and enduringly popular take on our lives and times and this extensively illustrated book tells in rich detail the colourful and absorbing story of an extraordinary institution

Cinema's Original Sin Paul McEwan, 2022-12-13

For over a century cinephiles and film scholars have had to grapple with an ugly artifact that sits at the beginnings of film history D W Griffith's profoundly racist epic The Birth of a Nation inspired controversy and protest at its 1915 release and was defended as both a true history of Reconstruction although it was based on fiction and a new achievement in cinematic art Paul McEwan examines the long and shifting history of its reception revealing how the film became not just a cinematic landmark but also an influential force in American aesthetics and intellectual life In every decade since 1915 filmmakers museums academics programmers and film fans have had to figure out how to deal with this troublesome object and their choices have profoundly influenced both film culture and the notion that films can be works of art Some critics tried to set aside the film's racism and concentrate on the form while others tried to relegate that racism safely to the past McEwan argues that from the earliest film retrospectives in the 1920s to the rise of remix culture in the present day controversies about this film and its meaning have profoundly shaped our understandings of film race and art

French National Cinema Susan Hayward, 2006-09-07 This examination of France's national cinema takes its primary artefact the feature film and discusses both popular cinema and the avant garde cinema that contests it Susan Hayward argues that writing on French national cinema has tended to focus on either great film makers or on specific movements addressing moments of exception rather than the global picture Her work offers a thorough and much needed historical textualisation of those moments and relocates them in their wider political and cultural context Beginning with an ecohistory of the French film industry she then traces the various movements in French cinema and the directors associated with them including the avant garde Poetic Realist New Wave and today's postmodern cinema Her analysis includes amongst other considerations the social and political concerns these cinemas reflect

The Ancient World in the Cinema Jon Solomon, Robert D Novak Professor of Western Civilization and Culture Jon Solomon, 2001-01-01 This entertaining and useful book provides a comprehensive survey of films about the ancient world from The Last Days of Pompeii to Gladiator Jon Solomon catalogues describes and evaluates films set in ancient Greece and Rome films about Greek and Roman history and mythology films of the Old and New Testaments films set in ancient Egypt Babylon and Persia films of ancient tragedies comic films set in the ancient world and more The book has been updated to include feature films and made for television movies produced in the past two decades More than two hundred photographs illustrate both the films themselves and the ancient sources from which their imagery derives The Phoenix Picturehouse: 100 Years of Oxford Cinema Memories Deborah Allison, Hiu Man Chan, Daniela Treveri Gennari, 2023-03-15 The Phoenix is one of only a handful of British cinemas to have remained active for the past 100 years This is the story of Oxford's oldest continuously operating cinema as told by its staff and customers Featuring first hand reminiscences dating back to the days of silent movies and illustrated with a fabulous collection of over 100 images many of which have never appeared in print until now The Phoenix Picturehouse presents a wide ranging account of a popular local institution whose changing fortunes exemplify a century of British cinema and cinemagoing history Encyclopedia of Indian Cinema Ashish Rajadhyaksha, Paul Willemen, 2014-07-10 The largest film industry in the world after Hollywood is celebrated in this updated and expanded edition of a now classic work of reference Covering the full range of Indian film this new revised edition of the Encyclopedia of Indian Cinema includes vastly expanded coverage of mainstream productions from the 1970s to the 1990s and for the first time a comprehensive name index Illustrated throughout there is no comparable guide to the incredible vitality and diversity of historical and contemporary Indian film Torn Sprockets Gerald Pratley, 1987 The history of Canadian filmmaking is a fascinating topic and in this book the author takes the reader through the early years of the twentieth century when Hollywood monopolized the industry Edison's Kinetoscope enthralled the public and motion picture exhibitions swept across Canada She Animates Lora Mjolsness, Michele Leigh, 2021-02-02 She Animates examines the work of twelve female animation directors in the Soviet Union and Russia who have long been overlooked by film scholars and historians Our approach examines these directors within history culture and industrial practice in animation In addition to making a case for including these women and their work in the annals of film and animation history this volume also makes an argument for why their work should be considered part of the tradition of women's cinema We offer textual analysis that focuses on the changing attitudes towards both the woman question and feminism by examining the films in light of the emergence and evolution of a Soviet female subjectivity that still informs women's cinema in Russia today Shadow Economies of Cinema Ramon Lobato, 2019-07-25 How do people access movies today What are the most popular and powerful channels for media distribution on a global scale How are film industries changing in the face of media convergence and digitisation To answer questions such as these argues Ramon Lobato we must shift our gaze away from the legal film business and toward cinema's shadow economies All around the world films are bought from roadside stalls local markets and grocery stores they are illegally downloaded and streamed they are watched in makeshift video clubs on street corners and in restaurants shops and bars International film culture in its actually existing forms is a messy affair and it relies to a great extent on black and grey media markets Examining the industrial dynamics of these subterranean film networks across a number of different sites from Los Angeles to Lagos Melbourne to Mexico City this book shows how they constitute a central rather than marginal part of audiovisual culture and commerce Combining film industry analysis with cultural theory Shadow Economies of Cinema opens up a new area of inquiry for cinema studies putting industry research into dialogue with wider debates about economic informality and commodity circulation Written in an accessible style this book offers an original bottom up perspective on the global cinema industry for researchers and students in film studies cultural studies and media and communications

Teaching Religion and Film Gregory J Watkins, 2008-08-22 In a culture increasingly focused on visual media students have learned not only to embrace multimedia presentations in the classroom but to expect them Such expectations are perhaps more prevalent in a field as dynamic and cross disciplinary as religious studies but the practice nevertheless poses some difficult educational issues the use of movies in academic coursework has far outpaced the scholarship on teaching religion and film What does it mean to utilize film in religious studies and what are the best ways to do it In Teaching Religion and Film an interdisciplinary team of scholars thinks about the theoretical and pedagogical concerns involved with the intersection of film and religion in the classroom They examine the use of film to teach specific religious traditions religious theories and perspectives on fundamental human values Some instructors already teach some version of a film and religion course and many have integrated film as an ancillary to achieving central course goals This collection of essays helps them understand the field better and draws the sharp distinction between merely watching movies in the classroom and comprehending film in an informed and critical way

Film Editing: History, Theory and Practice Don Fairservice, 2001 This comprehensive examination of the film editor's craft traces the development of editing from the primitive forms of early cinema through the upheavals caused by the advent of sound Don Fairservice explores the challenges to convention that began in the 1960s and which continue to the present day New digital technologies and the dominance of the moving image have produced a radical rewriting of the rules of audio visual address This detailed study outlines a fascinating history and presents the how's and why's of film editing and its complexities in our modern age

Cinema Treasures Ross Melnick, Andreas Fuchs, 2004 More than 100 years after the first movie delighted audiences movie theaters remain the last great community centers and one of the few amusements any family can afford While countless books have been devoted to films and their stars none have attempted a truly definitive history of those magical venues that have transported moviegoers since the beginning of the last century In this stunningly illustrated book film industry insiders Ross Melnick and Andreas Fuchs take readers from the nickelodeon to the megaplex and show how changes in moviemaking and political social and technological forces e.g. war depression the baby boom the VCR have influenced the way we see movies Archival photographs from archives like the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and movie theater ephemera postcards period ads matchbooks and even a barf bag sourced from private collections complement Melnick's informative and engaging history Also included throughout the book are Fuchs' profiles detailing 25 classic movie theaters that have been restored and renovated and which continue to operate today Each of these two page spreads is illustrated with marvelous modern photographs many taken by top architectural photographers The result is a fabulous look at one way in which

Americans continue to come together as a nation A timeline throughout places the developments described in a broader historical context We've had a number of beautiful books about the great movie palaces and even some individual volumes that pay tribute to surviving theaters around the country This is the first book I can recall that focuses on the survivors from coast to coast and puts them into historical context Sumptuously produced in an oversized format on heavy coated paper stock this beautiful book offers a lively history of movie theaters in America an impressive array of photos and memorabilia and a heartening survey of the landmarks in our midst from the majestic Fox Tucson Theatre in Tucson Arizona to the charming jewel box that is the Avon in Stamford Connecticut I don't know why but I never tire of gazing at black and white photos that evoke the era of moviemaking and moviegoing I care about the most and this book is packed with them Cinema Treasures is indeed a treasure and a perfect gift item for the holiday season Leonard Maltin Humble or grandiose stand alone or strung together movie theaters are places where dreams are born Once upon a time they were treated with the respect they deserve In their heyday historian Ross Melnick and exhibitor Andreas Fuchs write in Cinema Treasures openings of new motion picture pleasure palaces that would have dazzled Kubla Khan received enormous attention in newspapers around the country On top of the publicity they generated their debuts were treated like the gala openings of new operas or exhibits with critics weighing in on everything from the interior and exterior design to the orchestra Handsomely produced and extensively illustrated Cinema Treasures is detailed without being dull and thoroughly at home with this often neglected subject matter Its title would have you believe it is a celebration of the golden age of movie theaters But this book is something completely different an examination of the history of movie exhibition which the authors accurately call a vastly under researched topic Los Angeles Times

Cinema's Sinister Psychiatrists Sharon Packer, M.D., 2012-09-19 Film history is merged with psychiatric history seamlessly to show how and why bad depictions of mind doctors especially hypnotists occur in early film long before Hannibal Lecter burst upon the scene The German Expressionist Dr Caligari is not cinema's first psychotic charlatan but he launches the stereotype of screen psychiatrists who are sicker than their patients Many film psychiatrists function as political metaphors while many more reflect real life clinical controversies This book discusses films with diabolical drugging unethical experimentation involuntary incarceration sexual exploitation lobotomies shock schlock conspiracy theories and military medicine to show how fact informs fantasy and when fantasy trumps reality Traditional asylum thrillers changed after hospital stays shortened and laws protected people against involuntary commitment Except for six short golden years from 1957 to 1963 portrayals of bad psychiatrists far outnumber good ones and this book tells how and why that was
