Teaching Reflective Learning in Higher Education

Mary Elizabeth Ryan, 2014-11-05 This book is about understanding the nature and application of reflection in higher education It provides a theoretical model to guide the implementation of reflective learning and reflective practice across multiple disciplines and international contexts in higher education The book presents research into the ways in which reflection is both considered and implemented in different ways across different professional disciplines while maintaining a common purpose to transform and improve learning and or practice The Readers will find this book is innovative and new in three key ways Firstly in its holistic theorisation of reflection within the pedagogic field of higher education Secondly in conceptualising reflection in different modes to achieve specific purposes in different disciplines and finally in providing conceptual guidance for embedding reflective learning and reflective practice in a systematic way across whole programmes faculties or institutions in higher education The book considers important contextual factors that influence the teaching of forms and methods of reflection It provides a functional analysis of multiple modes of reflection including written oral visual auditory and embodied forms Empirical chapters analyse the application of these modes across disciplines and at different stages of a programme The theoretical model accounts for students stage of development in the disciplinary field along with progressive and cyclical levels of higher order thinking and learning and professional practice that are expected within different disciplines and professional fields Secondly in conceptualising reflection in different modes to achieve specific purposes in different disciplines It provides a functional analysis of multiple modes of reflection including written oral visual auditory and embodied forms Empirical chapters analyse the application of these modes across disciplines and at different stages of a programme in terms of demonstrating levels of reflection The book includes images diagrams and different text forms to support the creative applications of reflection And thirdly the book is innovative in providing conceptual guidance for embedding reflective learning and reflective practice systematically across whole programmes faculties or institutions in higher education contexts across the world

Web-Based Education in the Human Services Richard Schoech, Brenda Moore, Robert James Macfadden, Marilyn Herie, 2014-02-25 A much needed look at innovative and effective methods for creating virtual learning environments for human services Web Based Education in the Human Services reflects the vitality and diversity of Web based courses currently delivered within human services Unlike previous texts that have combined technologies such as Interactive Television ITV and two way audio where Web involvement was minimal this unique book focuses on Web based models tools and techniques used in courses where the majority of the content is delivered online The book s contributors emphasize the social aspects of learning examining topical areas not usually associated with Web based education as they remind us of the need to move beyond the similarities between WBE and face to face FTF approaches Web Based Education in the Human Services documents a course delivery method coming of age in its desire to create virtual learning environments that incorporate a variety of techniques and strategies These environments use concepts and tools beyond what packages such as WebCT currently offer highlighting the power of designing a complete Web based curriculum rather than viewing each course separately Many of the most successful approaches presented in this invaluable book don t involve sophisticated tools or programming but the creative design of interactive scenarios emotional content and feedback mechanisms that reinforce the instructor s role as the crucial ingredient for success Web Based Education in the Human Services examines adult learning theories teaching practice skills through Web based technology how to bridge the gap between theory and practice faculty perceptions of the effectiveness of Web based instruction compared to face to face instruction the accessibility of Web based education the significance of emotion in learning Web based delivery of a graduate professional training program the creation delivery and evaluation of a pilot course using Blackboard 6 the development of a Web based undergraduate child welfare course the use of Web based video clips for counselor skills training the design development pilot and revision of a Web based social work practice course an online format for agency based field instruction the design of a Web based graduate program in counseling psychology and much more Web Based Education in the Human Services is an invaluable resource for social work and human services educators including education nursing and psychology Web course developers and college and university administrators Reflective Reader: Social Work and Human Development Karin Crawford, 2006-06-27 This book is an original way to introduce students and practitioners to reflective learning and knowledge based practice both of which are key aspects of a social worker s role Readers will consider the impact of social work practice from a life course perspective by using extracts from topical research theory academic texts and national strategy and policy Numerous activities prompt personal reflection and help readers to develop skills in critical analysis as well as providing ways in which they can evidence the impact this learning has on their professional development

A Practicum Turn in Teacher Education Matts Mattsson, Tor Vidar Eilertsen, Doreen Rorrison, 2012-01-01 Challenges to practicum The authors have explored professional practice knowledge and the ways practicum is dealt with in teacher education They report from Research and Development projects based on collaboration between universities and school communities Empirical studies have been carried out in Australia Canada China Denmark Finland Norway and Sweden Communication about practicum is reframed Preservice teachers experiences during practicum serve as a point of departure for improving teacher education The book is a must for everyone committed to quality in initial teacher education including preservice teachers school leaders and local supervisors This volume explores new and different ways to think about the construction and evaluation of the practicum that students encounter Contributors ask the reader to consider the assumptions that the practicum is based on question these assumptions and strive to find new and better ways to contribute to the autonomy professionalism and moral development of emerging teachers The focus is clearly on creating conversational and learning spaces for students that encourage them to think explicitly about theory and its application to practice and vice versa The book not only challenges our thinking but also provides rich examples of research and evaluation in this area which help us to hear the voices of those involved in the practicum in fresh and insightful ways Reflections by Roslin Brennan Kemmis Head of the School of Education Charles Sturt University Wagga Wagga Australia
