Russia in Pacific Waters, 1715-1825 Glynn Barratt, 2011-11-01 This is the first study in Russian or Western literature of the rise and fall of Russian naval influence in the North Pacific Ocean from the time of Peter the Great to Tsar Nicholas I The author deals with a neglected area inherent tension between Russian naval and mercantile interests and the origins of international rivalry in the North Pacific at large Barratt shows that Russia's motives for early expeditions to the Pacific were to promote science exploration and trade But when imperialist powers vied for territory and resources in the area military confrontation became a possibility Rivalries within Russia and government caution curbed the build up of any effective counterforce and dealt the final blow to Russia's naval ambitions Her hopes for hegemony in the North Pacific and in Russian North America collapsed in 1825 marking the end of an enterprising era for the Russian navy in Pacific waters The navy learned from these early experiences that it was incapable of a great power role in the Pacific without an independent self-sufficient Pacific based fleet This book is a major original contribution to its subject An impressive list of sources includes accounts in Russian and valuable materials from Russian archives

Re-Constructing Grassroots Holocaust Memory Irina Rebrova, 2020-10-26 The main objective of the book is to allocate the grass roots initiatives of remembering the Holocaust victims in a particular region of Russia which has a very diverse ethnic structure and little presence of Jews at the same time It aims to find out how such individual initiatives correspond to the official Russian hero-orientated concept of remembering the Second World war with almost no attention to the memory of war victims including Holocaust victims North Caucasus became the last address of thousands of Soviet Jews both evacuees and locals While there was almost no attention paid to the Holocaust victims in the official Soviet propaganda in the postwar period local activists and historians together with the members of Jewish communities preserved Holocaust memory by installing small obelisks at the killing sites writing novels and making documentaries teaching about the Holocaust at schools and making small thematic exhibitions in the local and school museums Individual types of grass roots activities in the region on remembering Holocaust victims are analyzed in each chapter of the book
