The Role of Subject Knowledge in the Early Years of Schooling Carol Aubrey, 2022-11-21 Originally published in 1994 the aim of the authors was to provide a comprehensive introduction to recent advances in research which had been made in learning and teaching in the early years of schooling at the time Emphasis is placed on how subject knowledge is constructed or acquired and the organization of teaching to promote the learner's active construction of meaning through the integration of new knowledge with existing understanding The National Curriculum is founded in subject knowledge though little examination appears to have been made of this in terms of how subject matter is transformed into the content of teaching that young children can understand It this remains for the teacher to develop instruction through the creation of a curriculum content and sequence which both reflects and advances the structure of existing forms of representation problem solving and knowledge which the child brings to the school The whole thrust of the book challenges the conventional early years ideology with its emphasis on child centred concrete and empirical approaches to learning with a view of teaching which is concerned with making sense of children's understanding and allowing their active construction of knowledge and information processing to develop expertise in context The Role of Subject Knowledge in the Early Years of Schooling Carol Aubrey, 1994 National Curriculum In The Early Years Dr Theo Cox, Theo Cox, 2014-05-01 The child centred principles of early years education which emphasize play and holistic learning are being challenged by the implementation of a subject based National Curriculum The contributors to this book explore this challenge and offer some ways of meeting it practically and productively Issues covered include pedagogical issues such as the cross curricular topic based teaching teacher's attitudes to subject knowledge assessment issues including baseline assessment at the age of five and parental attitudes to the National Curriculum and its content at Key Stage 1 Researching the Early Years Continuum Pat Broadhead, 1996 Makes a case for considering the years from birth to eight as a continuum of development and learning The text draws on research undertaken by nursery and primary teachers in conjunction with LEAs and by HE staff Learning in the Early Years 3-7 Jeni Riley, 2007-06-26 This second edition book is a welcome contribution to the early years literature base providing much needed information and a somewhat innovative response concerning how effectively to translate the Early Years Foundation Stage into practice Early Years This second edition of Learning in the Early Years has been fully updated to bring it in line with the Statutory Framework for the Early Years Foundation Stage The presentation and style is very readable and accessible and as such the book provides an excellent resource for students and experienced early years practitioners alike Early Years Update Praise for the First Edition It was a joy to read this book This book provides a wealth of ideas for reflection as well as guidance to promote knowledge and skills essential in early years teaching Dario Pellegrini Educational Psychologist I found it hard to put it down I particularly liked the way it followed through into Key Stage 1 Who Minds An important contribution to difficult work Elizabeth Quintero The Steinhardt School of Education New York teaching children aged three to eight years and also on their extensive research with children in the home nursery and school. The authors explain the development and range of young children's mathematical marks and visual representations showing how children make mental connections between their own early marks and subsequent abstract mathematical symbolism and go on to develop their own written methods. Combining theory and practice, this acclaimed book demonstrates how children's own mathematical graphics are highly creative and show deep levels of thinking. The authors show how this is the key to success in school mathematics and to higher levels of achievement. The authors are winners of TACTYC's 2003 Jenefer Joseph Award for the Creative Arts 3-8 awarded for their innovative work with children on mathematical graphics. SAGE
