External Research ,1967 Arabic and the Media ,2010-03-02 This volume is the first of its kind to deal with a variety of topics by leading scholars related to the use of Arabic in the media The contributors examine patterns of language use in traditional as well as new media types in order to further our understanding of the mechanism at work in the development of modern Arabic both in its standard and colloquial varieties. The first part of this volume is devoted to a close analysis of various aspects of media Arabic: code switching, language variation, orthography and constructions of identity. The second part builds on the first as it asks to what extent does the Arabic used in the media reflect social and linguistic realities of Arabic speaking audiences: which dialects? code switching and sociolects. How can our knowledge of the linguistic reality of the media in the Arab world contribute to teaching the media to foreign students learning Arabic.

Perspectives on Arabic Linguistics XXVIII Youssef A. Haddad, Eric Potsdam, 2016-05-25. This volume makes important contributions to the growing body of descriptive and theoretical studies in Arabic linguistics. It focuses on the rich linguistic work being done on Arabic dialects. The papers on individual dialects draw attention to the micro variation that exists, emphasize that they do not comprise a uniform group and reveal the implications of dialectal variation for linguistic theory. The chapters are distributed over three parts: phonetics and phonology, syntax and sociolinguistics. They address first and second language acquisition, historical linguistics, phonetics, aspects of negation, light verb constructions, raising verbs and sociolinguistic variation. The book is indispensable reading for those working in dialect description, the analysis of Arabic and the Semitic languages and linguistic theory more generally.
