Mobilizing an Asian American Community Linda Trinh Võ, 2004 Focusing on San Diego in the post Civil Rights era Linda Trinh V examines the ways Asian Americans drew together despite many differences within the group to construct a community that supports a variety of social economic political and cultural organizations Using historical materials ethnographic fieldwork and interviews Linda Trinh V traces the political strategies that enable Asian Americans to bridge ethnicity generation gender language and class differences among others She demonstrates that mobilization is not a smooth linear process and shows how the struggle over ideologies political strategies and resources affects the development of community organizations V also analyzes how Asian Americans construct their relationship with Asia and how they forge relationships with other racialized communities of color V argues that the situation in San Diego illuminates other localities across the country where Asians face challenges trying to organize find sufficient resources create leaders and define strategies

Chinese American Transnationalism Sucheng Chan, 2006 Chinese American Transnationalism considers the many ways in which Chinese living in the United States during the exclusion era maintained ties with China through a constant interchange of people and economic resources as well as political and cultural ideas This book continues the exploration of the exclusion era begun in two previous volumes Entry Denied which examines the strategies that Chinese Americans used to protest undermine and circumvent the exclusion laws and Claiming America which traces the development of Chinese American ethnic identities Taken together the three volumes underscore the complexities of the Chinese immigrant experience and the ways in which its contexts changed over the sixty one year period

In Defense of Asian American Studies Sucheng Chan, 2005 In Defense of Asian American Studies offers fascinating tales from the trenches on the origins and evolution of the field of Asian American studies as told by one of its founders and most highly regarded scholars Wielding intellectual energy critical acumen and a sly sense of humor Sucheng Chan discusses her experiences on three campuses within the University of California system as Asian American studies was first developed in response to vehement student demand under the rubric of ethnic studies Chan speaks by turns as an advocate and an administrator striving to secure a place for Asian American studies as a teacher working to give Asian American students a voice and white students a perspective on race and racism and as a scholar and researcher still asking her own questions The essays span three decades and close with a piece on the new challenges facing Asian American studies Eloquenty documenting a field of endeavor in which scholarship and identity define and strengthen each other In Defense of Asian American Studies combines analysis personal experience and indispensable practical advice for those engaged in building and sustaining Asian American studies programs

Becoming Chinese American H. Mark Lai, 2004-05-04 Becoming Chinese American discusses the historical and cultural development of Chinese American life in the past century Representing a singular breadth of knowledge about the Chinese American past the volume begins with an historical overview of Chinese migration to the United States followed by critical discussion of the development of key community institutions Chinese language schools newspapers and politics in early Chinese American life Rather than emphasize experiences of discrimination the collection focuses on Chinese American community formation that tested the racially imposed boundaries on their new lives in the United States Written by noted Chinese American scholar Him Mark Lai

the essays in this volume will be of interest to scholars of Asian and Asian American studies as well as American history ethnicity and immigration

Closing the Golden Door Anna Pegler-Gordon, 2021-10-28 The immigration station at New York's Ellis Island opened in 1892 and remained the largest U.S. port for immigrant entry until World War I. In popular memory, Ellis Island is typically seen as a gateway for Europeans seeking to join the great American melting pot. But as this fresh examination of Ellis Island's history reveals, it was also a major site of immigrant detention and exclusion, especially for Chinese, Japanese, and other Asian travelers and maritime laborers who reached New York City from Europe, the Americas, and the Caribbean, and even within the United States. And from 1924 to 1954, the station functioned as a detention camp and deportation center for a range of people deemed undesirable. Anna Pegler-Gordon draws on immigrants' oral histories and memoirs, government archives, newspapers, and other sources to reorient the history of migration and exclusion in the United States. In chronicling the circumstances of those who passed through or were detained at Ellis Island, she shows that Asian exclusion was both larger in scope and more limited in force than has been previously recognized.

Multicultural America Carlos E. Cortés, 2013-08-15 This comprehensive title is among the first to extensively use newly released 2010 U.S. Census data to examine multiculturalism today and tomorrow in America. This distinction is important considering the following NPR report by Eyder Peralta: Based on the first national numbers released by the Census Bureau, the AP reports that minorities account for 90 percent of the total U.S. growth since 2000 due to immigration and higher birth rates for Latinos. According to John Logan, a Brown University sociologist who has analyzed most of the census figures, "The futures of most metropolitan areas in the country are contingent on how attractive they are to Hispanic and Asian populations. Both non-Hispanic whites and blacks are getting older as a group. These groups are tending to fade out," he added. Another demographer, William H. Frey, with the Brookings Institution, told The Washington Post that this has been a pivotal decade: "We're pivoting from a white-black dominated American population to one that is multiracial and multicultural." Multicultural America: A Multimedia Encyclopedia explores this pivotal moment and its ramifications with more than 900 signed entries, not just providing a compilation of specific ethnic groups and their histories but also covering the full spectrum of issues flowing from the increasingly multicultural canvas that is America today. Pedagogical elements include an introduction, a thematic reader's guide, a chronology of multicultural milestones, a glossary, a resource guide to key books, journals, and Internet sites, and an appendix of 2010 U.S. Census Data. Finally, the electronic version will be the only reference work on this topic to augment written entries with multimedia for today's students, with 100 videos with transcripts from Getty Images and Video Vault, the Agence France Press, and Sky News, as reviewed by the media librarian of the Rutgers University Libraries working in concert with the title's editors.

Asian American Autobiographers Guiyou Huang, 2001-05-30 Asian Americans have made many significant contributions to industry, science, politics, and the arts. At the same time, they have made great sacrifices and endured enormous hardships. This reference examines autobiographies and memoirs written by Asian

Americans in the twentieth century Included are alphabetically arranged entries on 60 major autobiographers of Asian descent Some of these such as Meena Alexander and Maxine Hong Kingston are known primarily for their writings others such as Daniel K Inouye are known largely for other achievements which they have chronicled in their autobiographies Each entry is written by an expert contributor and provides a reliable account of the autobiographer s life reviews major autobiographical works and themes including fictionalized autobiographies and autobiographical novels presents a meticulously researched account of the critical reception of these works and closes with a bibliography of primary and secondary sources An introductory essay considers the history and development of autobiography in American literature and culture and discusses issues and themes vital to Asian American autobiographies and memoirs such as family diaspora nationhood identity cultural assimilation racial dynamics and the formation of the Asian American literary canon The volume closes with a selected bibliography
