Remapping Early Modern England Kevin M. Sharpe, 2000-05 A collection of new and previously published essays on the culture of the English Renaissance state Remapping Early Modern England Kevin Sharpe, 2000-05-01 It is now over twenty years since revisionist history began to transform our understanding of early modern England In Remapping Early Modern England Kevin Sharpe proposes a new cultural turn in the study of the English Renaissance state In contrast to the narrow definitions and debates of both revisionist and postrevisionist historians he urges a broader interdisciplinary approach to the texts of authority their performance and reception This collection will help refigure our understanding of the history and politics of the period and the materials and methods of its study Reading the Roman Republic in Early Modern England Freyja Cox Jensen, 2012-08-03 Placing the reading of history in its cultural and educational context and examining the processes by which ideas about ancient Rome circulated this study provides the first assessment of the significance of Roman history broadly conceived in early modern England Concepts of Creativity in

Seventeenth-century England Rebecca Herissone, Alan Howard, 2013 The first genuinely interdisciplinary study of creativity in early modern England In the seventeenth century the concept of creativity was far removed from most of the fundamental ideas about the creative act notions of human imagination inspiration originality and genius that developed in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Instead in this period students learned their crafts by copying and imitating past masters and did not consciously seek to break away from tradition Most new material was made on the instructions of a patron and had to conform to external expectations and basic tenets that we tend to take for granted such as the primacy and individuality of the author were apparently considered irrelevant in some contexts The aim of this interdisciplinary collection of essays is to explore what it meant to create buildings and works of art music and literature in seventeenth century England and to investigate the processes by which such creations came into existence Through a series of specific case studies the book highlights a wide range of ideas beliefs and approaches to creativity that existed in seventeenth century England and places them in the context of the prevailing intellectual social and cultural trends of the period In so doing it draws into focus the profound changes that were emerging in the understanding of human creativity in early modern society transformations that would eventually lead to the development of a more recognisably modern conception of the notion of creativity The contributors work in and across the fields of literary studies history musicology history of art and history of architecture and their work collectively explores many of the most fundamental questions about creativity posed by the early modern English creative arts REBECCA HERISSONE is Head of Music and Senior Lecturer in Musicology at the University of Manchester ALAN HOWARD is Lecturer in Music at the University of East Anglia and Reviews Editor for Eighteenth Century Music Contributors Linda Phyllis Austern Stephanie Carter John Cunningham Marina Daiman Kirsten Gibson Raphael Hallett Rebecca Herissone Anne Hultzsch Freyja Cox Jensen Stephen Rose Andrew R Walkling Amanda

Zwicker, 2010-12-23 Andrew Marvell is one of the greatest English lyric poets of the seventeenth century and one of its leading polemicists This Companion brings a set of fresh questions and perspectives to bear on the varied career and diverse writings of a remarkable writer and elusive man Drawing on important new editions of Marvell's poetry and of his prose scholars of both history and literature examine Marvell's work in the contexts of Restoration politics and religion and of the seventeenth century publishing world in both manuscript and print

The essays individually and collectively address Marvell within his literary and cultural traditions and communities his almost prescient sense of the economy and ecology of the country his interest in visual arts and architecture his opaque political and spiritual identities his manners in controversy and polemic the character of his erotic and transgressive imagination and his biography still full of intriguing gaps
