Remaking Our Schools:

Remaking Our Schools for the Twenty-First Century Robert Arnold, 2013-07-01 If you are a teacher a parent a grandparent or just another taxpayer and you think the future of our country rests in a large part in the hands of our educational systems and you expect the schools to play a key role in raising our youth to become competent responsible citizens then you need to find out why that is not happening Remaking Our Schools for the Twenty First Century written by Robert L Arnold Professor of Education Emeritus provides an in depth analysis of these problems in our public schools Teachers are sick and tired of being forced to adopt and use irrelevant materials and developmentally inappropriate procedures along with a standardized testing program that makes no sense They want our youth to be excited about learning and ideas They need to know how drug abuse bullying and other serious problems are related to the disconnected and irrelevant school experiences being imposed on their students in the name of raising standards Our public schools need to develop far greater competency in general education and problem solving skills in all students Our democracy cannot be sustained much longer if upcoming generations continue to exhibit deficiencies in these areas Standardization is not the answer to problems The mass production and sale of a common core set of educational books tests and worksheets is required for corporate conglomerates to make huge profits on the backs of our students Standardization is part of the problem not part of the solution

Transforming

Schools Miranda Jefferson, Michael Anderson, 2017-02-09 Transforming Schools demonstrates how transformation is no longer an option in teaching and learning it has become a necessity Changes in the way we work and the challenges of issues such as climate change poverty and migration mean that teaching and learning need to alter to incorporate capacities that will help us meet those challenges The 4Cs Creativity Critical Reflection Communication and Collaboration have long been present in education but Transforming Schools demonstrates how schools can change teaching and leadership to embed and enact the 4Cs to make them central to dynamic and exciting learning Miranda Jefferson and Michael Anderson demonstrate how a renewed approach to teaching that integrates the 4Cs can better equip today's learners They draw on their own international research and experiences in school transformation in a variety of school settings working in partnership with practitioners researchers students and the community The authors consider how schools might reorganise themselves to become more relevant to their students and to the community Practical strategies for transformation are included throughout the chapters to demonstrate how learning can be supported and how the 4Cs can be made explicit in schools These examples will support school leadership teams and teachers to explicitly teach the 4Cs in relevant and challenging ways This book is essential reading for those looking to transform schools and more effectively meet the needs of today's learners

Remaking Our Schools Ed Pino,1993 American Education ,1908 The Colorado School Journal ,1919 The Business of Reforming American Schools Denise Gelberg,1997-10-02 Focusing on the influence of the business community on schools this book describes how popular business management theories and production processes have been imported into schools during periods of societal upheaval in order to create a sense of order and efficiency while meeting the objective of producing a workforce that meets the specifications set down by employers Unlike other books that say why schools need to be reformed or how that reform should proceed this study takes a critical look at the latest call to restructure schools in light of the economic social and political forces that affect the education establishment and the children of our nation Journal of Proceedings and Addresses National Education Association of the United States,1918 Vols for 1866 70 include Proceedings of the American Normal School Association 1866 69 include Proceedings of the National Association of School Superintendents 1870 includes Addresses and journal of proceedings of the Central College Association Taming the Turbulence in Educational Leadership Jennifer D. Klein,2025-09-08 Learner centered leadership grounded in courage integrity and love for every child The pressures of today's political and cultural climate have created unprecedented roadblocks for school leaders striving to ensure success for all students With mounting challenges from communities conservative legislation and misconceptions about student centered instruction and inclusion efforts leaders often feel isolated and threatened in their efforts to prioritize what learners need most Drawing on interviews with 67 education leaders around the world Taming the Turbulence in Educational Leadership is a practical handbook offering strategies to drive equity focused and student centered transformation even in the face of opposition Additional features include Approaches to foster trust and build relationships across the campus and community to overcome resistance Strategies to leverage data include learner teacher and parent voices and use intentional communication for effective decision making Tools for preparing teachers adapting systems and protecting staff as they implement equity centered initiatives Protocols reflective questions and worksheets to help schools determine readiness and create actionable plans Rooted in real world stories this book offers solidarity and actionable strategies to education leaders committed to centering the needs of all learners in increasingly polarized societies School Leadership Stuart Carl Smith, Philip K. Piele, 1989 Recognizing the importance of good leadership to the achievement of educational excellence the second edition of this handbook synthesizes a large body of school leadership literature and explores the subject from three perspectives the person the structure and the skills Part I examines characteristics of today s educational leaders effective leadership styles and qualities administrator training hiring and induction methods and the scarcity of female and black school leaders Part II looks at the organizational supports underlying school leadership This section examines the balance of authority between the central office and the school site the team approach to management the decision making context and the components of school climate Part III highlights leadership abilities needed by today s school administrators Besides knowing how to manage the school s instructional program and staff administrators must be able to communicate in today s more open sharing organization build coalitions of community groups make meetings more productive and manage time stress and conflict more effectively Concerned about integrating theory with practice the book offers many practical suggestions for using the information presented Accompanying each chapter are extensive bibliographical references that appear at the end of the volume MLH
