Politics and Globalisation Martin Shaw,1999 Globalisation is widely understood as a set of processes driven by technological economic and cultural change Few have successfully defined the changing character and role of politics in global change Political institutions such as the nation state have been seen as undermined by globalisation or needing to respond to it This book clarifies the tensions which global change has provoked in our understanding of politics Politics and Globalisation suggests that globalisation is a process which is politically contested and even politically constituted The volume presents five key intellectual and political contests in globalisation the extent and political significance of globalising changes in economy and society how and how far the relations and forms of nation state organisation are transformed whether the given concepts and methods of political science as a discipline can be applied to global and regional politics and whether they require radical reformulation the role and significance of ethical questions in global change whether global change is constituted by or denies radical political agency

The Politics of Globalisation and Polarisation Maurice Mullard,2004-01-01 This book deals with the nature of contemporary globalisation Maurice Mullard aims to show that globalisation is not an inescapable unstoppable process somehow beyond human control rather that it represents and is being shaped by a series of deliberate policy choices and policy decisions The emphasis of this fascinating work is on how these policy choices are creating new forms of economic inequalities and also political elites that distort the democratic process

Global Politics Anthony G. McGrew,Paul Lewis,2013-05-02 This innovative new text is derived from a highly successful Open University course of the same title It takes as a dominant theme the contested issue of globalization the apparent intensification of global patterns of inter dependence and its implications for the autonomy of the modern nation state Following a conceptual introduction which critically examines the theoretical debates framing the study of world politics the work is structured around four key processes of globalization which the authors identify as being the central determinants of contemporary global politics These key processes are the global impact of great power relations the globalizing tendencies of technological innovation the existence of a global economy and the globalizing force of modernity Reflecting this structure the text is organized into four discrete sections Each section explores both theoretically and empirically one of the four processes of globalization Throughout particular attention is paid both to a critical evaluation of these globalizing processes as well as to their consequences for the sovereignty and autonomy of the modern nation state Moreover the authors combine a lucid treatment of theoretical debates with topical case study material to produce a text which is extremely accessible to undergraduate students studying international relations and politics and to those readers with little prior knowledge of world affairs
