ASEAN and the Institutionalization of East Asia Ralf Emmers, 2011-09-28 This book examines the evolving multilateral security arrangements in East Asia with a focus on the role of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN. It explores the function and relevance of ASEAN in East Asia's emerging institutional security landscape. These issues have direct implications for the future of the ASEAN Security Community, the relevance of the ASEAN cooperative model to wider regional arrangements and finally for the further institutionalization of great power relations within these multilateral structures. The book highlights ASEAN's successes and shortcomings. It also considers ASEAN-led institutions in the wider region and goes on to analyse alternative approaches to regionalism including the China Japan South Korea Trilateral Summit. Overall it assesses how the various initiatives are likely to develop concluding that ASEAN despite its shortcomings is likely to continue to play a key role.

A Handbook on Jeremiah Jan de Waard, 2003 This new work is a companion volume to de Waard's work on Isaiah published in collaboration with the United Bible Societies. The volume moves section by section through the Book of Jeremiah to analyze textual problems and present exegetical solutions. Amazon website

Competitive Interests Thomas T. Holyoke, 2011-08-22 Competitive Interests does more than simply challenge the long held belief that a small set of interests control large domains of the public policy making landscape. It shows how the explosion in the sheer number of new groups and the broad range of ideological demands they advocate have created a form of group politics emphasizing compromise as much as conflict. Thomas T. Holyoke offers a model of strategic lobbying that shows why some group lobbyists feel compelled to fight stronger wealthier groups even when they know they will lose. Holyoke interviewed 83 lobbyists who have been advocates on several contentious issues including Arctic oil drilling, environmental conservation, regulating genetically modified foods, money laundering and bankruptcy reform. He offers answers about what kinds of policies are more likely to lead to intense competition and what kinds of interest groups have an advantage in protracted conflicts. He also discusses the negative consequences of group competition such as legislative gridlock and discusses what lawmakers can do to steer interest groups toward compromise. The book concludes with an exploration of greater group competition, conflict and compromise and what consequences this could have for policymaking in a representation based political system.

Japan's Security Policy and the ASEAN Regional Forum Takeshi Yuzawa, 2007-03-27 Based on primary resources including documents and extensive interviews with Japanese policy makers, this book provides a comprehensive and detailed empirical analysis of Japan's involvement in Asia Pacific security multilateralism after the end of the Cold War with special reference to the ARF. Giving an in depth account of new developments in Japan's post Cold War security policy, Yuzawa also examines Japan's initial motivations, expectations and objectives for promoting regional security multilateralism, Japan's diplomacy for achieving these objectives and experiences in the ARF since its formation, the effectiveness and limitations of the ARF with regards national and Asia Pacific security, the effects of Japan's experiences in the ARF on its initial conception of regional security multilateralism and the implications of this for the direction of its overall security policy problems and difficulties that arose as a result of Japan's post Cold War security policy of simultaneously pursuing two different security approaches namely the strengthening of regional security institutions and the Japan US alliance This book will be an invaluable resource for students and scholars of Japanese security studies as well as international relations Asian politics and international organizations
