Reminiscences Of Womens Corps:

Reminiscences of My Life In Camp Suzie King Taylor, 2014-11-20 Suzie King Taylor made a remarkable journey from slavery to freedom through service with the first black Civil War regiment to fight for freedom in America's history. Written toward the end of her life, her memories are not those of a battle veteran though she helped care for plenty of shattered bodies, heard the guns, and saw rebel soldiers at close range. At risk to her life and freedom, she served throughout the war as a teenaged nurse. Assigned as a laundress, she actually did very little laundering but instead played an important role in the care and spirits of black soldiers and their white commanders. Her depth of feeling about the past and her passionate hopes for the future bring her writing to life. This is an important contribution to American history that is made available in this volume for the first time for e-readers. Susie King Taylor 1848-1912 was an African American army nurse with the first black Union troops during the Civil War. She wrote the only memoir of an African American woman who had experience with combat troops. She was also the first African American to teach in a school for former slaves in Georgia. There is great beauty in some of the small details of Suzie King's recollections. She briefly ponders in amazement her ability to acclimate to the horrors of war. It seems strange how our aversion to seeing suffering is overcome in war; how we are able to see the most sickening sights such as men with their limbs blown off and mangled by the deadly shells without a shudder and instead of turning away, how we hurry to assist in alleviating their pain, bind up their wounds, and press the cool water to their parched lips with feelings only of sympathy and pity. She also writes of her delight in becoming proficient at field stripping, cleaning, and shooting a musket. Her final chapter is an eloquent plea for civil rights and a recognition that emancipation's promise was still a distant goal. Every memoir of the American Civil War provides us with another view of the catastrophe that changed the country forever. For the first time, this long out of print volume is available as an affordable, well-formatted book for e-readers and smartphones. Be sure to LOOK INSIDE by clicking the cover above or download a sample. Women, Militarism, and War Jean Bethke Elshtain, Sheila Tobias, 1990 This valuable collection of original papers opens up a long needed dialogue between feminists and the establishment on questions of military values, feminist ideals, and war/peace questions on men, women, and violence. Women in Allied Naval Intelligence in the Second World War Sarah-Louise Miller, 2024-10-17 Closely examining the work of women in the US and British naval services towards Allied naval intelligence during the Second World War, this book focuses on their contributions during the Battle of the Atlantic and Pacific Naval War in order to shed new light on arenas of war from which women's narratives are almost always absent. Including personal testimonies from those involved and surveying a wide cross-section of different roles, Sarah Louise Miller analyses the work of women at every level and rank in the US and British naval services and offers a much wider picture of how they assisted the Allied forces behind closed doors. With exploration of the work of the WRNS and WAVES on developing naval intelligence, this book argues that they played a crucial role in the British and American SIGINT systems and within programs such as those at Bletchley Park and OP 20 G therefore directly impacting the organisation and outcome of Anglo American naval efforts Including analysis of the development of the modern kill chain Miller also re evaluates the effect of the combat taboo to demonstrate that the WRNS and WAVES were in fact at the cutting edge of the emergence of modern warfare

Not Just a Man's War Yihong Pan,2024-09-01 In 1931 Japan began a brutal occupation of Manchuria and in 1937 China and Japan entered a full scale war that ended with Japan s defeat in 1945 The War of Resistance became the Chinese experience of the Second World War Yet women scarcely get a mention in most accounts of the fourteen year conflict Through interviews published reminiscences and oral histories Not Just a Man s War uncovers the extraordinary stories of ordinary Chinese women during the war Communist women speak of fighting as soldiers for a good war and contributing to the party s rise to power Nationalist women attribute their survival to the strength of the human spirit while acknowledging tremendous suffering Women from the working poor and the middle classes describe the hardships of Japanese aggression and in their narratives refuse to be ignored as passive beings In speaking up the victims of sexual violence become survivor activists demanding justice These women demonstrate a striking autonomy regardless of political association socioeconomic status or education By attending to their insights Not Just a Man s War produces a multi faceted inclusive narrative of China s War of Resistance

Reminiscences of a Soldier's Wife Mrs. John A. Logan, 1913

Memories of My Youth, 1844-1865 George Haven Putnam, 1914

Indoctrinating the Youth Jennifer Liu, 2024-01-31 Indoctrinating the Youth examines how the Guomindang GMD or Nationalists sought to maintain control of middle school students and cultivate their political loyalty over the trajectory of the Second Sino Japanese War Chinese Civil War and postwar Taiwan During the Sino Japanese War the Nationalists managed middle school refugee students by merging schools publishing and distributing updated textbooks and assisting students as they migrated to the interior with their principals and teachers In Taiwan the China Youth Corps CYC became a symbol of the regime s successful establishment Tracing Nationalist efforts to indoctrinate ideology and martial spirit Jennifer Liu investigates how GMD leaders Chiang Kai shek and his son Chiang Ching kuo tried to build support among young people in their efforts to stabilize Taiwanese society under their rule By comparing two key youth organizations the Three People s Principles Youth Corps in China and the CYC on Taiwan Liu uses education as a lens to analyze state building in modern China Liu s careful analysis of the inner workings of GMD youth organizations also illuminates the day to day operations of military training in gender segregated upper middle schools including how the government selected instructors and the skills taught to students According to Liu mandatory military training contributed to preventing major protest against the government but the policy was not without critics Intellectuals parents and students voiced their dissent at what they perceived as excessive control by a repressive government and a waste of resources interfering with academics The government mandated civics curriculum including government approved textbooks and standards reveals the characteristics and duties GMD officials believed modern citizens of the next generation should possess Through provisions for refugee students youth organizations military training and civics classes GMD secondary education policy played a critical role in the process of state building in both modern China and Taiwan Skillfully combining archival work in Nanjing and Taipei along with oral interviews with former students and CYC administrators instructors and members Liu offers a unique perspective toward a balanced assessment of Nationalist Party rule
