Creel, Nancy Marusha Creel, 2019-12-31 With only 5 000 surviving the African wild dog Lycaon pictus is one of the world's most endangered large carnivores and one of the most remarkable This comprehensive portrait of wild dogs incorporates previously scattered information with important new findings from a six year study in Tanzania's Selous Game Reserve Africa's largest protected area The book emphasizes ecology concentrating on why wild dogs fare poorly in protected areas that maintain healthy populations of lions hyenas or other top carnivores In addition to conservation issues it covers fascinating aspects of wild dog behavior and social evolution The Creels use demographic behavioral endocrine and genetic approaches to examine how and why nonbreeding pack mates help breeding pairs raise their litters They also present the largest data set ever collected on mammalian predator prey interactions and the evolution of cooperative hunting allowing them to account for wild dogs prowess as hunters By using a large sample size and sophisticated analytical tools the authors step well beyond previous research Their results include some surprises that will cause even specialists to rethink certain propositions such as the idea that wild dogs are unusually vulnerable to infectious disease Several findings apply broadly to the management of other protected areas Of clear appeal to ecologists studying predation and cooperation in any population this book collects and expands a cache of information useful to anyone studying conservation as well as to amateurs intrigued by the once maligned but extraordinary wild dog
