Worldwide Doreen Elliott, Uma A. Segal, 2012-08-03 Utilizing international perspectives this unprecedented collection of essays from leading authorities on refugee studies spotlights the realities and challenges of the global refugee population With increasing changes in the socio political climate of the world as well as with the rising numbers of natural disasters people of all ethnicities and nationalities are frequently forced from their homes and their homelands While there is a substantial body of work that addresses refugee policies post traumatic stress disorder and other specific issues there have been few attempts to understand refugee health or comprehend overall refugee adaptation until now This is the first work to address refugee issues worldwide addressing the psychological health human rights political public policy law economic social and personal aspects of this universal problem Refugees Worldwide also includes examples of first person refugee stories from around the world eye opening information not available in any other work Drawing on the expertise of myriad international researchers theoreticians and practitioners from representative nations around the world this four volume set effectively speaks to a number of refugee issues from a truly global perspective Migration and Development Savina Ammassari, 2012-11-16 This book focuses on international migration and return of highly skilled Ghanaians and Ivorians and presents empirical research findings that demonstrate that under certain circumstances return migrants can act as key development agents in their home country It investigates the influence of a number of factors that condition their motivation to return and their capacity to stimulate change in their countries of origin The aim of the study is the assessment of policy implications related to lite returnees development impact in evolving socio economic contexts The comparative and multi method research strategy adopted revealed that migrants tend to return home with considerable savings financial capital new knowledge skills and ideas human capital as well as with valuable contacts social capital Besides their level of education work profile and particular life experience whether these migrants have worked abroad for a significant period proved the most critical factor influencing their acquisition of different kinds of capital However there seems to be an optimum work

duration abroad approximately five years after which the benefits deriving from human and financial capital acquisition tend to stabilise At the micro level back home skilled migrants attained their goals improving their relative income levels expressing satisfaction with their work conditions and more generally enjoying a higher quality of life At the meso level they provided support to others in line with expectations and pressures they faced They also introduced many kinds of new knowledge skills and ideas in their workplace At the macro level return migrants promoted economic and political transformations through among others the creation of new businesses and various community development initiatives The role of return migrants is influenced by many factors linked also to their situation back home Reintegration into their home context proved challenging especially for women and returning migrants need time to overcome initial hurdles and get settled before they can start to make any meaningful contribution That is one of the reasons why there is a need to facilitate their reintegration and create a conducive environment which can also foster return migration of the highly skilled lite More importantly however evidence is produced in favour of arguments and ideas about brain circulation a strategy that can help in maximising the positive effects stemming from migration and return

Population, Environment and Development

Alina Potrykowska,2005 Displacement, Development, and Climate Change Nina Hall,2016-03-22 This book focuses on one critical challenge climate change Climate change is predicted to lead to an increased intensity and frequency of natural disasters An increase in extreme weather events global temperatures and higher sea levels may lead to displacement and migration and will affect many dimensions of the economy and society Although scholars are examining the complexity and fragmentation of the climate change regime they have not examined how our existing international development migration and humanitarian organizations are dealing with climate change Focusing on three institutions the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees the International Organization for Migration and the United Nations Development Programme the book asks how have these inter governmental organizations responded to climate change And are they moving beyond their original mandates given none were established with a mandate for climate change It traces their responses to climate change in their rhetoric policy structure operations and overall mandate change Hall argues that international bureaucrats can play an important role in mandate expansion often deciding whether and how to expand into a new issue area and then lobbying states to endorse this expansion They make changes in rhetoric policy structure and operations on the ground and therefore forge frame and internalize new issue linkages This book helps us to understand how institutions established in the 20th century are adapting to a 21st century world It will be of great interest to scholars and students of International Relations Development Studies Environmental Politics International Organizations and Global Governance as well as international officials
