

Ageism: The Problem of Modern Society

✓ Exclusively available on IvyPanda

There are a few issues that should be explored after watching a series of films and researching the topic of ageism. First, there are several themes in the material about how adolescents are positioned in society. Almost all scientific ideas on how society implies the doctrine of youth's perfection, without exception, promote ageism (ChangingAging, 2018). They are preoccupied with decline and pay little attention to the continuous emergence of new abilities and capabilities (GreggU, 2018). Scholars' incapacity to adequately understand aging is due to their tunnel vision (GreggU, 2018). Thus, such an attitude leads to different consequences, such as phased retirement, which is one of the implications of such discourse against the elderly. A human resources technology allows full-time employees to work part-time schedules while drawing retirement benefits (GreggU, 2018).

In terms of evidence presented in the films, it is mainly based on numerical sources. According to the Age Discrimination Laws (2018) video, the key "but-for" was reflected by the age of employees in the Gross v. FBL Financial Services report from 2009. In addition, the U-curve of happiness is a result of such practice (TED, 2017). According to this theory, life satisfaction declines around middle age, recovers at about 50, and peaks at the end of life (TED, 2017). The paradox of aging has been coined to describe this baffling phenomenon. This trend severely impacts the people and companies, who lose productive employees sooner than they should (TED, 2017). As a result, such outcomes are detrimental to the social group of the elderly, and there are further data to back up that assertion.

The statistics that support such theories are present in the analyzed videos. An example is a variation in population percentages between 2015 and 2050, which is assumed if no policy changes are made (TED, 2017). Following its contents, it is evident that in the middle of the 21st century, there will be almost two billion people aged over 60. As a result, ageism can lead humanity to economic, social, and cultural chaos in case no changes are applied as soon as possible.

Sources for Forging the Modern World
James Carter, Richard A. Warren, 2018-09 In Forging the Modern World A History authors James Carter and Richard Warren offer an accessible explanation of key transformations in global economic political and ideological relationships since the sixteenth century The book is distinct from most world history texts in three important ways First it explores the ways in which historians use and produce information Each chapter delves deeply into one or two specific issues of historical inquiry related to the chapter theme showing how new primary sources methodologies or intellectual trends have changed how we engage with the past Second it clearly explains the political economic and ideological concepts that students need to understand in order to compare events and trends across time and space Finally the chapters are organized around global historical themes which are explored through an array of conceptual and comparative lenses While the book chapters proceed chronologically each chapter is written with some chronological overlap linking it to preceding and subsequent chapters This strategy emphasizes the interconnectedness between the events and themes of one chapter and those of surrounding chapters A companion sourcebook follows the main book's organization and includes approximately 67 primary sources with two questions following each source

Modernism, Middlebrow and the Literary Canon Lise Jaillant, 2015-10-06 In the 1920s and 1930s the Modern Library series began to bring out cheap editions of modernist works Jaillant provides a thorough analysis of the series mix of highbrow and popular literature and argues that the availability and low cost of modernist works helped to expand modernism's influence as a literary movement

Cruising Modernism
Michael Trask, 2018-05-31 Modern society Michael Trask argues in this incisive and original book chose to couch class difference in terms of illicit sexuality Trask demonstrates how sexual science's concept of erotic perversion mediated the writing of both literary figures and social theorists when it came to the innovative and unsettling social arrangements of the early twentieth century Trask focuses on the James brothers in a critique of pragmatism and anti immigrant sentiment shows the influence of behavioral psychology on Gertrude Stein's work uncovers a sustained reflection on casual labor in Hart Crane's lyric poetry and traces the identification of working class Catholics with deviant passions in Willa Cather's fiction Finally Trask examines how literary leftists borrowed the antiprostitution rhetoric of Progressive era reformers to protest the ascendance of consumerism in the 1920s Viewing class as a restless and unstable category Trask contends American modernist writers appropriated sexology's concept of evasive unmoored desire to account for the seismic shift in social relations during the Progressive era and beyond Looking closely at the fraught ideological space between real and perceived class differences Cruising Modernism discloses there a pervasive representation of sexuality as well
