Reflections On Human Development:

Reflections on Human Development Mahbub ul Haq, 1995 Reflections on Human Development explores a new development paradigm whose central focus is human well being. Increases in income are treated as essential means but not as the end of development and not as the sum total of human life. The book discusses development policies and strategies that link economic growth with human lives in various societies. It also analyses the evolution of a new human development index as a far more comprehensive measure of socio economic progress than the traditional measure of gross national product. For the first time a political freedom index is presented too.

An Analysis of Mahbub ul Haq's Reflections on Human Development Riley Quinn, 2017-07-05 What is the ultimate goal of any human society? There have been many answers to this question. But by producing a series of notably well structured arguments, economist Mahbub ul Haq's Reflections on Human Development persuaded readers that the goal should be defined quite simply as the requirement that each society improve the lives of its citizens. If this is the agreed aim, Haq continues, then economic development should be designed to support human development. His well structured reasoning helped development economists recalibrate much of what had previously been regarded as self evident: that economic productivity was the main barometer of social well being. The work had a profound effect and Haq's thinking helped produce a new understanding of what development actually meant. Haq conscientiously mapped out arguments and counter arguments to persuade readers that development did not simply mean an increase in productivity but rather an increase in human development: the capability of people to live the lives they want to. By bringing the abstract back to the concrete, Haq reevaluated the neoliberal reasoning that suggested economic development necessarily benefitted everybody. And by virtue of his strong command of reasoning, Haq showed how economic development provided no guarantees that rich people would spend money on improving health, education or other human development outcomes for the poor.

Reflections on Human Development Mahbub ul Haq, 1999

Reflections on Human Development Riley Quinn, 2017-07-04 Considered his most important work, Mahbub ul Haq's Reflections on Human Development appeared at the end of his impressive career in international development and consolidates his revolutionary contribution to the discipline. Haq argues that the goal of any society should be to improve the lives of its citizens; therefore economic development should support that aim. Economists should use indicators such as life expectancy and education levels to assess a country's overall level of human development so citizens can live lives they value. Thanks to Haq's work, prioritizing human development rather than pure economic productivity is now seen as an agreed necessity within the field.
